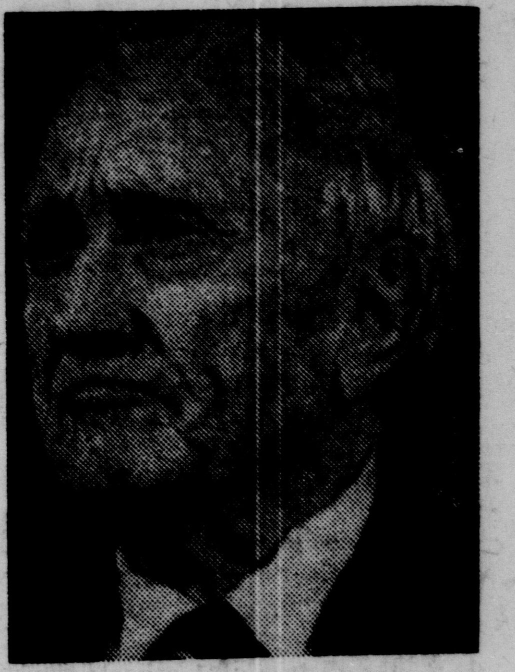
Douglas, 77, quits Supreme Court



WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Broken by the "incessant pain" of ill health, Justice William O. Douglas retired Wednesday after 36 years as a liberal bellwether of the Supreme Court. President Ford, who once tried to impeach him, praised Douglas as a lion of the bench.

The departure of the trim, white-haired justice reduced the "liberal wing" of the nine-member high court to two members — William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall, both veterans of former Chief Justice Earl Warren's court who often sided with Douglas in cases involving individual liberties.

Douglas, 77, has been fighting to regain his health since a stroke he suffered Dec. 31.

AN IRON MAN who developed a reputation for physical vigor to match his libertarian judicial views, he had lived for years with a pacemaker running his heart and had overcome the effects of polio as a child.

Since the stroke, he had attended court in a wheelchair, taking almost no part in the verbal cut and thrust of the hearings and usually retiring early. Finally, on Wednesday, he conceded physical defeat in a moving letter to Ford, his old political enemy.

"I have been bothered by incessant and demanding pain which depletes my energy to the extent that I have been unable to shoulder my full share of the burden," Douglas said.

He said he had hoped he could master the handicap of the stroke and return to full participation in court work.

"I have learned, however, after these last two months, that it would be inadvisable for me to attempt to carry on the duties required of a member of the Court," he said.

" . . . I hereby retire at the close of this day from regular active service as an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States."

FORD, WHO AS A congressman spearheaded a 1970 drive to impeach Douglas on a variety of charges, accepted the retirement decision with high tribute for Douglas as one of the great figures of Supreme Court history.

"I want you to know first of all of my warm admiration for your valiant effort to carry on the duties of your high office, despite your recent illness, with the same courage and independent will that have characterized your long service to your country," he said in a return letter to Douglas.

"Your distinguished years of service are unequaled in all the history

Key land owners study business plans

Key downtown property owners are expected to review alternate plans for revaitlizing the central business district at a meeting tonight.

Representatives of the 1st Arlington National Bank, Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan and other businessmen have been invited to the meeting of the village's special committee on business district parking problems.

Trustee August C. Bettman, chairman of the committee, said Wednesday support from land owners is critical to the success of any downtown redevelopment plan the committee might eventually recommend.

"WE HAVE GOT TO have cooperation from the key people downtown. We need their moral support and backing. No downtown plan will ever get off the ground without the support of these people," Bettman said.

Downtown businesses probably would be asked to pay all, or part of the estimated $2 million cost of constructing a multi-story, 500-car parking garage in the business district. A subcommittee has been studying means of financing a garage through various special taxes.

Although the Bettman committee was established by the village board to look specifically at parking problems downtown, the chairman said a parking garage can not be considered outside of a total redevelopment plan for the business district.

"It will be almost impossible to come up with a recommendation (on the garage) without looking at the downtown as a whole," he said.

VARIOUS LOCATIONS for the garage have been discussed. One of the most frequently-mentioned sites is the village-owned property between Dunton and Vail avenues south of Campbell Street.

Members of the Arlington Heights plan commission and village board also have been invited to attend tonight's meeting, which will start at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Bettman said that in the weeks ahead, the committee will study the 10-alternative downtown plans prepared by Village Planner Joe Kesler and attempt to come up with a recommendation to the village board.

Earl Johnson, executive vice president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, said he encouraged all merchants interested in the downtown redevelopment to attend the meeting.

10 'plans' ready for action

Village planner Joe Kesler says he does not have a plan to revive downtown Arlington Heights. He has 10 of them.

"I should probably write 'This is not a plan' over every one of these," Kesler said Wednesday pointing to the maps, charts and reports that he has prepared over the last six months. "I would prefer to call these concepts that can be the basis for a complete plan."

Despite all the self-effacing, Kesler has a great deal of information to present at tonight's meeting on downtown planning.

Proposals on traffic, downtown malls, cost and financing for parking garages and futuristic high-rise apartment buildings over the railroad tracks are mapped out on a 20-year time line.

"I'M OPTIMISTIC that these things can be done. Whether they will be done still has to be decided. It's going to cost money."

The first planning decision should be whether to perpetuate the existing development of separate north and south side business districts divided by the railroad tracks and Northwest Highway.

Kesler prefers developing a single business district ringed rather than bisected by a major highway. A Northwest Highway bypass is a key element in his proposals.

Kesler says there should not be one, but four parking garages for the central business district. But in a bow to economic realities, he talks about building one garage initially.

"My biggest fear is that this garage will be built in the wrong place," says Kesler, adding that there are many examples that show a parking garage alone is not enough to revitalize an ailing downtown.

AT TODAY'S prices, a 500-car garage would cost $1.5 to $2 million, he estimates. Drawing on money from the village's parking fund, a special tax on downtown business property, parking revenue bonds and a small real estate tax increase, Kesler says a

Standing on principle fine—but not at $1,000 per day

Gerald Marcy was going to stand up for what he thought was right, until he found out it would cost him $1,000 a day.

Marcy, 111 N. Kennicott Ave., was ready to go to the mat over a 52-cent late charge assessed against him by the Laseke Disposal Co. — a charge Marcy thought was "ridiculous." When it was all finished, he probably still thought it was ridiculous but he swallowed hard and paid up.

The Marcy-Laseke dispute had all the earmarks of a great confrontation: Federal efficiency, one man against the odds, government arbitration and a final resolution around the conference table.

IT ALL BEGAN Aug. 29 when Marcy returned from his Wisconsin summer home to find his regular bill from Laseke, which has the exclusive hauling contract within the village. The bill was due by the first of September.

No problem, he thought, as he dropped the check in the mail Aug. 30. But little did he reckon with the postal service and holiday deliveries.

When he received his next bill, he noticed a 52-cent late charge because his payment from the previous bill was not received until Sept. 3, two days late.

"I called Laseke and asked about the late charge and I was told it was because they hadn't gotten my check until the third. There was no mail service over Labor Day. I don't think I should be penalized because of the mail," he said.

WHEN AN IMPASSE develops between Laseke and a customer, the village can provide arbitration to settle it. It doesn't happen often; the Marcy question was only the third in the past year.

George Weinand, village health director, chaired the Wednesday session between Marcy and Al Bruder of the disposal company.

It wasn't the 52-cents, Marcy said, it was the "principle" involved in the matter. There was no mail delivery, he said, and therefore he couldn't help it if his payment got in a day or two Bruder had principle on his side as well, he said. It was company policy, and in accord with the village con-

Relax—no blizzard in sight

Those wandering snowflakes that dropped around Chicagoland late Wednesday afternoon were not the start of this winter's first major storm.

And except for some remaining flakiness today, no snow is forecast throughout the next seven days.

"The ground surface is quite warm so I doubt if you'll see any significant accumulation," said a spokesman for the U.S. Weather Service in Chicago. "You might see some whiteness on the grass but we don't anticipate any great amount."

However, the small storm was expected to move across Lake Michigan, dropping measurable snow in northern Indiana and southern Michigan.

Chicago temperatures will stretch into the 40s today and drop into the mid-20s tonight. A steady warming trend will begin Friday with temperatures in the 50s. Sunny skies and moderate temperatures are forecast for the weekend.

Strike in Dist. 63; schools stay open

Teachers were on strike Wednesday in East Maine Dist. 63 but schools remained open. The strike is expected to continue today although contract talks were still in progress at Herald press time. Substitute teachers from as far away as DeKalb were called into the district's 11 schools Wednesday. The substitute teachers were bused into the schools from the Golf Mill Shopping Center parking lot where they were heckled by the striking teachers. Many of the substitutes indicated they would not return to the classrooms todav if the strike continues. Outstanding issues include salaries, fringe benefits, personal leave days and guidelines for staff cuts and transfers.

Traffic deaths down in state

There were 23 per cent fewer traffic fatalities on Illinois highways this October than during the same month last year, according to provisional reports released Wednesday by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation and state police. There were 149 traffic deaths this October, compared with 193 in October 1974, the report said. For the first 10 months of this year, however, 1,687 deaths have been reported on the state's roadways — an increase of 5.5 per cent over the 1,599 fatalities logged at the same point in 1974.

Prospect Hts. vote Jan. 31

A referendum to determine if Prospect Heights should be incorporated into a city has tentatively been set for Jan. 31. The Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. scheduled the referendum following last week's Circuit Court ruling that the large unincorporated area in Wheeling Township could become its own city. The date, time and polling places for the special election must be approved by the Circuit Court.

Fines, not jail, for crimes?

Decriminalization of bad check writing and shoplifting has been proposed by Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy. He explained a stiff fine might do more to stop the writing of bad checks and shoplifting than a jail sentence in the highly commercial community. Conroy said he will discuss the legality of adopting the proposed ordinances under the village's home-rule powers with the village attorney.

Walker pushes to sustain veto

Gov. Daniel Walker stepped up efforts Wednesday to get additional public support for his campaign to have the Illinois Senate sustain his veto of education funds.

Aides to the governor said a draft version of the speech he will present this afternoon on statewide television will push for the Senate to sustain the veto and not attempt to strike a compromise with either the General Assembly or Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Walker has lined up at least four Illinois television stations to carry the address today at 4:55 p.m. Chicago stations WMAQ-TV, WLS-TV and WGN-TV have agreed to carry the speech. A station in Rockford and several Downstate stations also are expected to carry the speech.

Walker has also taken part in several radio programs during the past few days in an effort to bring across his message that an override of his veto of $116 million in state funds for education will mean an increase in the state income tax.

PREPARATION OF the speech has delayed comment on U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson's response to Walker's request for help in the override fight.

The senator reportedly told Walker that he would be willing to help settle the matter if Walker really wanted his help.

The text of Stevenson's response to the governor has not been released, but it was learned that Stevenson suggested a broad based inquiry be launched into the state's entire fiscal condition to determine if other funding obligations can be met.

In related developments, eight state senators announced a compromise proposal Thursday that would provide more than $30 million to school districts around the state. The senators have asked Walker to call a special session of the General Assembly next week to consider the measure.

And the Ill. Chamber of Commerce sent letters to its 19,000 members Wednesday calling on them to fight the override attempt.

Rumsfeld to continue Schlesinger policies

DONALD RUMSFELD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald Rumsfeld, President Ford's choice for defense secretary, indicated Wednesday he advised Ford not to fire James Schlesinger and said he would continue Schlesinger's policies.

Referring to policies espoused by Schlesinger, Rumsfeld told the Senate Armed Services Committee he too favors restoration of some Pentagon budget cuts and he too believes detente with the Soviets must be complemented by strong defenses.

"I know Jim Schlesinger," Rumsfeld told the committee, considering whether to recommend confirmation of his appointment. "I admired him. And I had nothing to do with his dismissal."

Rumsfeld said that when Ford asked his opinion of how to handle cabinet conflicts that were disturbing him, "I gave him views different than those which eventually prevailed."

Ford ultimated fired Schlesinger to relieve "tensions" within his cabinet — mainly between Schlesinger and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger — and to establish "my own team" in the Defense Department and other critical agencies. He chose Rumsfeld, then his White House chief of staff and a former Republican congressman, to succeed Schlesinger.

On another controversial issue, Rumsfeld said he was "not under consideration" as a possible vice presidential running mate for Ford.

Administration sources say Ford fired Schlesinger partly because of his public opposition to Pentagon budget cuts and partly because of his disagreements with Kissinger over detente policy.

Under sharp questioning, Rumsfeld said "I know of no major policy differences'' between himself and Schlesinger.

"The President, visiting with me as recently as yesterday, told me that in matters relating to the Department of Defense he will — and I shall — fully represent the department within the council of government."

On policy issues, he said detente must be pursued, but "the danger is that people will take the attitude that we can relax our readiness" — basically, the Schlesinger view that detente must be underpinned by strong defenses to offset Soviet military might.

He also said he favored restoring $2.6 billion of the funds that a congressional committee has slashed from the prospective Pentagon budget. Schlesinger got into political trouble by denouncing those cuts publicly.

Rumsfeld also said he would continue Schlesinger's overhaul of nuclear targeting policy.

Jetliner aborts takeoff at Kennedy; all aboard safe

NEW YORK (UPI) — A DC10 jetliner bound for Saudi Arabia with airline personnel to man charter flights for Arab pilgrims to Mecca burst into flames on takeoff at Kennedy International Airport Wednesday when a flock of birds was sucked into an engine.

The pilot halted the takeoff in a cloud of black smoke and flying tires, saving the 129 passengers and 10 crewmen aboard from death or serious injury as flames engulfed the three-engine Overseas National Airways craft.

An eyewitness said the plane "dropped a flaming engine" about 200 yards from the end of a runway just as it was lifting off the ground.

The passengers and crew — all employes of the airline — were evacuated safely by firemen, Port Authority Police and airport personnel. The airport was immediately closed to air traffic.

An Overseas National statement said the company's employes were en route to Jidda, Saudi Arabia, "to perform charter flights for the Hadj, the pilgrimage to Mecca."

The airline said the flight, No. 032, was aborted "when birds were ingested into the right engine on the takeoff roll . . .

"The engine exploded and dropped to the runway. The aircraft was brought to a stop and almost immediately engulfed in flames but not before everybody aboard was safe," the statement said.

Steedman Hinckley, board chairman of Overseas, said the pilot, Capt. Harry Davis, "saw the birds just before they hit.

"As soon as the birds hit, the engine burst into fire and apparently dropped off the wing. Flames came back over the wing and the wing was burning before the plane came to rest," he said.

"One obvious recommendation that comes out of it — and it's really an old one — is to find better ways to scare the birds off the runways," Hinckley added.

Airport officials said about 50 persons, most of them police officers and firemen who took part in the rescue, were treated for minor injuries at the airport's medical office.

The incident occurred about 1:10 p.m. on Runway 31-L, in the same general vicinity where an Eastern Air Lines flight crashed last June 24, killing 113 persons in the worst commercial single plane crash in American history.

In another incident, Wednesday night, an Eastern Airlines jet landing in a heavy rain with 131 persons aboard slid partially off the runway at Raleigh-Durham airport when one of its landing gears apparently collapsed. No one was injured and there was no fire.

New N.Y. default plan presented

Gov. Hugh Carey said Wednesday that he would present to the state legislature a $6-billion plan to avoid default by New York City, the city of Yonkers and four state agencies. Carey said the plan, which is being examined by "the highest officers of our government," involves increased state and city taxes, budget cuts and a seven-month moratorium on payment in full of $1.6 billion in New York City bonds. Carey said he was optimistic that the plan would succeed and would get some federal assistance.

Storm seals fate of ship's crewmen

A winter snowstorm and winds up to 50 miles per hour all but sealed the fate of 29 crewmen aboard the Edmund Fitzgerald which sank in a wind storm on Lake Superior, Coast Guard officials said Wednesday. The storm prevented helicopters and small boats from participating in the search for possible survivors. "The chances are very slim there are any survivors. That's an optimistic view," said Ensign J. H. Hawvermale.

'Squeaky' disappointed by misfiring pistol

Lynette Fromme was "disappointed" when the .45-caliber automatic pistol she thrust at President Ford did not fire, a state legislative aid testified Wednesday. Prosecution witness Jerry Fox, who helped Secret Service agents disarm Miss Fromme, said she was wrestled to the ground and shouted: "You should be working for a real public servant. He's not a real public servant." Miss Fromme, 27, boycotted her trial for the third consecutive day.

Rabin calls urgent Jewish meeting

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin Wednesday called an urgent emergency meeting of world Jewish leaders in Jerusalem to map a global counter campaign against political and diplomatic attacks on Zionism. The call followed Rabin's bitter denunciation of the anti-Zionist and pro-Palestinian resolutions passed by the U.N. General Assembly on Monday. A government communique said the Jewish summit meeting would be held before the end of the month.

Cuban troops arrive in Luanda

Political sources in Angola said Wednesday that about 1,200 Cuban troops have disembarked in Luanda harbor to bolster the defenses of the hard-pressed, two-day-old Marxist government threatened by attacking opposition forces. The Soviet-backed government fought off an attack near the capital, but an armored column advancing from the south is threatening to link up with troops north of Luanda and choke off the city, diplomats said.

Ford would be given flexibility

Conferees approve oil price plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate energy conferees Wednesday approved an oil pricing plan they said would avert a veto threat from President Ford and give him more flexibility for raising prices.

The pricing provision was their last big issue. The action left minor differences to be worked out between House and Senate versions of a comprehensive long-term energy policy that includes authority to ration gasoline, continuation of fuel distribution regulations, some required conservation steps, and mandatory fuel mileage standards for autos.

The initial impact of the oil price plan, which would set a starting ceiling average of $7.66 for domestic oil, could be to force down the price of gasoline and other oil products by 3.5 cents a gallon, the conference staff estimated. The current average is $8.75.

After 20 months, prices would rise to their current levels, and at the end of the 40-month program they would be up by 3 to 4 cents, the staff said.

Those estimates would hold if all else remained the same, including the flow of imports.

Conferees had settled on a pricing plan last Thursday, but reconsidered that Wednesday and substituted a compromise.

"We have been struggling a long time," Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said. "Our goal in this is to protect the economy and do something about prices, at a time when the fragile nature of the economy, I think, is fairly obvious."

Spokesmen for the Federal Energy Administration told conferees they would reluctantly recommend Ford accept the plan.

The price plan allows the president to raise, by as much as 10 per cent a year, the price of oil from the $7.66 average, but he would have to base the increases on inflation and a necessary incentive to produce more oil. After Feb. 15, 1977, the president could suggest increases higher than 10 per cent, subject to congressional veto.

The plan conferees approved last Thursday had a lower initial ceiling and was more rigid in what the president could do within the averages. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, wanted Alaskan oil exempted from the price rules, as an incentive for those estimated 10 billion barrels of oil to flow soon to the "lower 48" states. But conferees turned down his proposal.

Under law that expires Saturday, "old oil," based on the 1972 production rate, is held at $5.25 a barrel and "new oil," produced above the 1972 rate, is free of controls.

Ford ponders action against Zionism vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is considering action against non-Arab countries that voted for a U.N. General Assembly resolution condemning Zionism as a form of racism, the White House said Wednesday.

"The President is reviewing the vote and considering possible courses of action," Press Secretary Ron Nessen told a news briefing.

He said Ford has exempted Egypt and other Arab nations needed for the Middle East peace settlement his administration is seeking.

To cut aid to those Arab nations would be to "play into the hands" of enemies of America's Middle East peace policy, Nessen said.

The press secretary declined to specify which of the 72 countries that voted for the anti-Israeli resolution were the object of the possible action.

He said America's relations with each foreign nation is a "complex mixture of factors" and each country's case is different.

Nessen also said Ford has "no objection" to the Senate deciding to review U.S. participation in the United Nations. But he said Ford believes America must stay inside the world body.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, meanwhile, said any action by the United States to impose economic sanctions on countries supporting the U.N. resolution equating Zionism with racism would be a "major decision."

Kissinger said that any decision on retaliatory measures against the countries would have to be made on an individual basis. He added that no such decision had been made.

"We must not now swing to the other extreme of not recognizing the benefits of the U. N. to the United States," he said.

- The Senate Banking Committee Wednesday rejected the nomination of former Rep. Ben Blackburn of Georgia to head the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It was only the third defeat of a major presidential appointee in this century. Blackburn was criticized for his opposition to civil rights bills during eight years in the House, and for his attitude toward minorities and the poor.

- Maureen Reagan, daughter of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, says she does not want her father to run for the Republican presidential nomination. Miss Reagan, 31, said, "It is for reasons, all personal and very selfish. They come after eight years of having to make phone calls to arrange appointments to speak to my own father." The aspiring actress also said: "Furthermore, I have a career of my own, and I am getting awfully sick of being known as somebody's kid."

U.S. leads world in cloak-dagger aircraft: Jane's

LONDON (UPI) — The United States leads the world in development of "James Bond" type unmanned planes for use of cloak-and-dagger missions against Communist bloc countries, the authoritative Jane's All the World's Aircraft said Thursday.

In its 1975-76 edition it listed nearly 100 such aircraft developed by the United States compared with only two known unmanned target planes built by the Soviet Union.

"They have a cloak-and-dagger quality to rival James Bond at his best," Jane's editor John W. R. Taylor said.

Jane's argued, too, that Soviet technology remains inferior to that of the West, although it said the Russians may beat the world in the race to put the first supersonic airliner into regular service.

"Suggestions that Soviet technology is inferior to the West in any field are incomprehensible to some people in view of the USSR's exploits in space," Jane's said. "However, the evidence of such shortcomings is incontrovertible, ranging from Egyptian rejection of the TU154 tri-jet airliner to setbacks in the Soyuz and Mars exploration space programs."

But it said Tupolev's T144 supersonic transport may yet start regular airline services before the Anglo-French Concorde which is scheduled to begin regular commercial flights in January, 1975.

Jane's said that cloak-and-dagger missions, for which unmanned planes or RPV's (Radio Propelled Vehicles) have been developed by the United States, include patrolling the Iron Curtain frontier in Europe and the Arctic Ocean, picking up electronic data, marking targets, flying "Kamikaze" suicide attacks and even taking part in aerial dogfights.

One such unmanned plane now being developed by the Boeing Aerospace Co., Jane's said, will be used for monitoring radar emissions along the western border of Communist East Germany and Soviet missile firings from Russia's northern missile test site.

It said this unmanned craft probably will take over monitoring flights over the Arctic now being carried out by Boeing RC135 manned planes from Elmendorf Air Force Base in Alaska.

Another unmanned plane, being developed by Teledyne Ryan, will be capable of an altitude of more than 55,000 feet, an endurance of more than 20 hours and can carry a payload of 700-1,500 pounds, Jane's said.

It said Israel used the Teledyne Ryan AQM34 decoy plane frequently during the 1973 "Yom Kippur war" to draw the fire of Arab missiles.

U.S. leads world in cloak-dagger aircraft: Jane's

LONDON (UPI) — The United States leads the world in development of "James Bond" type unmanned planes for use of cloak-and-dagger missions against Communist bloc countries, the authoritative Jane's All the World's Aircraft said Thursday.

In its 1975-76 edition it listed nearly 100 such aircraft developed by the United States compared with only two known unmanned target planes built by the Soviet Union.

"They have a cloak-and-dagger quality to rival James Bond at his best," Jane's editor John W. R. Taylor said.

Jane's argued, too, that Soviet technology remains inferior to that of the West, although it said the Russians may beat the world in the race to put the first supersonic airliner into regular service.

"Suggestions that Soviet technology is inferior to the West in any field are incomprehensible to some people in view of the USSR's exploits in space," Jane's said. "However, the evidence of such shortcomings is inconvertible, ranging from Egyptian rejection of the TU154 tri-jet airliner to setbacks in the Soyuz and Mars exploration space programs."

But it said Tupolev's T144 supersonic transport may yet start regular airline services before the Anglo-French Concorde which is scheduled to begin regular commercial flights in January, 1975.

Jane's said that cloak-and-dagger missions, for which unmanned planes or RPV's (Radio Propelled Vehicles) have been developed by the United States, include patrolling the Iron Curtain frontier in Europe and the Arctic Ocean, picking up electronic data, marking targets, flying "Kamikaze" suicide attacks and even taking part in aerial dogfights.

One such unmanned plane now being developed by the Boeing Aerospace Co., Jane's said, will be used for monitoring radar emissions along the western border of Communist East Germany and Soviet missile firings from Russia's northern missile test site.

It said this unmanned craft probably will take over monitoring flights over the Arctic now being carried out by Boeing RC135 manned planes from Elmendorf Air Force Base in Alaska.

Another unmanned plane, being developed by Teledyne Ryan, will be capable of an altitude of more than 55,000 feet, an endurance of more than 20 hours and can carry a payload of 700-1,500 pounds, Jane's said.

It said Israel used the Teledyne Ryan AQM34 decoy plane frequently during the 1973 "Yom Kippur war" to draw the fire of Arab missiles.

of the court."

Douglas was appointed to the bench by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939 and served longer than any other justice.

FORD'S PRAISE Wednesday was a far cry from the blistering attack he leveled against Douglas when, as House Republican leader in 1970, he accused the justice of espousing "hippie-yippie style revolution" and demanded he be impeached.

One of the issues in that unsuccessful impeachment drive was Douglas' authorship of a book of political and social criticism at the height of the great domestic upheavals over the Vietnam War. The book was titled, "Points of Rebellion."

But there was a variety of other underlying issues, judicial and political, and the fact that Douglas' lifestyle as a man of outspoken liberal political views, a freewheeling, outdoorsman's manner, and an unconventional lovelife — his current wife, Cathy, is his fourth — simply rubbed many critics the wrong way.

An opponent of the Vietnam War, he once ordered a halt to the Nixon administration's bombing of Cambodia. A devoted hiker who wandered on mountains, he spoke out loud and often in behalf of the ecology movement.

His record on the court is strewn with dissenting opinions and rulings that held the Constitution is designed to protect the ordinary citizen and allow him to express his beliefs freely — including, for those so inclined, through utterances and publications thought pornographic by others.

Nearly always, he came down on the free speech, free behavior, give-a-break to the defendant side of the issue — with the majority in the Warren Court days and, more recently, in the minority of the Burger court.

DOUGLAS' ENDLESS rebellion against majority views, in fact, led him into two impeachment situations.

The first came in 1953, when he granted a stay of execution to convicted atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg at the height of the "McCarthy" era of Cold War anti-communism. That impeachment attempt, too, failed, but so did Douglas' attempts to save the Rosenbergs. They died in the electric chair.

Since the retirement of Warren and the court appointments of President Richard M. Nixon, the court has become dominated by justices considered more conservative in their judicial and social views and more the "strict constructionists" of constitutional law than Douglas.

Besides Douglas, Burger, Marshall and Brennan, the other five justices are Byron R. White, Harry Blackmun, Lewis Powell, William H. Rehnquist and Potter Stewart.

SINCE HIS STROKE, Douglas' voice has been stilled to a whisper — literally, with attendants wheeling him in and out of sessions and his only comments being an occasional softly spoken aside in the ear of Burger, to his left, or Stewart, to his right.

Burger, whose own judicial philosophy is a day-for-night contrast with Douglas, saw his colleague off with honor and fondness for the courage of his physical struggle.

Douglas, Burger said, "has struggled valiantly to overcome the limitations imposed by illness and his courage and willpower have earned him the admiration of his colleagues on the Court."

At the White House, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford had not decided on whom to nominate as Douglas' successor.

Justice Douglas draws platitudes

From Herald news services

William O. Douglas, a gruff outdoorsman and uncompromising egalitarian who believes the Constitution was written to protect the powerless, made the toughest decision of his 77 years Wednesday when he resigned from the Supreme Court.

Douglas — who conquered polio as a child, storms of controversy through most of his long years on the bench, and recently a stroke — retired to the plaudits of Congress and his colleagues.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said Douglas "has struggled valiantly to overcome the limitations imposed by illness and his courage and willpower have earned him the admiration of his colleagues on the court. We devoutly hope that once relieved of the taxing work of the Court, his health will improve and he will again be able to pursue the wide range of interests that have commanded his interest all his life and for the 37 years on the Court."

JUSTICE POTTER Stewart added Douglas "stands uniquely alone in the history of our court and our country . . . I have long admired his intellect, his independence, his energy, and his vision.

"I salute him now as a man of extradordinary courage."

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi paid high tribute to Douglas as a "brilliant and creative judge" whose contribution "in every field of law places him not only among the few most influential justices of our time, but also in the history of the Supreme Court of the United States."

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., architect of the Senate's rejection of two high court nominees of former President Richard M. Nixon, called Douglas "one of the great figures of American jurisprudence" who will be "sorely missed."

Finding a successor of comparable quality, Bayh said, "will be a most formidable task. The responsibility which the President and those of us in the Senate have to nominate and confirm a new justice is a somber burden which cannot be lightly undertaken if the high quality of excellence and integrity demanded by the Supreme Court is to be maintained."

IN OTHER tributes:

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called Doublas "one of the great liberal voices of twentieth century America . . . his dissents kept the flame of the First Amendment alive in the dark days of the McCarthy era."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "Personal freedom and political liberty have been the watchwords of his career. We are all more free today because of him."

Dist. 23 withholds OK for housing complex

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education members decided Wednesday night to withhold approval of a proposed housing development which would add about 90 students to Dist. 23 schools until a potential drainage problem can be checked out.

The single-family development of 105 homes, Courts of Russetwood, is planned by Szczesny Builders for an area north of Thomas Avenue and east of Waterman Avenue in Arlington Heights.

The houses are scheduled to be completed in four to seven years.

The board declined to approve the development which is pending in the village until the builders' engineer could be contacted to ensure that two planned retention basins will not drain across district property.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL Jerry McGovern said the district ran into a costly problem in the past with water from the Memco Store area draining onto school grounds.

Wil Battles, speaking for the builders, said their engineer would contact the board concerning drainage.

Referring to a sidewalk planned on Willow Road, the board suggested the builders ask two homeowners whose property divides the development to allow the sidewalk to cross their property so an unbroken stretch of pavement would be provided.

The builders presented a payment schedule for a donation to the district of $10,500 or $100 per home. This will cover the tax lag from when the school district gets children from the development and when it gets the tax dollars. They proposed payment in the form of a $5,000 downpayment with the remainder due within 15 months.

The board had originally requested payment of the full $10,500 within 90 days of the beginning of construction. Although board members did not formally approve the builders' new proposal, they indicated it was acceptable.

A decision on approval of the project as a whole was tabled until the Wednesday board meeting.

Parks-village meeting proposed on Nike golf course

A meeting of Arlington Heights Park District commissioners with village trustees has been proposed to determine what role the village will take in construction of a golf course at the former Nike base.

Initially, the presidents of the two boards, Lloyd Meyer of the park district and James T. Ryan of the village, will meet for informal, groundwork discussions. No meeting has been set.

Last week, the U. S. Army declared an additional 26 acres of the base, Central and Wilke roads, as surplus land. When the park district gains title to the land, in about four to nine months, it will increase its holdings at the site to 90 acres.

The park district plans to build a 18-hole golf course on the site at a cost of at least $1.7 million. The course will incorporate flood control measures to ease flooding problems in the southern part of the village.

THE VILLAGE HAS earmarked $1 million of a $3.2 million nonreferendum flood-control bond issue to grade and excavate the site next spring.

Park officials have said at least $700,000 more will be needed to build the course. The proposed governmental meetings will explore just how much further the village will aid the district's efforts.

A financial rescue committee, headed by former Village Pres. John G. Woods, may be recalled to help raise the funds. What role the committee, which recommended ahd spearheaded a successful referendum last spring, will take, will be determined after the meetings with the village.

DAVID GILL, golf course architect retained by the park district, will have to modify his plans for the course. The modifications are necessary because of the 26 additional acres.

Gill is expected to have his new plans ready in about two weeks.

Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, will conduct hearings on the golf course and flood-control plans Thursday, Nov. 20. Palmatier said the village wants to expand the water-holding capacity at the course, a move opposed by Gill.

tract, to assess late charges and a bill is late if it arrives after the due date, he said.

"I can't account for the mails. A lot of times I've seen it take five days for a letter to go from one side of town to the other," Bruder said.

"YOU'RE GIVING people late charges because of the federal government," Marcy came back.

Weinand said it was his opinion that the late charges were levied correctly and in line with company and village policies.

"It's absolutely ridiculous. Even the federal government doesn't operate that way. If it's postmarked in time, they accept it . . . It's sufficient. It's sufficient for the government," Marcy insisted.

"It's not sufficient for Laseke Disposal," Bruder replied.

Marcy, growing more exasperated, vowed he would haul his own trash.

Oh no, he was told, that would be another violation of village ordinances, Weinand said. Laseke and they alone can haul from private homes.

"IT SOUNDS like you've got a monopoly going . . . It sounds like the Gestapo," Marcy said.

"No," Weinand answered, "It's a five-year contract and an ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights."

Marcy, at this point, appeared to be prepared to sit out the situation. But Weinand delivered twin crunches.

The codes say it is illegal not to have garbage service and it is equally wrong to allow trash to accumulate. The fine is $500 per day.

"You're telling me that if I don't pay the 52-cents you're going to fine me $500 a day?" Marcy asked.

"No. It's a maximum of $1,000 per day. $500 for each violation," Weinand said.

MARCY SAID, "It's a blackmail situation. I get fined up to a $1,000 a day if I don't pay the late charge, right?"

Right, he was told.

He sat quietly for a moment and then dug out a dollar bill and slapped it on the table. Bruder counted out his change.

As Lyndon Johnson used to say, "Come. Let us reason together."

Expansion on commuter parking lot

Library referendum hiked to $2.25 million

Residents of Arlington Heights will be asked to approve a $2.25 million library building expansion, rather than the $2 million originally proposed.

The scheduled Feb. 28 referendum, if approved by voters, will go toward the expansion of the library across Fremont Street onto land once set aside for the proposed cultural center. The site is now a commuter parking lot.

The referendum, which may mean a tax rate increase, was originally set for $2 million. However, the additional $225,000 was added to meet expected increases in construction costs at the time ground is broken in June, 1976.

THE PROPOSED BUILDING addition will cost $1.6 million and remodeling of the present library will take $50,000. Parking modifications will account for $55,000, and new equipment will require $265,000.

Also included in the referendum will be $141,000 in architect's fees, $15,000 in financing charges and $96,000 in contingency funds.

The library board and Arlington Heights village trustees will hold a joint session on Dec. 1 to work out the details of the referendum balloting.

Frank Dempsey, library administractor, said community liaison committees will be formed to push for passage of the referendum. An organizational meeting of persons interested in serving on the committees will be held Nov. 25 in the Dunton Room of the library.

Dempsey said persons interested can attend the meeting or contact him at the library, 392-0100, for more information.

garage appears to be financially feasible.

Much of downtown Arlington Heights could be a pedestrian mall, with limited traffic on those streets that are not closed, according to the plans.

"We can start small — just a mall on a part of Campbell Street so we can see how it works," Kesler says.

Perhaps the biggest enemy to downtown revitalization is apathy, he said in encouraging interested residents and businessmen to attend tonight's meeting.

But figures show that downtown Arlington Heights is not contributing what it should to the economic base of the village in either real estate or sales taxes, he says.

"If we want to keep spending all our money (at Woodfield) in Schaumburg, or Hawthorne shopping center — then fine. At least we'll have put these plans in the record."

Old weapons, cash taken at apartment

Arlington Heights police are investigating a burglary in which about $600 worth of antique Spanish weapons was reported stolen Monday night from the John Tregidge apartment, 1217 S. Wilke Rd.

Tregidge told police that Spanish swords, a battle ax, mace, a gold cigaret lighter and cash were taken.

Police said entry was apparently made through a balcony door although no signs of forced entry were found.

Mental health group meets

Recovery Inc., a non-profit, nonsectarian organization of nervous and former mental patients, will meet at 8 p.m. Mondays at the First United Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

Recovery offers help, aftercare and training in leadership to former mental patients. The program is open to people 18 years of age or older.

Parks-village meeting proposed on Nike golf course

A meeting of Arlington Heights Park District commissioners with village trustees has been proposed to determine what role the village will take in construction of a golf course at the former Nike base.

Initially, the presidents of the two boards, Lloyd Meyer of the park district and James T. Ryan of the village, will meet for informal, groundwork discussions. No meeting has been set.

Last week, the U. S. Army declared an additional 26 acres of the base, Central and Wilke roads, as surplus land. When the park district gains title to the land, in about four to nine months, it will increase its holdings at the site to 90 acres.

The park district plans to build a 18-hole golf course on the site at a cost of at least $1.7 million. The course will incorporate flood control measures to ease flooding problems in the southern part of the village.

THE VILLAGE HAS earmarked $1 million of a $3.2 million nonreferendum flood-control bond issue to grade and excavate the site next spring.

Park officials have said at least $700,000 more will be needed to build the course. The proposed governmental meetings will explore just how much further the village will aid the district's efforts.

A financial rescue committee, headed by former Village Pres. John G. Woods, may be recalled to help raise the funds. What role the committee, which recommended ahd spearheaded a successful referendum last spring, will take, will be determined after the meetings with the village.

DAVID GILL, golf course architect retained by the park district, will have to modify his plans for the course. The modifications are necessary because of the 26 additional acres.

Gill is expected to have his new plans ready in about two weeks.

Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, will conduct hearings on the golf course and flood-control plans Thursday, Nov. 20. Palmatier said the village wants to expand the water-holding capacity at the course, a move opposed by Gill.

tract, to assess late charges and a bill is late if it arrives after the due date, he said.

"I can't account for the mails. A lot of times I've seen it take five days for a letter to go from one side of town to the other," Bruder said.

"YOU'RE GIVING people late charges because of the federal government," Marcy came back.

Weinand said it was his opinion that the late charges were levied correctly and in line with company and village policies.

"It's absolutely ridiculous. Even the federal government doesn't operate that way. If it's postmarked in time, they accept it . . . It's sufficient. It's sufficient for the government," Marcy insisted.

"It's not sufficient for Laseke Disposal," Bruder replied.

Marcy, growing more exasperated, vowed he would haul his own trash.

Oh no, he was told, that would be another violation of village ordinances, Weinand said. Laseke and they alone can haul from private homes.

"IT SOUNDS like you've got a monopoly going . . . It sounds like the Gestapo," Marcy said.

"No," Weinand answered, "It's a five-year contract and an ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights."

Marcy, at this point, appeared to be prepared to sit out the situation. But Weinand delivered twin crunches.

The codes say it is illegal not to have garbage service and it is equally wrong to allow trash to accumulate. The fine is $500 per day.

"You're telling me that if I don't pay the 52-cents you're going to fine me $500 a day?" Marcy asked.

"No. It's a maximum of $1,000 per day. $500 for each violation," Weinand said.

MARCY SAID, "It's a blackmail situation. I get fined up to a $1,000 a day if I don't pay the late charge, right?"

Right, he was told.

He sat quietly for a moment and then dug out a dollar bill and slapped it on the table. Bruder counted out his change.

As Lyndon Johnson used to say, "Come. Let us reason together."

Expansion on commuter parking lot

Library referendum hiked to $2.25 million

Residents of Arlington Heights will be asked to approve a $2.25 million library building expansion, rather than the $2 million originally proposed.

The scheduled Feb. 28 referendum, if approved by voters, will go toward the expansion of the library across Fremont Street onto land once set aside for the proposed cultural center. The site is now a commuter parking lot.

The referendum, which may mean a tax rate increase, was originally set for $2 million. However, the additional $225,000 was added to meet expected increases in construction costs at the time ground is broken in June, 1976.

THE PROPOSED BUILDING addition will cost $1.6 million and remodeling of the present library will take $50,000. Parking modifications will account for $55,000, and new equipment will require $265,000.

Also included in the referendum will be $141,000 in architect's fees, $15,000 in financing charges and $96,000 in contingency funds.

The library board and Arlington Heights village trustees will hold a joint session on Dec. 1 to work out the details of the referendum balloting.

Frank Dempsey, library administractor, said community liaison committees will be formed to push for passage of the referendum. An organizational meeting of persons interested in serving on the committees will be held Nov. 25 in the Dunton Room of the library.

Dempsey said persons interested can attend the meeting or contact him at the library, 392-0100, for more information.

10 'plans' ready for action

garage appears to be financially feasible.

Much of downtown Arlington Heights could be a pedestrian mall, with limited traffic on those streets that are not closed, according to the plans.

"We can start small — just a mall on a part of Campbell Street so we can see how it works," Kesler says.

Perhaps the biggest enemy to downtown revitalization is apathy, he said in encouraging interested residents and businessmen to attend tonight's meeting.

But figures show that downtown Arlington Heights is not contributing what it should to the economic base of the village in either real estate or sales taxes, he says.

"If we want to keep spending all our money (at Woodfield) in Schaumburg, or Hawthorne shopping center — then fine. At least we'll have put these plans in the record."

Old weapons, cash taken at apartment

Arlington Heights police are investigating a burglary in which about $600 worth of antique Spanish weapons was reported stolen Monday night from the John Tregidge apartment, 1217 S. Wilke Rd.

Tregidge told police that Spanish swords, a battle ax, mace, a gold cigaret lighter and cash were taken.

Police said entry was apparently made through a balcony door although no signs of forced entry were found.

Mental health group meets

Recovery Inc., a non-profit, nonsectarian organization of nervous and former mental patients, will meet at 8 p.m. Mondays at the First United Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

Recovery offers help, aftercare and training in leadership to former mental patients. The program is open to people 18 years of age or older.

To replace highway trust fund

U.S. transportation fund urged

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Establishment of a federal trust fund to finance improvements in surface transportation was called for Wednesday by Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation.

The transportation trust fund would be used to finance highway, railroad, mass transit and water improvements, Bond said. It would replace the highway trust fund, established 20 years ago to improve U.S. highways, which will expire Oct. 1, 1977, he said.

Bond said the time has come to find a way to make public transportation investments within the framework of a balanced and coordinated transportation system.

ADDRESSING a group from the Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission in Rosemont, Bond said a single transportation fund would provide adequate financing and a means of planning expenditures to achieve a balanced surface transportation system.

Bond suggested several sources of financing the fund including:

- A tax on nonhighway diesel fuel.
- A surcharge on surface freight transportation.
- A portion of whatever excess profits or other energy conservation tax Congress approves.
- Existing highway fuel and excise taxes.
- The balance of funds in the highway trust fund.

"The funds would be appropriated by Congress, and could change over the years to reflect changing conditions in transportation demand and resources," he said.

Bond called for doubling the federal commitment for public transportation, and improved programs to upgrade the country's railroads, waterways and highways.

He also suggested providing each state with a single grant to meet its surface transportation needs.

"While the primary responsibility for making national transportation investments remains on the federal level, it makes a lot of sense to allow the states, which are closest to the transportation needs within their borders . . . to make the fine-tuning decisions," he said.

EARLIER AT a seminar on transportation, James R. Smith, president of the American Waterways Operators Inc., criticized the nation's railroads for getting $4 billion in rate increases last year but spending only $80 million for track improvements.

He called the railroads' actions a "social pus" on society that is passed onto the consumer. "This poor boy business doesn't fly with me."

Alan Boyd, president of the Illinois Central Gulf R.R., said total revenue for the railroad was less in 1975 that in 1974 and that "the funds have not flowed through to us."

He said the Illinois Commerce Commission has found the railroad to be in compliance with its orders and that the delay in maintenance and improvements has been caused by layoffs and the recession.

John Kramer of the Dept. of Transportation, said 15 per cent of the nation's railroads are operating in bankruptcy and 35 per cent are having financial difficulties.

"This is a very stark and immediate problem," he said, also calling for a funding mechanism similar to the highway trust fund to aid the nation's railroads.

New York fiscal plans prompt big stock surge

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market staged its strongest rally in a month Wednesday in reaction to reports New York City had developed a plan to avert default.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was the heaviest in 17 weeks.

The news propelled the Dow Jones industrial average 13.70 points to 852.25, its best gain since it climbed 13.86 points Oct. 13. The closely watched average gained 3.07 points Tuesday.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.32 to 91.19 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 44 cents. Advances routed declines, 1,108 to 383, among the 1,850 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME SOARED to 23,960,000 shares from 14,640,000 traded Tuesday. It was the heaviest turnover since 25,249,390 shares changed hands July 16. Tuesday's volume was held down by the fact that many of the nation's banks were closed for Veterans' Day.

Steels, motors, energy, drug, electronic, computer, energy and banking issues were among the leaders of the advance.

Oils and chemicals, in particular, were volatile. Superior Oil climbed 5½ to 177, Halliburton 3½ to 139½, DuPont 2-7/8 to 128-5/8 and Eastman Kodak 2-5/8 to 107-5/8. Getty, however, bucked the trend, plunging 7 to 159½.

Pan American World Airways topped the Big Board actives, gaining ½ to 5 on 644,300 shares, including a block of 220,000 shares at 5. Otis Elevator, the second most active issue, gained 1/8 to 44-3/8 on 444,700 shares.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share gained 12 cents. Volume totaled 2,290,000 shares, up from the 1,670,000 traded Tuesday.

Local, Chicago S&Ls merge

American Savings Assn., 1010 Meacham Rd., Schaumburg, will begin operations as a branch of Talman Federal Savings and Loan Assn. starting Dec. 1.

Approval of a merger between the two financial institutions recently was granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said Dimitry Wanda, Talman president, and American Savings president Arthur G. Erdmann Jr.

American Savings Assn. previously received permission from the Illinois Commissioner of Savings and Loans to convert to a federal charter, and association members approved the merger.

AMERICAN Savings has an office at 6720 W. Roosevelt Rd., Oak Park, in addition to the Schaumburg office. Talman's home office is located at 5501 S. Kedzie, Chicago. Branch offices are located in downtown Chicago, Skokie and Glen Ellyn, and Talman plans to open branch offices in Aurora and Oak Lawn.

"This merger will prove highly beneficial to the members of both institutions," Wanda said. "It will present an opportunity for expanded operations into entirely new market areas and will make it possible to achieve economy in the areas of management, marketing and data processing — the benefits of which can be passed on to all customers in the form of additional, improved services."

Erdmann will serve as a Talmen senior vice president, regional branch manager of the Schaumburg office and as a member of the Talman board of directors.

There are no plans to remodel the Schaumburg or Oak Park offices except plans to renovate teller windows to accommodate automated teller machines. Talman has capital assets totaling more than $1.25 billion and American Savings assets total more than $21 million.

New York fiscal plans prompt big stock surge

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market staged its strongest rally in a month Wednesday in reaction to reports New York City had developed a plan to avert default.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was the heaviest in 17 weeks.

The news propelled the Dow Jones industrial average 13.70 points to 852.25, its best gain since it climbed 13.86 points Oct. 13. The closely watched average gained 3.07 points Tuesday.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.32 to 91.19 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 44 cents. Advances routed declines, 1,108 to 383, among the 1,850 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME SOARED to 23,960,000 shares from 14,640,000 traded Tuesday. It was the heaviest turnover since 25,249,390 shares changed hands July 16. Tuesday's volume was held down by the fact that many of the nation's banks were closed for Veterans' Day.

Steels, motors, energy, drug, electronic, computer, energy and banking issues were among the leaders of the advance.

Oils and chemicals, in particular, were volatile. Superior Oil climbed 5½ to 177, Halliburton 3½ to 139½, DuPont 2-7/8 to 128-5/8 and Eastman Kodak 2-5/8 to 107-5/8. Getty, however, bucked the trend, plunging 7 to 159½.

Pan American World Airways topped the Big Board actives, gaining ½ to 5 on 644,300 shares, including a block of 220,000 shares at 5. Otis Elevator, the second most active issue, gained 1/8 to 44-3/8 on 444,700 shares.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share gained 12 cents. Volume totaled 2,290,000 shares, up from the 1,670,000 traded Tuesday.

Local, Chicago S&Ls merge

American Savings Assn., 1010 Meacham Rd., Schaumburg, will begin operations as a branch of Talman Federal Savings and Loan Assn. starting Dec. 1.

Approval of a merger between the two financial institutions recently was granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said Dimitry Wanda, Talman president, and American Savings president Arthur G. Erdmann Jr.

American Savings Assn. previously received permission from the Illinois Commissioner of Savings and Loans to convert to a federal charter, and association members approved the merger.

AMERICAN Savings has an office at 6720 W. Roosevelt Rd., Oak Park, in addition to the Schaumburg office. Talman's home office is located at 5501 S. Kedzie, Chicago. Branch offices are located in downtown Chicago, Skokie and Glen Ellyn, and Talman plans to open branch offices in Aurora and Oak Lawn.

"This merger will prove highly beneficial to the members of both institutions," Wanda said. "It will present an opportunity for expanded operations into entirely new market areas and will make it possible to achieve economy in the areas of management, marketing and data processing — the benefits of which can be passed on to all customers in the form of additional, improved services."

Erdmann will serve as a Talmen senior vice president, regional branch manager of the Schaumburg office and as a member of the Talman board of directors.

There are no plans to remodel the Schaumburg or Oak Park offices except plans to renovate teller windows to accommodate automated teller machines. Talman has capital assets totaling more than $1.25 billion and American Savings assets total more than $21 million.

Harper studies bond retirement

Harper College Board of Trustees tonight will consider a bond retirement schedule for $6 million of the $12 million approved by voters Sept. 27. The schedule may boost resident taxes beyond projected limits but retire the bonds more speedily at a lower interest rate.

As prepared by bond consultants Speer and Associates, the bond retirement schedule stretches over seven years instead of 20 years as previously planned in order to secure a better interest rate. Board chairman Shirley Munson said tax bills may be a few cents higher than originally publicized, but the interest costs would be less in the long run.

College officials estimated the average annual cost in property taxes would be just over 2 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation over 20 years. The tax rate on a 20-year retirement schedule would be about 5 cents per $100 the first year the bonds are sold, but less each year after that.

The board also will hold an executive session to begin planning for 1976-77 faculty negotiations, which begin in December.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in the board room of the College Center, Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

About 10 days ago we visited tropical gardens in Florida. After inspecting thousands of plants we selected the pick of the crop. They were carefully loaded into refrigerated, humidified trucks and brought here on a non-stop, express trip.

Now those plants are on display in our huge greenhouse. Even after all our years in the nursery business these plants have excited us . . . you'll see why when you visit our greenhouse.

Among the plants are: NORFOLK ISLAND PINE, the Hawaiian Christmas tree. A plant hardy for curtain filtered light. CHINESE EVERGREEN, a rugged beauty that will thrive even in dim light. DRACENA, in a terrific array of varieties. These are musts for indoor gardens. FERNS, delicate foliage plants that are so beautiful in hanging baskets. CRYPTANTHUS, also called Earth Star. A bromeliad with star-like spread of colored leaves and clusters of tiny flowers.

RALPH G. NEWMAN, 67, literary appraiser, and his wife Patricia leave Federal Building in Chicago after Newman was found guilty of helping former President Richard Nixon obtain a $450,000 tax break by backdating the gift of his personal papers. Newman could be sentenced to five years and $10,000.

Thompson could beat Walker: poll

Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson said Wednesday a statewide poll taken for him last month shows he would defeat either Gov. Daniel Walker or state Treasurer Alan J. Dixon if the election were held today.

The poll also showed that while Thompson's name recognition among voters has risen to 34 per cent, it is still far below Walker's 85 per cent recognition. Dixon's recognition factor was 25 per cent, according to the poll.

"We are very much encouraged by this poll," Thompson told a news conference. "Forty-seven per cent of the voters who had an opinion said they would vote for me against 32 per cent for Walker."

He said the poll showed 43 per cent of those polled would vote for him in a race against Dixon, who was favored by 18 per cent. Dixon declared his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Oct. 6.

Doctors ask Daley help

Striking doctors and interns at Cook County Hospital Wednesday asked Mayor Richard J. Daley to act as a mediator in settling the 17-day-old walkout which has become the nation's longest doctors' strike.

But the hospital administration said no mediator was needed.

"The mayor's position in all labor disputes is that he will intervene only if both parties ask him to do so," Frank Sullivan, Daley's press aide, said.

Negotiators for the two sides met under federal mediation Wednesday after a circuit court judge heard more testimony at a contempt of court hearing against the 500 striking doctors.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Donald O'Brien issued a back-to-work order on Oct. 27, the first day of the strike, but members of the House Staff Association ignored it and walked the picket lines.

Fewer pass insurance test

Fewer candidates are passing the new insurance agents' and brokers' exams being given by the state then passed previous tests, the head of the Illinois Department of Insurance said Wednesday.

The old exams were the ones on which answers allegedly were altered to permit one of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's sons to pass.

Director Robert Wilcox said only 31 per cent of the applicants taking the new tests achieved passing grades and qualified for licenses. The average percentage of passing grades during the past 18 months was between 60 and 70, he said.

Teacher jail memorial?

The Kankakee Federations of Teachers, in a letter to the Kankakee County Board, suggested Wednesday a monument be raised to five teachers on the site where they were jailed during a school strike.

The teachers, who served 60 days in 1971 for violating a restraining order, were believed to be the first to be so sentenced in Illinois.

The federation urged that the site of the old county jail in Kankakee be turned into a "minipark" and a memorial be erected there.

Who's running the show?

Four policemen were so unhappy about tests given to determine promotions they circulated petitions calling for removal of the Pekin Police and Fire Commission.

The commission then suspended them for 30 days without pay. Police Chief Don Smith refused to suspend the men, saying they were within their rights, and besides, he was shortstaffed. So the commission suspended him, too.

But Smith and the four policemen continued to report for work until Mayor William Waldmeier asked the men to accept the suspensions and stay home for a while, and they agreed. Then he dismissed the three-man Police and Fire Commission which meted out the punishment in the first place.

Borchers takes the stand

State Rep. Webber Borchers, R-Decatur, took the stand in his own defense Wednesday, saying he would again divert legislative expense money to pay an undercover campus spy if he thought it would keep "campus turmoil under control."

Borchers is on trial in Sangamon County Circuit Court accused of theft and official misconduct for using $1,650 in an expense-account kickback scheme in 1969 and 1970.

Borchers says he used the money to reimburse himself after he paid his undercover agent out of his own pock- to gather radical and anti-war material.

RALPH G. NEWMAN, 67, literary appraiser, and his wife Patricia leave Federal Building in Chicago after Newman was found guilty of helping former President Richard Nixon obtain a $450,000 tax break by backdating the gift of his personal papers. Newman could be sentenced to five years and $10,000.

Thompson could beat Walker: poll

Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson said Wednesday a statewide poll taken for him last month shows he would defeat either Gov. Daniel Walker or state Treasurer Alan J. Dixon if the election were held today.

The poll also showed that while Thompson's name recognition among voters has risen to 34 per cent, it is still far below Walker's 85 per cent recognition. Dixon's recognition factor was 25 per cent, according to the poll.

"We are very much encouraged by this poll," Thompson told a news conference. "Forty-seven per cent of the voters who had an opinion said they would vote for me against 32 per cent for Walker."

He said the poll showed 43 per cent of those polled would vote for him in a race against Dixon, who was favored by 18 per cent. Dixon declared his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Oct. 6.

Doctors ask Daley help

Striking doctors and interns at Cook County Hospital Wednesday asked Mayor Richard J. Daley to act as a mediator in settling the 17-day-old walkout which has become the nation's longest doctors' strike.

But the hospital administration said no mediator was needed.

'Building design can save energy'

by LEA TONKIN

Building design can mean an energy savings, said William Brubaker, vice president of Perkins & Will, architects, Chicago. As the guest speaker for Wednesday's meeting of Pollution and Environmental Problems Inc. (PEP), Palatine, Brubaker will show how homes, schools and offices can be planned to take advantage of natural sunlight and ventilation.

"Buildings should be more attuned to nature and the environment," Brubaker said. His slide presentation and discussion will start at 8 p.m. in Building E, Room 107 at Harper College. The public program is free.

Audubon unit meets

"Marsh Harvest," a film about waterfowl migration and study, will be shown at tonight's meeting of the Prairie Woods Audubon Society, a chapter of the National Audubon Society. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, Arlington Heights.

Solar power exhibit

A demonstration of solar power and other exhibits of engineering and scientific interest will be featured at an open house Friday and Saturday in Northwestern University's Technological Institute, Evanston. Among the show participants will be Maximillian Fiore, Arlington Heights; Sheila Plemick, Mount Prospect; and Mark Turnquist, Arlington Heights.

Environmental conference

Area residents can participate in the national conference on environmental contamination by polychlorinated biphenyls (PCB's), slated Nov. 19-21 in Chicago by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Agency administrator Russell E. Train will be the keynote speaker. The conference will be held at the Pick Congress Hotel. Sessions will start at 10 a.m. Nov. 19, 8:30 a.m. Nov. 20 and Nov. 21.

Public pressure will probably determine whether strong government action is taken to ban the use of toxic chemicals, said the Lake Michigan Federation, Chicago. The federation urges public participation in the hearings, citing discovery of high PCB concentrations in fish from major rivers and lakes throughout the U.S.

Rock sale, exchange

Minerals, fossils, and rock specimens will be sold and exchanged at the Thursday, Nov. 20 meeting of the Des Plaines Valley Geological Society. The meeting will be at the West Park Fieldhouse, 651 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, starting at 8 p.m.

Sea turtles threatened

Development of coastal shorelines and overuse for commercial purposes threaten the existence of three species of sea turtles, said a recent article in the Field Museum of National History Bulletin, Chicago.

The loggerhead, green and Pacific ridley turtles were proposed in the Federal Register to be added to the list of threatened wildlife by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Dept. of the Interior, and the National Marine Fisheries Service, Dept. of Commerce. The leatherback, hawkbill and Atlantic ridley sea turtles are already on the U.S. endangered species list.

Sea turtles can grow to 1,500 pounds. They generally do not come on land except to lay eggs. Many traditional nesting sites have been destroyed by development of coastal areas for industry and tourism. Proposed regulations would prohibit the taking, import and export of the endangered species.

The way we see it

Override now up to Senate

The education veto overrides voted last week by the Illinois House should be overturned by the Senate.

Under great pressure from loyalists to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, the House barely approved an override of Walker's veto of $81 million in the general school aid formula. The following day, the House overrode vetoes of $35 million in special education funding.

These actions disregarded the fact that officials of both parties, Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker and Republican Comptroller George Lindberg, believe increased spending by the state government will force a tax increase.

As we have said before in commenting on the override fight in the House, education is an important state priority, but it is not the state's only priority. The people of the state do not want a tax increase, and legislators, even those who voted in favor of the override, seem to have no enthusiasm for such an action.

The responsible thing for the Senate to do, when it convenes next week, is to vote against the veto override.

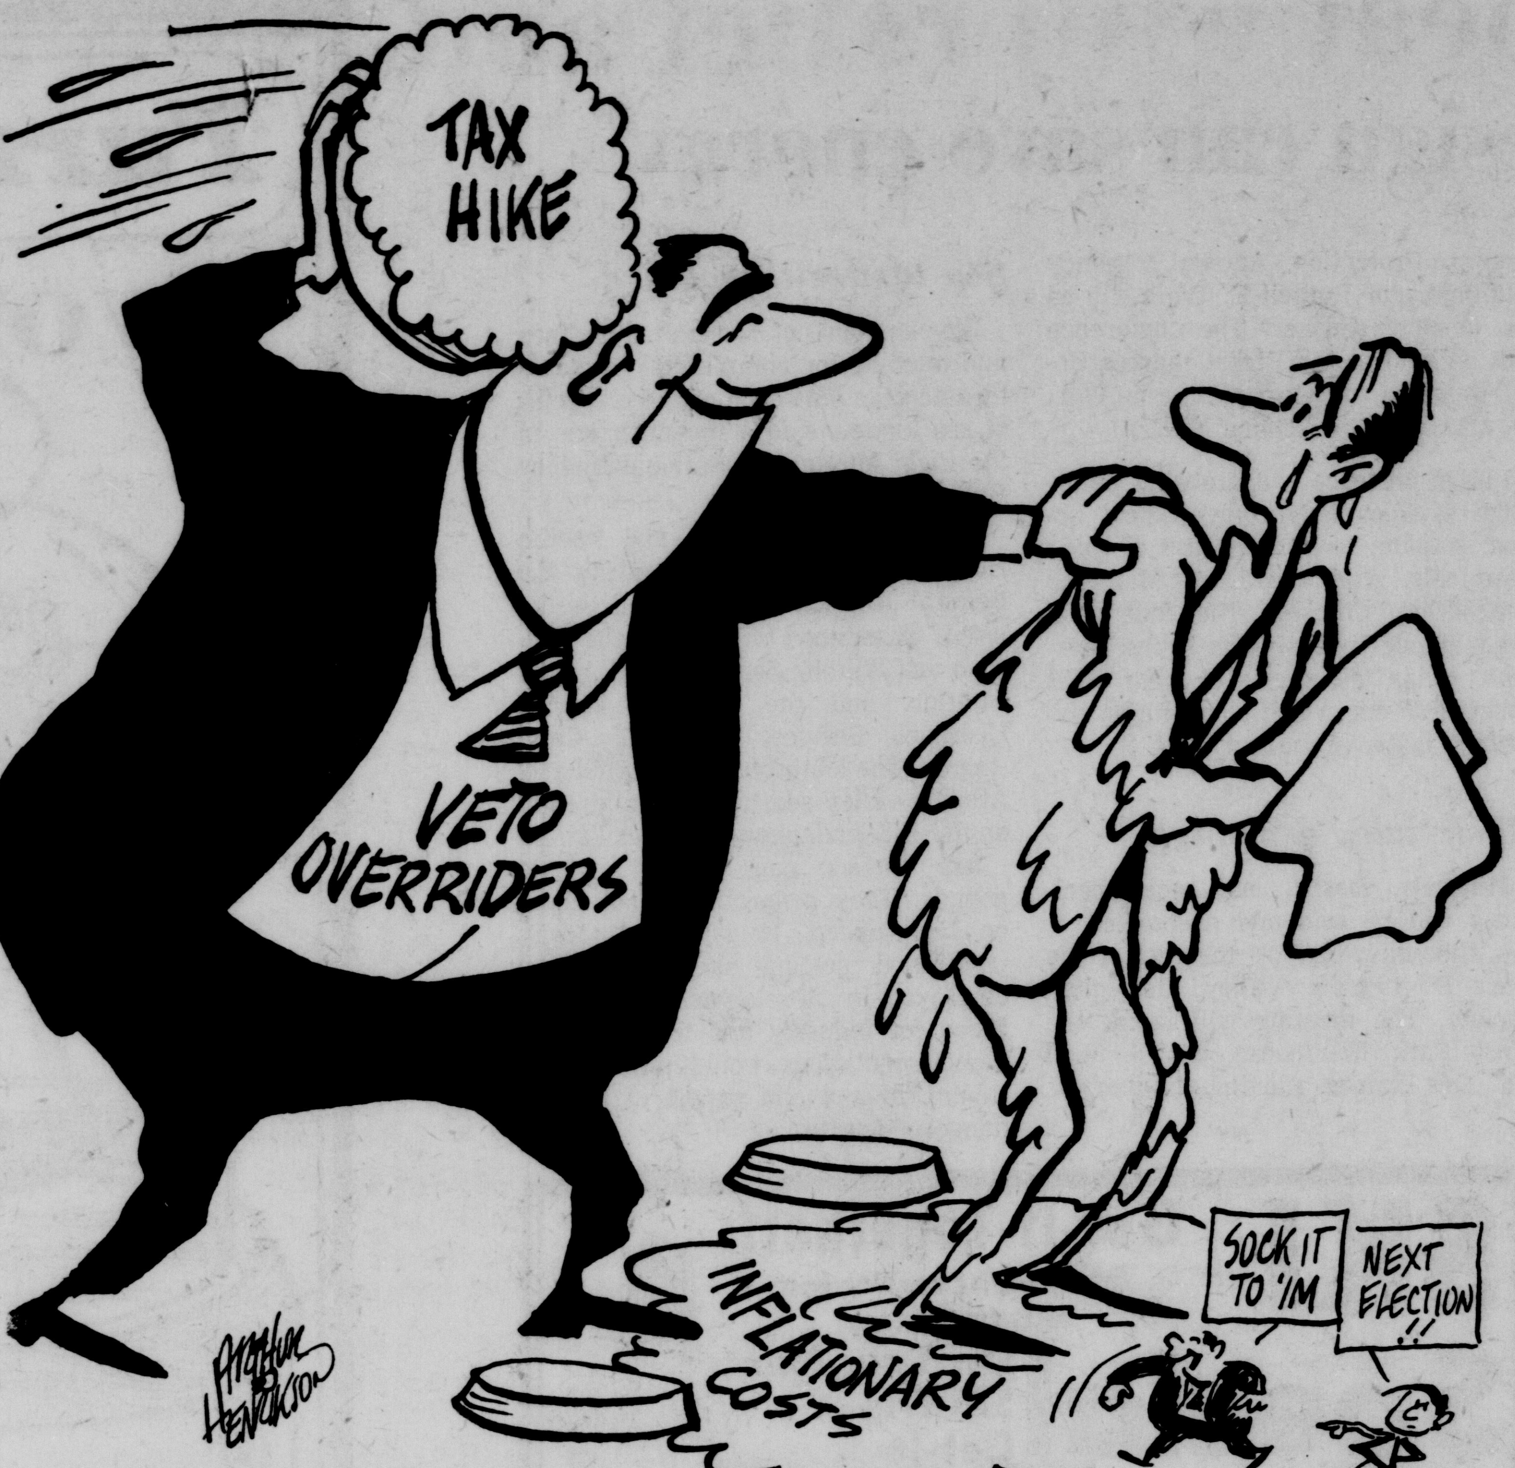
Such a vote will not mean the end of all hope for additional education funding this year. The issue can be raised again next spring, when the state's financial position is clearer. The legislature could then act to restore some of the education money, if the state can afford it.

If a choice must be made between the two education issues, it is probably most crucial that Walker's veto be upheld on the $81 million in the school aid formula. The special education funds are a smaller amount and may be less critical to the state's financial position. Most attention will focus on the $81 million.

The important thing is for the Illinois General Assembly to demonstrate its fiscal responsibility and to act to avoid a tax increase.

It will do the public no good if, next year, a tax increase becomes necessary and politicians stand on opposite sides blaming each other for the problem.

What is needed is specific action by the Senate to head off a tax increase. The Senate is the taxpayers' last resort.



Dateline 1775

(by United Press International)
MONTREAL, Nov. 13 — Gen. Montgomery formally entered Montreal and sent back word he hoped to join Col. Arnold at Quebec as soon as possible. But he reported he was disturbed by his "turbulent and indeed mutinous troops" in his camp.

Time to reassess our General Assembly role

Once the United Nations General Assembly was a respected forum for easing the intense conflicts which have wracked this world since the end of World War II.

But times have changed. No longer is the General Assembly man's best hope for world peace. Judging from its vote Monday which branded Zionism as "racism," it's become little more than a propaganda organ, and the United States should reconsider its participation in it.

Highly nationalistic Third World nations, which now dominate the U.N. membership, have thrown their support against Israel. In the present shaky quest for a lasting Mid-East peace, the vote only ignites deeply-held religious passions and does nothing to encourage peace, which, after all, is supposed to be the U.N.'s purpose.

On Tuesday, the U.S. Senate passed a joint resolution "to reassess further participation" in the General Assembly. Unless the General Assembly regains some degree of impartiality in working towards a stable world, our participation in it will mean nothing. Our reassessment, based on these and other sad realities facing the General Assembly, should begin immediately.

Students would back racist fight

In regard to the article which appeared in the Nov. 11 edition of The Palatine Herald entitled "Lonely Battle On Racist Oppression" I would like to clarify why it is a lonely battle. Andy English is alone in his cause because his methods of pressing his point are not conducive to students in the suburbs.

In the article it was stated "that the Fremd Student Council paid for Andy's trip in October to the NSCAR conference in Boston." This statement is false. The motion was brought to the floor, however, it was defeated.

From this defeat it can readily be seen that the student body did not support the rally in Boston and is unlikely to support any rally.

Suburban students are somewhat sheltered. They were sheltered during the campus uprisings due to Vietnam, and it was quite rare to hear of student unrest in the suburbs.

This isn't to say that suburban students aren't willing to become involved — in fact I believe just the opposite. I am supported here by the fact that after Andy's initial proposal was defeated a motion to donate $50 to NSCAR was made and carried by a person who voted against Andy's motion.

If Andy is to be successful in his cause he must alter his approach of radicalism, for it tends to alienate prospective supporters. Since he is working in the school, wouldn't it be sensible to attempt to install courses in the district curriculum that would deal with prejudice and racism? This, in my opinion, is more conducive to reaching the students.

The willingness to eradicate racism exists, Andy, and people are ready to follow you — only if you go about it correctly.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Fremd student council did not pay English directly for his trip to the NSCAR conference. Instead, it paid $50 to NSCAR, which was used to pay for English's bus ticket to Boston, according to English.

Backs sale of old library

Your reporting of the deliberations addressing the utilization of the old Palatine Public Library building has failed to describe the interest of potential buyers and has instead concentrated on potential lessors. The impression that is likely to develop in the public mind is: "Since no one is willing to take over this public building, then perhaps it is sensible to have it utilized by public bodies at as low a rate as possible."

However, it is not true that willing and able purchasers are unavailable.

At the Oct. 8 meeting of the library board I appeared as an official representative of the Countryside Unitarian Universalist Fellowship and urged the sale of the old library building as soon as possible. At the Oct. 23 library board committee meeting I again expressed my desire that the building be sold.

I urge the sale because I am informed that several parties are interested. Competition in this instance can only be beneficial. In the event that the property is leased, my organization will forego interest and, quite likely, so will many other potential buyers.

I cannot foresee that the public interest will be served by leasing the old library. No taxes will be lowered as a result of such an arrangement. On the other hand, the sale of the building could result in the retirement of a portion of the $1.3 million of bonds for which the library board and Palatine residents are responsible.

Let this letter be notice to The Herald and its readers that an alternative does exist to the leasing of the old library building. That alternative is the sale of the building for the purpose of relieving the taxpayers of Palatine of a portion of their burden.

Library friend gave own view

Your Nov. 6 issue of The Herald carried a story entitled, "Friends head urges library to spread bond debt." This story concerned a letter written to Mr. Gerald McElroy, president, Palatine Public Library District, dated Oct. 26, concerning her request for the spreading of the library building bond debt.

In the article Ms. Fonte stated that she made the request as an "individual taxpayer" and not as an officer of the library's auxiliary association, The Friends of the Library of Palatine. The executive board of the Friends of the Library, composed of its officers and directors, wishes to affirm the statement of Ms. Fonte that she was speaking as an individual and further that the executive board was not consulted in any fashion prior to Ms. Fonte's actions.

Asks for survey you can bank on

I suggest that one of your reporters (preferably male) survey the ratio of male vs. female employment at our local financial institutions.

Today I visited the beautiful first floor quarters of the Mount Prospect State Bank and was interested to note one male and some 28 female employes in evidence.

Assuming my observation was approximately correct, what is going on? In this day of equal rights, wages have to be the same for men and women performing similar jobs. So where are the men or are we having reverse discrimination?

On my way out of the bank one more male employe appeared — the white-haired police guard. The female personnel director must have goofed this up and the white-haired ladies bloc should protest this blatant chauvinistic discrimination.

Compassion, please, for wildlife

You jump into your car and speed off to your destination. It's dark and the country road you're on is deserted, so you speed up to make time. Your vision is limited to the radius of your headlights and your radio fills your head with music. All of a sudden, a shadow! You can't stop, so you swerve, but it's too late. You stop the car, take a breath and back up. You focus your headlights on a motionless bloody lump on the road. It's an adult male raccoon, you kick it to the side, return to your car and never give it a second thought.

The land our little friends exists on is limited, and their excessive search for food brings them to their death on our highways. With food being scarce and the winter months ahead, this will mean their young will starve.

Please slow down and show compassion to our dwindling wildlife.

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall supply both sides with arms." — The New New Testament

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suppose two countries had been fighting each other and you were assigned the role of mediator. How would you go about restoring peace between them?

Would you: A) try to persuade them to beat their swords into plowshares? Or would you: B) promise that if they signed a treaty you would see to it that each got more weapons?

I'm not suggesting the Biblical approach (A) is no longer valid, but it does appear that the era of peace through munitions purveyance (B) is now close at hand.

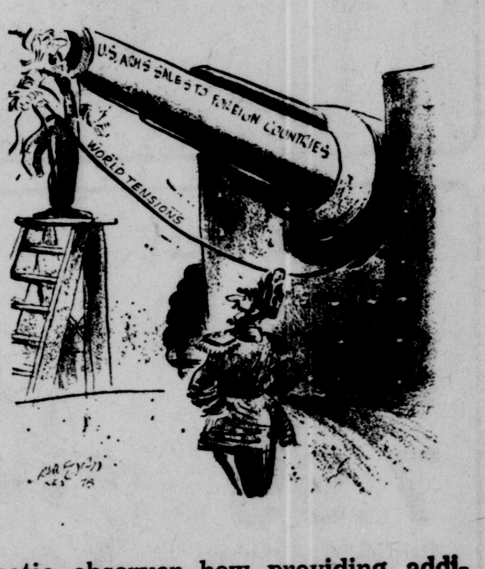
Fresh from negotiating the Israeli-Egyptian treaty, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger went before a congressional committee the other day seeking $1.5 billion in military aid for Israel.

HE SAID THE question of also supplying arms to Egypt still was hanging fire, so to speak, but "we listened with sympathy" to President Anwar Sadat's request for U.S. military assistance.

Which prompted Rep. Donald W. Reigle, D-Mich., to observe that "we may find ourselves arming all sides."

To the untrained eye, it might appear that stacking more powderkegs atop a tinderbox does little to prevent explosions. But Kissinger said the $3.3 billion in military and economic aid sought for the Middle East "is a prudent investment in peace."

And he must know whereof he speaks. For since he began negotiating peace pacts in various parts of the world, the overseas sale of U.S. arms has jumped from $2 billion to $9.2 billion annually.



U.S. ARMS SALES TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES
WORLD TENSIONS

After the hearing, I asked a diplomatic observer how providing additional war material to potential belligerents reduces the threat of war.

"APPARENTLY YOU don't realize how badly some of those countries want to get their hands on missiles, rockets and other modern military hardware," he replied.

"They literally will do anything to acquire such weapons, including signing agreements not to use them."

I said, "I never dreamed they were that desperate."

"What we are trying to do," he continued, "is take advantage of the demand for arms to forge a worldwide chain of nonaggression treaties.

"Let's say Country A and Country B are on the verge of war. We promise to supply them with arms if they agree not to fight each other. They do so, figuring they can use the arms to intimidate Country C.

"THAT MAKES Country C even more eager to acquire arms. But before we will supply them, we make Country C sign a treaty with her arch rival, Country D.

"Eventually, the entire world will be armed to the teeth. But by that time we'll have everyone so tied up in treaties there won't be anyone left to fight."

The way we see it

Override now up to Senate

The education veto overrides voted last week by the Illinois House should be overturned by the Senate.

Under great pressure from loyalists to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, the House barely approved an override of Walker's veto of $81 million in the general school aid formula. The following day, the House overrode vetoes of $35 million in special education funding.

These actions disregarded the fact that officials of both parties, Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker and Republican Comptroller George Lindberg, believe increased spending by the state government will force a tax increase.

As we have said before in commenting on the override fight in the House, education is an important state priority, but it is not the state's only priority. The people of the state do not want a tax increase, and legislators, even those who voted in favor of the override, seem to have no enthusiasm for such an action.

The responsible thing for the Senate to do, when it convenes next week, is to vote against the veto override.

Such a vote will not mean the end of all hope for additional education funding this year. The issue can be raised again next spring, when the state's financial position is clearer. The legislature could then act to restore some of the education money, if the state can afford it.

If a choice must be made between the two education issues, it is probably most crucial that Walker's veto be upheld on the $81 million in the school aid formula. The special education funds are a smaller amount and may be less critical to the state's financial position. Most attention will focus on the $81 million.

The important thing is for the Illinois General Assembly to demonstrate its fiscal responsibility and to act to avoid a tax increase.

It will do the public no good if, next year, a tax increase becomes necessary and politicians stand on opposite sides blaming each other for the problem.

What is needed is specific action by the Senate to head off a tax increase. The Senate is the taxpayers' last resort.

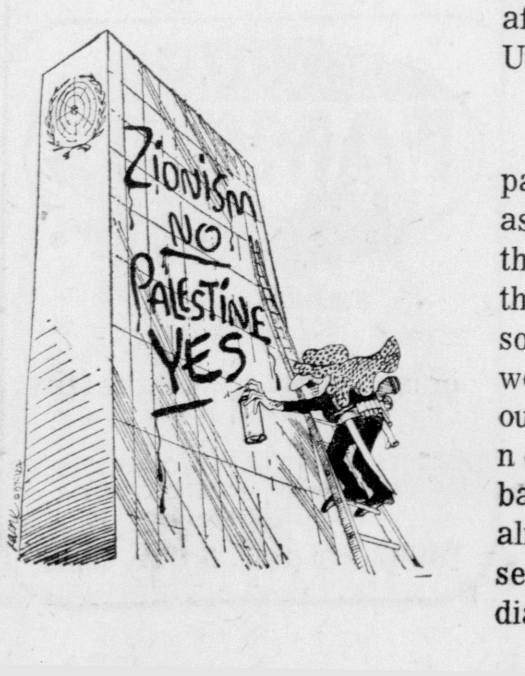
MONTREAL, Nov. 13 — Gen. Montgomery formally entered Montreal and sent back word he hoped to join Col. Arnold at Quebec as soon as possible. But he reported he was disturbed by his "turbulent and indeed mutinous troops" in his camp.

Time to reassess our General Assembly role

Once the United Nations General Assembly was a respected forum for easing the intense conflicts which have wracked this world since the end of World War II.

But times have changed. No longer is the General Assembly man's best hope for world peace. Judging from its vote Monday which branded Zionism as "racism," it's become little more than a propaganda organ, and the United States should reconsider its participation in it.



Highly nationalistic Third World nations, which now dominate the U.N. membership, have thrown their support against Israel. In the present shaky quest for a lasting Mid-East peace, the vote only ignites deeply-held religious passions and does nothing to encourage peace, which, after all, is supposed to be the U.N.'s purpose.

On Tuesday, the U.S. Senate passed a joint resolution "to reassess further participation" in the General Assembly. Unless the General Assembly regains some degree of impartiality in working towards a stable world, our participation in it will mean nothing. Our reassessment, based on these and other sad realities facing the General Assembly, should begin immediately.

Leaving beat with relief and regret

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

Education is one of the major preoccupations in the Northwest suburbs — and in fact in the entire country.

Therefore it is with some regret and some relief that I write my last column titled "Education Today." Beginning this week I'll be covering county government and politics and will thus become involved in the never-never land of Cook County.

The regret at leaving the education beat comes primarily from the realization that my future contact with parents, school board members and school officials will be limited in the future. They have been almost consistently helpful and interesting to deal with.

The relief comes from a variety of sources. At least part of it is because I'm looking forward to a new challenge.

ANOTHER PART of the relief comes from the fact that I will no longer have to face two persistent illusions that accompany most of the discussion of education.

There is the illusion that education has changed dramatically in the last 10 years — that the new, innovative teaching techniques have made a dramatic difference in the way students learn.

It is easy to believe that when a person first walks into a school after being away for years. Elementary schools are brighter and more attractive than years go. High schools have given up dress codes and are giving students plenty options of classes to take.

The longer you're around schools, however, the more apparent it is that schools — or at least the processes of education — are not that much different from the "traditional" education most of us grew up with. Even the most amazing innovations are just other ways at getting at the same basic things.

ANOTHER ILLUSION — and it goes along with the first — is that schools are much worse than they were in the past.

If it is true that all the superficial changes haven't improved things much, it is probably also true they haven't hurt much, either. Despite the illusion nurtured by parents and persistent education critics, children still learn to read and still learn to count.

The debates about whether lower test scores "prove" that schools are failing is just that — a debate. And the longer you listen to or read the debate the more convinced you can be that tests — whatever they measure — aren't the best way to judge schools.

If improvements or failures of today's schools are illusions, what are nonillusionary things about schools that are worthwhile discussing?

THE ANSWER to that question, even after almost five years on one kind of education beat or another, is elusive. Some things that deserve attention but seldom get it are relationships between students and teachers (overlooked by most innovators), defining which of society's innumerable problems schools can be expected to solve, and determining which group — professional educators, parents or taxpayers — should make the prime judgments about the direction of education.

Those questions, and others like them, will keep people interested in education busy for a long time.

I will be interested, but in the future I will be observing the debate from further off than before. The change of perspective will be both interesting and frustrating.

Therefore it is with some regret and some relief that I write my last column titled "Education Today." Beginning this week I'll be covering county government and politics and will thus become involved in the never-never land of Cook County.

The regret at leaving the education beat comes primarily from the realization that my future contact with parents, school board members and school officials will be limited in the future. They have been almost consistently helpful and interesting to deal with.

The relief comes from a variety of sources. At least part of it is because I'm looking forward to a new challenge.

ANOTHER PART of the relief comes from the fact that I will no longer have to face two persistent illusions that accompany most of the discussion of education.

There is the illusion that education has changed dramatically in the last 10 years — that the new, innovative teaching techniques have made a dramatic difference in the way students learn.

It is easy to believe that when a person first walks into a school after being away for years. Elementary schools are brighter and more attractive than years go. High schools have given up dress codes and are giving students plenty options of classes to take.

The longer you're around schools, however, the more apparent it is that schools — or at least the processes of education — are not that much different from the "traditional" education most of us grew up with. Even the most amazing innovations are just other ways at getting at the same basic things.

ANOTHER ILLUSION — and it goes along with the first — is that schools are much worse than they were in the past.

If it is true that all the superficial changes haven't improved things much, it is probably also true they haven't hurt much, either. Despite the illusion nurtured by parents and persistent education critics, children still learn to read and still learn to count.

The debates about whether lower test scores "prove" that schools are failing is just that — a debate. And the longer you listen to or read the debate the more convinced you can be that tests — whatever they measure — aren't the best way to judge schools.

If improvements or failures of today's schools are illusions, what are nonillusionary things about schools that are worthwhile discussing?

THE ANSWER to that question, even after almost five years on one kind of education beat or another, is elusive. Some things that deserve attention but seldom get it are relationships between students and teachers (overlooked by most innovators), defining which of society's innumerable problems schools can be expected to solve, and determining which group — professional educators, parents or taxpayers — should make the prime judgments about the direction of education.

Those questions, and others like them, will keep people interested in education busy for a long time.

I will be interested, but in the future I will be observing the debate from further off than before. The change of perspective will be both interesting and frustrating.

Impact of runners shows in revision of record book

by KEITH REINHARD

It was a running year — even the quarterbacks were running — and it was the runners who made the biggest impact on the Mid-Suburban League's football record book and honor rolls updated this week by the Herald.

Palatine halfback Jim Popp and Schaumburg signal caller Russ Zonca set the tempo in 1975, crashing their way to the top of some prestigious lists. That triggered an avalanche of new entries in the single season rushing honor log and paved the way for the respective teams of Zonca and Popp to receive record-book attention as well.

Also sharing in the limelight for the Saxons was Scott Mielke, a new entry among career rushing leaders. Popp, meanwhile, yielded some of the Pirate recognition to teammate Mark McCostlin in the career and single season total offense departments.

There were other achieving tandems as well: Jim Petran and Ray Michaelsen of Forest View, Dave Zimmer and George Bastable of Buffalo Grove, Matt Shaughnessy and Tom North from Arlington, Matt Zakula and Scott Topczewski from Hersey among others.

The biggest gainers, however, in the record manual as they had been on the gridiron all season, were Popp and Zonca . . . not coincidentally the individuals selected by MSL coaches recently as divisional players of the year.

Popp's awesome rushing total for the season — 1109 yards — not only rocketed him to a new league standard and moved him into fifth place among career running, it hiked the 5-9 senior into seventh place on the single season honor roll for total offense.

Popp is among only three running backs (Arlington's Scott Douglass and Falcon John Kronforst are the others) to make this elite list solely on the strength of his rushing abilities.

Zonca eclipsed by better than 250 yards the single campaign mark for total offense. His well-balanced attack (742 yards rushing, 734 yards passing), propelled him past Forest View's Jim Petran who had set the record only last year at 1219.

Schaumburg's 5-11½ veteran playmaker also just barely nudged Petran out of an even more coveted mark, that of career total yardage. This record was previously held at 2057 by Hersey's Mark Zakula for the years 1972 and 1973 combined.

Petran wrapped up his two-year varsity career with 2149 yards, but that super effort wound up being overshadowed by the 2159 yards Zonca amassed during the same period.

Schaumburg and Palatine also dented the team honor roll for best rushing offense and coach Bob Ferguson's Saxons went on to reach several other lists as well, establishing a new mark in the category of defense against the pass. Here's how the whole MSL record book was revised:

Teamwise, Schaumburg dented four lists. Their offensive rushing average of 279.1 is the third best ever registered by an MSL squad and their 373.1 total offense average ranks second only to the 379.4 notched by Hersey in '73.

In coming up with such a potent total offense mark, the Saxons totaled out to 2985 yards, a record, but it will be prefaced as being set in an eight-game season.

Schaumburg also forged a miserly 107.8 total defense tempo, ranking second only to the 83.1 average yield of the 1968 Cardinals. And Schaumburg's defense against the pass — a 25.0 average — tops the previous best effort by Hersey's '71 unit. The 1975 Saxons will surely rank among the all-time best overall teams in loop annuals.

Palatine rushed for a 249.1 average, ranking seventh in the 13-year history of the conference. Also earning a berth in loop history was Buffalo

Area skaters bid for national attention

Paul Logan

Associate Sports Editor

Chicagoland is the ice skating capital of the nation this week.

Down at the Chicago Stadium, the top professional troupe in the business —Shipstads & Johnson Ice Follies — will be performing through Nov. 23.

Closer to home, some of the best amateurs around are in action at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena in Mount Prospect. It's the Upper Great Lakes Figure Skating Championships.

Many years ago, a tiny, golden haired youngster named Janet Lynn Nowicki dazzled the judges in this amateur competition.

Now Janet Lynn is the million dollar superstar of the follies. (Unfortunately, this very charismatic young woman won't be thrilling the crowds this stand because of a severe asthmatic condition.)

Dave Santee

Dreams of such stardom will be helping motivate hopeful area amateurs as they try to advance to the Midwestern Championships and then the Nationals.

Those who watched Janet Lynn as a budding star must take some pride in saying "I remember when she . . ." It's enjoyable seeing a youngster improve. One minute they're still a little unsure of themselves; the next they're on national television, being praised as possible Olympic stars by announcers Dick Button and Jim McKay.

Among the host of Northwest Suburban amateurs, one skater appears ready to attain national and international glory. He's David Santee of Park Ridge.

The 18-year-old star of the Chicago Figure Skating Club will be using this week's competition to sharpen his skills for a key European test later this month. Santee will be skating for the United States team in Russia.

"It ought to be interesting," says David of his fifth trip abroad. "One of the guys I should be going against right now ranks second in the world."

About 15 countries will be sending their top skaters in this warmup for the Winter Olympics next year.

"It'll be a big competition, no question about that," says Santee, who has performed against some of the world's best in Czechoslovakia, Germany and France.

David doesn't need to qualify for the Nationals (Jan. 7-11). The past three years he's been ranked among the top five in the nation. As a junior, he finished first in 1971. Now he feels he's ready to be No. 1 in the Senior Men's division.

"Actually, if I skate my best I have a good chance," he says. Finishing in the top three will earn him a place on the Olympic team — a dream of every figure skater.

This graduate of Maine South High School has been competing seriously since he was nine or for half his life. When he's not working out on the Randhurst ice (7 hours a day, 5 days a week with one day off and 4 hours on Sundays or 39 hours of practice), he's an employe in the arena's pro shop.

"It's pretty expensive," says Santee of his sport. "In the long run, it's all worth it."

Such a grueling pace has to get to even the most motivated of athletes. "Once in a while I get depressed . . . It's hard to keep your sanity."

There's nothing like a James Bond movie, according to David, to break up the monotony. "I'm really a freak about that. It keeps my mind off skating."

David's also into radio announcing. At Maine South, he worked basketball and football games. Button and McKay needn't worry, however, for Santee isn't necessarily considering skating commentary. "I like all sports," he emphasizes.

In the near future he wants to attend Oakton College and then Northwestern. David hasn't ruled out joining a show like the Ice Follies. "A lot of things can happen," he says of his seemingly limitless career.

The show that David and the rest of talented amateurs will put on today through Saturday is worth the modest price (from $1 to $3) of admission.

If you have plenty of skating ability, are 18 or older and are interested in becoming a professional, the Ice Follies might have a spot for you.

A week from today, the Shipstads & Johnson show will hold tryouts following its Thursday show. Interested skaters should call the Chicago Stadium (733-5300) and leave your name and phone number. Someone from the follies will return your call and give you further information.

Irish need victory for Cotton Bowl bid

DALLAS (UPI) — With the bowl rush set to begin next Saturday, Cotton Bowl officials are apparently considering ninth-ranked Notre Dame as the likely opponent for the Southwest Conference champion New Year's Day.

The top two members of the Cotton Bowl heirarchy plan to be in Pittsburgh Saturday to see the Irish take on the Panthers and a Notre Dame victory could wrap up a Cotton Bowl invitation for Notre Dame.

Notre Dame, which has lost to Michigan State and USC while compiling a 7-2 record under new coach Dan Devine, ended its bowl moratorium to meet Texas in the 1970 Cotton Bowl game and then returned the next year to defeat the Longhorns and end their 30-game winning streak.

Undefeated Texas A&M (ranked third), once-beaten Texas (No. 6) and twice-beaten Arkansas (No. 17) are still competing for the SWC championship.

The choice of Notre Dame appears the most likely, particularly if the Irish win over Pittsburgh. The Big Ten runner-up is reportedly headed to Miami for the Orange Bowl and the Big Eight runner-up will not be decided until Nov. 22.

Southern California is another possibility, but Cotton Bowl officials would in all probability conside Notre Dame over USC because of the Irish's lure at the gate.

Olga Korbut in gym tour

Olga Korbut and the USSR Russian gymnastics team will perform at the University of Illinois Assembly Hall at 8 p.m., Dec. 9. The exhibition will be part of a limited nine city tour by the gymnastic stars under the sponsorship of the United States Gymnastics Federation.

The petite Miss Korbut became the most captivating performer of the Munich Olympics when she faulted on the nueven parallel bars in the women's all-around competition. Although Korbut was still in tears after the final event, she determinedly soared to a second-place finish in the unevens and swept gold medals in the balance beam and floor exercises.

Student tickets for the USSR Russian Gymnastic Team Exhibition will go on sale Monday, Nov. 10. Public ticket sales begin Wednesday, Nov. 12. Tickets prices are $10.00, $8.00, $6.50, $5.00. Mail orders should be addressed to the University of Illinois, Assembly Hall Box Office, Champaign, Illinois. For information phone (217) 333-3141.

TERRIFIC TOES. Big ten record setting field goal kickers Tom Skladany (right) of Ohio and Dan Beaver of Illinois engage in animated discussion while leaving the football field Saturday. Skladany kicked a 59-yarder against Purdue Illini, breaking Beaver's 57-yard mark set against Purdue last month.

Black Hawks rally to tie Rangers, 4-4

Ivan Boldirev scored his second goal of the game with only 2:59 left Wednesday night to enable the Chicago Black Hawks to gain a 4-4 tie against the struggling New York Rangers.

Less than two minutes earlier, Rick Middleton, also with his second goal, had put New York in front.

The deadlock kept two streaks intact as Chicago now has gone unbeaten in its last seven games while the Rangers are winless in four games since making their blockbuster trade with Boston. The point gained by the Black Hawks enabled them to stretch their first place lead in the Smythe Division of the NHL to six points over idle St. Louis.

Defenseman Carol Vadnais, obtained in the deal with Boston that also included Phil Esposito, made his debut for the Rangers and cost them the first goal with the game only 6:20 old. Chicago's Pit Martin took the puck from him at the New York blue line and skated in alone to beat goaltender Dunc Wilson on the far side.

Pat Hickey got that back less than five minutes later and the Rangers went ahead 3-1 in the second period on goals by Rod Gilbert and Middleton. But Boldirev came back with his first goal with only 1:08 left in the second period and Alain Daigle tied it for Chicago early in the final period.

Seaver wins third Cy Young award

Tom Seaver, the only pitcher other than Sandy Koufax ever to win the Cy Young Award three times, said Wednesday it meant "something special" to him but he would have had no quarrel if the voters had picked San Diego southpaw Randy Jones over him.

Seaver, who'll be 31 Monday, led the National League with 22 victories and 243 strikeouts, establishing a major league record by striking out 200 or more batters for the eighth time. The New York Mets right-hander polled 98 votes in the balloting by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America and included in that total were 15 first place ballots out of a possible 24.

Jones, a 20-game winner for the Padres, topped all National League pitchers with is 2.24 earned run average. He received 80 votes, including seven first-place ballots.

Bench surgery 'not dangerous'

Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench will undergo surgery on his left shoulder next Monday to repair damage from an early-season collision at home plate, the team announced Wednesday afternoon.

"The operation is not considered dangerous," said a club official, "especially since it does not involve his throwing arm."

Dr. Donald O'Donoghue, who will perform the operation in Oklahoma City, Okla., said Bench should have no problem in being ready for the start of spring training next February.

Bench played with pain through much of the 1975 season after colliding with San Francisco's Gary Matthews in a game here April 22. Bench's shoulder was jammed and cartilage damaged in the collision.

Ashe, Connors advance in tourney

Top-seeded Americans Arthur Ashe of Miami and Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., swept into the quarterfinals of the $90,000 Dewar Cup tennis tournament Wednesday to move nearer to a repeat of their Wimbledon final, but most of the day's "fireworks" were provided by a post-match confrontation between South Africa's Ray Moore and Great Britain's Buster Mottram.

Ashe, the reigning Wimbledon champion, scored an easy 6-2, 6-4 third round victory over Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md. in a night match at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Connors, the defending Dewar's champion from Belleville, Ill., was another Edinburgh qualifier, reaching the last eight by crushing West German Karl Meiler 6-2, 6-1.

Mottram was another who reached the quarterfinals, downing Moore, 0-6, 6-4, 6-3, and the two men almost got into a fistfight in the locker room following their fiery match. The trouble started because Mottram had queried some line calls on Moore's services during their third round match.

Hutch honor to Cincinnati's Nolan

Gary Nolan, a 15-game winner for the world champion Cincinnati Reds after being sidelined two and a half years with a shoulder problem, was named today as 1975 winner of baseball's Hutch Award.

The Cincinnati righthander is the 11th winner of the award, named in memory of former major league pitcher and manager Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in 1964.

Nolan edged Boston Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk and New York Mets pitcher Tom Seaver in the voting by major league broadcasters and writers who support the project.

The honor is voted to a player who overcomes some element of adversity and "exemplifies the fighting spirit, competitive desire and character" of Hutchinson.

Nolan posted a 15-9 record with a 3.16 ERA and pitched 200 innings for the Reds.

Rangers get Briles for Nelson

The Texas Rangers Wednesday traded Dave Nelson, once an all-star second baseman, to the Kansas City Royals for veteran pitcher Nelson Briles, a righthander.

Briles, 32, was acquired by the Royals from Pittsburgh in 1973. He was 11-13 with a 4.14 ERA in two seasons with Kansas City.

Nelson, 31, hit .286, had seven home runs, 48 RBIs and stole 43 bases in 1973, his best season and the year he was named to the American League All-Star team. He was one of four Ranger second basemen.

White Sox farm club returns to Iowa

The Chicago White Sox completed a working agreement with the Iowa Oaks of the American Association for the 1976 season, it was announced Wednesday, and Loren Babe will manage the team.

The Sox had a working agreement with the Oaks in 1973 and 1974 before moving its farm club to Denver last year. The Sox' triple A roster at Denver will be shifted to the Oaks, the Sox said.

Grove, with a 143.9 passing offense average that is the seventh best ever.

Conant, meanwhile, posted a more dubious mark, a 277.8 average defense against the rush that erased a 240.6 high mark set by Glenbard North in 1972.

New single season honor roll entries included the following:

SCORING. Popp now ranks second behind Jack Bastable (Wheeling, '68) with 104 points and he just missed Bastable's touchdown record of 18 by one Zonca is in 15th place on this list with 64 points and Bison Ben Orcutt, Huskie Matt Zakula and Saxon Steve Knudson are tied for 21st at 54. Only 27 players in MSL history have tallied 50 or more points.

RUSHING. Popp heads up a seven-man bonanza of new names on the 26-man list. Elk Grove's Tim Roberts is in seventh place, just behind another Grenadier, Jeff Schroeder ('72) at 804. Zonca is 11th at 742, Dave Lipko of Hoffman Estates is 13 at 710, Mielke is 21st at 620 and Prospect's Dave Thoma is 24th at 602.

PASSING. There are three new entries among the 24 passers in MSL history netting more than 700 yards in one year. Shaughnessy is tied with Hersey's Mark Zakula ('72) at 806, Zimmer is 16th at 756 and Zonca is 21st at 734.

RECEIVING. George Bastable ranks sixth on this 29-man honor roll after pulling in 37 receptions. His 513 yards on those catches is the fourth best ever in a single campaign. Pirate Bill Finlay is tied for eighth on the list at 29 while Card Tom North and Rick Sutton of Rolling Meadows are notted in 22nd place with 22 catches each.

TOTAL OFFENSE. Zonca now heads up this 26-man list with his 1476 outburst and Popp is seventh at 1109. Petran makes his second appearance with 930 yards good for 17th and McCostlin is 22nd at 874.

In terms of career figures, Popp is now fourth in scoring with 124, Zonca is ninth at 102 and Orcutt, with a season yet to go, is 10th at 96. For career rushing, Popp is fifth at 1328, Zonca is 8th at 1122, Mielke is tied with former Maine West great Ken Mandelky in 11th place at 972 and Orcutt is 16th at 930.

For career passing, Petran wound up in fifth place with 1741 yards, Topczewski is now ninth with 1387 and Shaughnessy is 11th at 1224. Only 18 MSL quarterbacks have ever hurled for more than 1000 yards during their versity prep careers.

For career receiving, Bastable is now fourth in receptions with 55 and Finlay is sixth with 48. This glue-fingered twosome also moved on the list for career reception yardage to third and ninth respectively, with totals of 772 and 596. Sandwiched between them are North (also a junior) at 604 and Michaelsen at 601.

The listing for career total offense now has Zonca and Petran 1-2 with McCostlin in eighth place at 1677 just three short yards ahead of former Pirate standout Phil Donahue. Topczewski also made this select ranking, adding 57 yards in rushing his soph season to 773 in passing and rushing last year and 608 in total offense this year for 1438 and 17th place all-time. TERRIFIC TOES. Big ten record setting field goal kickers Tom Skladany (right) of Ohio and Dan Beaver of Illinois engage in animated discussion while leaving the football field Saturday. Skladany kicked a 59-yarder against Purdue Illini, breaking Beaver's 57-yard mark set against Purdue last month.

Ivan Boldirev scored his second goal of the game with only 2:59 left Wednesday night to enable the Chicago Black Hawks to gain a 4-4 tie against the struggling New York Rangers.

Less than two minutes earlier, Rick Middleton, also with his second goal, had put New York in front.

The deadlock kept two streaks intact as Chicago now has gone unbeaten in its last seven games while the Rangers are winless in four games since making their blockbuster trade with Boston. The point gained by the Black Hawks enabled them to stretch their first place lead in the Smythe Division of the NHL to six points over idle St. Louis.

Defenseman Carol Vadnais, obtained in the deal with Boston that also included Phil Esposito, made his debut for the Rangers and cost them the first goal with the game only 6:20 old. Chicago's Pit Martin took the puck from him at the New York blue line and skated in alone to beat goaltender Dunc Wilson on the far side.

Pat Hickey got that back less than five minutes later and the Rangers went ahead 3-1 in the second period on goals by Rod Gilbert and Middleton. But Boldirev came back with his first goal with only 1:08 left in the second period and Alain Daigle tied it for Chicago early in the final period.

Seaver wins third Cy Young award

Tom Seaver, the only pitcher other than Sandy Koufax ever to win the Cy Young Award three times, said Wednesday it meant "something special" to him but he would have had no quarrel if the voters had picked San Diego southpaw Randy Jones over him.

Seaver, who'll be 31 Monday, led the National League with 22 victories and 243 strikeouts, establishing a major league record by striking out 200 or more batters for the eighth time. The New York Mets right-hander polled 98 votes in the balloting by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America and included in that total were 15 first place ballots out of a possible 24.

Jones, a 20-game winner for the Padres, topped all National League pitchers with is 2.24 earned run average. He received 80 votes, including seven first-place ballots.

Bench surgery 'not dangerous'

Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench will undergo surgery on his left shoulder next Monday to repair damage from an early-season collision at home plate, the team announced Wednesday afternoon.

"The operation is not considered dangerous," said a club official, "especially since it does not involve his throwing arm."

Dr. Donald O'Donoghue, who will perform the operation in Oklahoma City, Okla., said Bench should have no problem in being ready for the start of spring training next February.

Bench played with pain through much of the 1975 season after colliding with San Francisco's Gary Matthews in a game here April 22. Bench's shoulder was jammed and cartilage damaged in the collision.

Ashe, Connors advance in tourney

Top-seeded Americans Arthur Ashe of Miami and Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., swept into the quarterfinals of the $90,000 Dewar Cup tennis tournament Wednesday to move nearer to a repeat of their Wimbledon final, but most of the day's "fireworks" were provided by a post-match confrontation between South Africa's Ray Moore and Great Britain's Buster Mottram.

Ashe, the reigning Wimbledon champion, scored an easy 6-2, 6-4 third round victory over Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md. in a night match at London's Royal Albert Hall.

Connors, the defending Dewar's champion from Belleville, Ill., was another Edinburgh qualifier, reaching the last eight by crushing West German Karl Meiler 6-2, 6-1.

Mottram was another who reached the quarterfinals, downing Moore, 0-6, 6-4, 6-3, and the two men almost got into a fistfight in the locker room following their fiery match. The trouble started because Mottram had queried some line calls on Moore's services during their third round match.

Hutch honor to Cincinnati's Nolan

Gary Nolan, a 15-game winner for the world champion Cincinnati Reds after being sidelined two and a half years with a shoulder problem, was named today as 1975 winner of baseball's Hutch Award.

The Cincinnati righthander is the 11th winner of the award, named in memory of former major league pitcher and manager Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in 1964.

Nolan edged Boston Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk and New York Mets pitcher Tom Seaver in the voting by major league broadcasters and writers who support the project.

The honor is voted to a player who overcomes some element of adversity and "exemplifies the fighting spirit, competitive desire and character" of Hutchinson.

Nolan posted a 15-9 record with a 3.16 ERA and pitched 200 innings for the Reds.

Rangers get Briles for Nelson

The Texas Rangers Wednesday traded Dave Nelson, once an all-star second baseman, to the Kansas City Royals for veteran pitcher Nelson Briles, a righthander.

Briles, 32, was acquired by the Royals from Pittsburgh in 1973. He was 11-13 with a 4.14 ERA in two seasons with Kansas City.

Nelson, 31, hit .286, had seven home runs, 48 RBIs and stole 43 bases in 1973, his best season and the year he was named to the American League All-Star team. He was one of four Ranger second basemen.

White Sox farm club returns to Iowa

The Chicago White Sox completed a working agreement with the Iowa Oaks of the American Association for the 1976 season, it was announced Wednesday, and Loren Babe will manage the team.

The Sox had a working agreement with the Oaks in 1973 and 1974 before moving its farm club to Denver last year. The Sox' triple A roster at Denver will be shifted to the Oaks, the Sox said.

Runners rewrite league records

Grove, with a 143.9 passing offense average that is the seventh best ever.

Conant, meanwhile, posted a more dubious mark, a 277.8 average defense against the rush that erased a 240.6 high mark set by Glenbard North in 1972.

New single season honor roll entries included the following:

SCORING. Popp now ranks second behind Jack Bastable (Wheeling, '68) with 104 points and he just missed Bastable's touchdown record of 18 by one Zonca is in 15th place on this list with 64 points and Bison Ben Orcutt, Huskie Matt Zakula and Saxon Steve Knudson are tied for 21st at 54. Only 27 players in MSL history have tallied 50 or more points.

RUSHING. Popp heads up a seven-man bonanza of new names on the 26-man list. Elk Grove's Tim Roberts is in seventh place, just behind another Grenadier, Jeff Schroeder ('72) at 804. Zonca is 11th at 742, Dave Lipko of Hoffman Estates is 13 at 710, Mielke is 21st at 620 and Prospect's Dave Thoma is 24th at 602.

PASSING. There are three new entries among the 24 passers in MSL history netting more than 700 yards in one year. Shaughnessy is tied with Hersey's Mark Zakula ('72) at 806, Zimmer is 16th at 756 and Zonca is 21st at 734.

RECEIVING. George Bastable ranks sixth on this 29-man honor roll after pulling in 37 receptions. His 513 yards on those catches is the fourth best ever in a single campaign. Pirate Bill Finlay is tied for eighth on the list at 29 while Card Tom North and Rick Sutton of Rolling Meadows are notted in 22nd place with 22 catches each.

TOTAL OFFENSE. Zonca now heads up this 26-man list with his 1476 outburst and Popp is seventh at 1109. Petran makes his second appearance with 930 yards good for 17th and McCostlin is 22nd at 874.

In terms of career figures, Popp is now fourth in scoring with 124, Zonca is ninth at 102 and Orcutt, with a season yet to go, is 10th at 96. For career rushing, Popp is fifth at 1328, Zonca is 8th at 1122, Mielke is tied with former Maine West great Ken Mandelky in 11th place at 972 and Orcutt is 16th at 930.

For career passing, Petran wound up in fifth place with 1741 yards, Topczewski is now ninth with 1387 and Shaughnessy is 11th at 1224. Only 18 MSL quarterbacks have ever hurled for more than 1000 yards during their versity prep careers.

For career receiving, Bastable is now fourth in receptions with 55 and Finlay is sixth with 48. This glue-fingered twosome also moved on the list for career reception yardage to third and ninth respectively, with totals of 772 and 596. Sandwiched between them are North (also a junior) at 604 and Michaelsen at 601.

The listing for career total offense now has Zonca and Petran 1-2 with McCostlin in eighth place at 1677 just three short yards ahead of former Pirate standout Phil Donahue. Topczewski also made this select ranking, adding 57 yards in rushing his soph season to 773 in passing and rushing last year and 608 in total offense this year for 1438 and 17th place all-time. The impersonal future? That's not our way of doing business.

One of the things which is appreciated over a period of time is the convenience of getting to and from work. For me, Washington National has the advantage of being situated in an easy to get to, attractive setting and, at the same time is close to shopping and other conveniences. That, plus interesting work and people, adds up to a pleasant work day from the time I leave home in the morning until the time I get home at night.

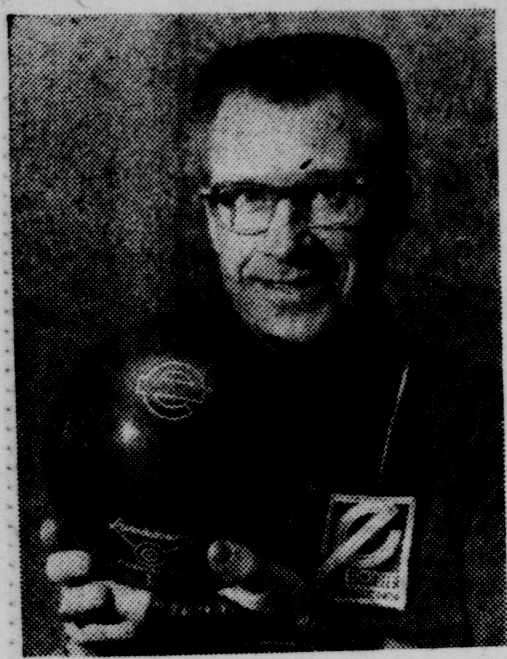
Tips from Bowler of the Year

Anthony bowling series begins Friday



EARL ANTHONY

The reigning "Bowler of the Year," Earl Anthony, will author a 4-part instructional series on bowling fundamentals in the sports section of the Herald, starting Friday.

In the series, "Fundamentals of Bowling," Anthony covers the address, the approach, arm swing and delivery and release.

Anyway you look at it, 1974 was Anthony's year.

He cracked the PBA money winnings for a year wide open with an incredible $99,585, he set a new pinfall record of 219.394, breaking his own mark set just a year earlier, he tied a record by winning six PBA championships in a year, and he cashed in 24 of the 29 tournaments he played.

Also, the crew-cut, 6'1" 185-pound lefthander was named 1974's SPORTING NEWS PBA Player of the Year and he won the Bowling Writers 1974 Bowler of the Year award.

Anthony won two big titles, the $125,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions and the $75,000 PBA National Championship. This was the second year in a row he won the PBA National. His other wins were at San Jose and Fresno, Cal., Cleveland, Ohio, and Honolulu, Hawaii.

He actually had a slow start in 1974 — not registering a win until April. But that first was a spectacular $25,000 first prize in the Firestone Tournament in Akron, Ohio. After that the pins fell at a faster rate for him than for any bowler in PBA history.

The year 1975 is seeing Anthony making a strong run at eclipsing his 1974 record and cracking the PBA $100,000 prize barrier. Also, early in 1975, Anthony signed on as a member of the Ajay/Ebonite Bowling Pro Staff of Champions.

Anthony, who is married and has three children, resides in Tacoma, Wash.

Russian soccer match is quite a show

by GERARD LOUGHRAN

MOSCOW (UPI) — Going to a Russian soccer match requires patience, good humor, physical endurance, a smattering of the language and knowledge of the country's regional rivalries.

Even then, it is a bit like watching "The Battleship Potemkin" without the sub-titles — the main thrust of events is clear enough but crucial nuances risk being lost.

Recently, Moscow hosted a grudge match. The famed Moscow Dynamo, second placed in the top division, was at home to league leader Kiev Dynamo, which doubles as the national team, holds the European super-cup and is the bookmakers nominee to take the European Champions Cup.

It is also the Muscovites' unfavorite team.

The Dynamo stadium is a handsome complex on the road to Sheremetyevo Airport. It can hold a comfortable 75,000, all seated but without cover. For all its size, spectators are never far from the field of play and it imparts a sense of intimacy and involvement.

Wednesday night, brutally cold, spectators surged out of the nearby subway station and paid their one ruble ($1.31) for a ticket and 10 kopecks (13 cents) for a program, the latter a fact filled, 16-page booklet containing a history of Moscow Dynamos sensational 1945 tour of Britain and recalling "poisonous attacks in the British Press."

Hundreds of blue-uniformed militiamen (ordinary police) directed the crowd through long steel barriers — no turnstiles — at the end of which fat ladies ripped the tickets in half. Spectators headed in the general direction of their seats but mostly failed to find their exact places because the painted numbers had peeled from the backrests. Seats were taken in a generally amiable confusion.

From time to time, a militiaman dove into the crowd and emerged triumphantly with an erring spectator who was trying to keep out the cold with vodka. Drink has been banned inside stadiums here for two years. At least three men were hauled out of the section, mostly having been fingered by sharp-eyed stewards with red armbands.

Sitting, shoulder-to-shoulder around the running track were hundreds of troops in khaki uniforms. Whenever play stopped, they stood and faced the crowds.

It was a hard game. Clearly whatever else Kiev Dynamo had learned from international competition, one thing was sophisticated — and sometimes not so sophisticated — fouling techniques. Under constant pressure, the visitors conceded frequent free-kicks and at one stage opponents squared off to fight, a scene until recently almost unknown in well-disciplined Soviet soccer.

Home spectators reacted angrily, shouting "Hooligan, hooligan," the word applied widely here to all kinds of roughnecks.

Kiev's 32-year-old goalkeeper Rudakov, looking fearfully vulnerable in his judgment of high shots into the penalty area, misjudged a high center and Moscow was one up.

The wildly emotional reaction that greeted the goal seemed out of proportion until a Russian explained "They are from Keiv, the Ukraine. We Russians think they are Kulaks (peasants)."

The "Peasants" international successes this season have caused much envy in cosmopolitan Moscow.

By this time, snow was falling heavily and the ball kicked up white clouds under the shimmering lights. The spectators, including women, simply hunched into ther overcoats while the snow heaped up on their shoulders.

Urged on by their manager, the famed ex-goalkeeper Lev Yashin, the Moscow players capitalized again on Rudakov's uncertainties and made it 2-0. Though Blokhin pulled one back with a penalty and spectators were nervously howling "Vremya, Vremya" ("Time, time") for the last 10 minutes of the game, there was no further score.

Tips from Bowler of the Year

Anthony bowling series begins Friday

EARL ANTHONY

The reigning "Bowler of the Year," Earl Anthony, will author a 4-part instructional series on bowling fundamentals in the sports section of the Herald, starting Friday.

Ask Andy

Praying mantis uses mighty jaws

IS THE PRAYING MANTIS POISONOUS?

The praying mantis is very popular with gardeners because she devours a lot of leaf-eating insects. Naturally, she is not popular in the world of insects, and the grasshopper has not one good word to say about her. However, even the insects that detest her most do not claim she is poisonous.

In the world of nature, suitable weapons are handed out to the creatures that need them to defend themselves or to make a living. The tiger has claws, the deer has antlers — which should be enough. As a rule, the few poisonous animals are rather weak and have no other ways to protect themselves or to catch their food. The fragile litle honeybee would be helpless without her stinger. The rattler needs his paralyzing poison to stun his victims.

The large praying mantis is a clever, patient hunter with mighty jaws. She is a giant in the world of insects and goodness knows she has enough weapons to defend herself and to find enough food to fill her famished tummy. No doubt this is why Mother Nature never added a stinger or posioned glands to her body.

There are several types of mantis, or mantid, and most of them are fond of warmish climates. They are large insects, ranging in length from two to five inches. Their long bodies and large leafy wings are colored with browns and greens to blend in with the foliage, where they patiently wait for their victims. All insects have narrow necks, but only the mantids can turn their heads around.

Almost all other insects are on the menu of a praying mantis and she needs no stinger or poisonous fangs to cope with them. For one thing she is disguised to match the scenery so that her victims do not see her until too late. Her endless patience enables her to stay perfectly still until a victim crawls within grabbing distance.

Then she shoots out her long strong front legs and stuffs the victim into her powerful jaws. One of her favorite foods is grasshopper meat — and when one is gobbled up she is ready right away for the next one.

From the people point of view, the praying mantis is a large handsome insect — and very useful in the garden. Many gardeners buy cocoons of mantis eggs and hang them on bushes. Come spring, the little ones hatch. For a while they scout around for smallish insects near the ground. Later they perch among the leaves, doing more than their share to keep down the greedy grasshopper population.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Daniel Doss, 11, of Indianapolis, Ind., for his question:

WHAT IS THE MEANING OF 'E PLURIBUS UNUM'?

This old-old Latin phrase goes back at least 2,000 years — and 200 years ago it became a famous motto. In Latin it means one-out-of-many — and our founding fathers thought that it had a very special meaning for their new nation. To them it meant the creation of the one United States from the original 13 Colonies. In 1776, it was suggested as the official motto to appear on the Great Seal of the United States.

As a rule, a good motto can be expanded to cover many meanings. For example, modern America is a merging of many different people into one nation. In 1873, Congress passed a law to place the famous motto on all our coins. Since then, 'E PLURIBUS UNUM' has been stamped on one side of all our cents, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars. It also appeared on old silver dollars.

Ask Andy

Praying mantis uses mighty jaws

IS THE PRAYING MANTIS POISONOUS?

The praying mantis is very popular with gardeners because she devours a lot of leaf-eating insects. Naturally, she is not popular in the world of insects, and the grasshopper has not one good word to say about her. However, even the insects that detest her most do not claim she is poisonous.

In the world of nature, suitable weapons are handed out to the creatures that need them to defend themselves or to make a living. The tiger has claws, the deer has antlers — which should be enough. As a rule, the few poisonous animals are rather weak and have no other ways to protect themselves or to catch their food. The fragile litle honeybee would be helpless without her stinger. The rattler needs his paralyzing poison to stun his victims.

The large praying mantis is a clever, patient hunter with mighty jaws. She is a giant in the world of insects and goodness knows she has enough weapons to defend herself and to find enough food to fill her famished tummy. No doubt this is why Mother Nature never added a stinger or posioned glands to her body.

There are several types of mantis, or mantid, and most of them are fond of warmish climates. They are large insects, ranging in length from two to five inches. Their long bodies and large leafy wings are colored with browns and greens to blend in with the foliage, where they patiently wait for their victims. All insects have narrow necks, but only the mantids can turn their heads around.

Almost all other insects are on the menu of a praying mantis and she needs no stinger or poisonous fangs to cope with them. For one thing she is disguised to match the scenery so that her victims do not see her until too late. Her endless patience enables her to stay perfectly still until a victim crawls within grabbing distance.

Then she shoots out her long strong front legs and stuffs the victim into her powerful jaws. One of her favorite foods is grasshopper meat — and when one is gobbled up she is ready right away for the next one.

From the people point of view, the praying mantis is a large handsome insect — and very useful in the garden. Many gardeners buy cocoons of mantis eggs and hang them on bushes. Come spring, the little ones hatch. For a while they scout around for smallish insects near the ground. Later they perch among the leaves, doing more than their share to keep down the greedy grasshopper population.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Daniel Doss, 11, of Indianapolis, Ind., for his question:

WHAT IS THE MEANING OF 'E PLURIBUS UNUM'?

This old-old Latin phrase goes back at least 2,000 years — and 200 years ago it became a famous motto. In Latin it means one-out-of-many — and our founding fathers thought that it had a very special meaning for their new nation. To them it meant the creation of the one United States from the original 13 Colonies. In 1776, it was suggested as the official motto to appear on the Great Seal of the United States.

As a rule, a good motto can be expanded to cover many meanings. For example, modern America is a merging of many different people into one nation. In 1873, Congress passed a law to place the famous motto on all our coins. Since then, 'E PLURIBUS UNUM' has been stamped on one side of all our cents, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars. It also appeared on old silver dollars.

NT response to two clubs in this play

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The two notrump response to an artificial two club opening shows at least eight high-card points and a notrump-type hand. It also should deny any worthless doubleton and if possible there should be an honor in each suit.

The idea is that if the opener has a notrump hand of his own there will be no harm in letting that opening hand become dummy.

With three queens and a king and 4-3-3-3 distribution, South responds two notrump. North has opened two clubs with a 23-point hand so he simply raises to three notrump. This tells South just what his hand is. South adds 9 to 23 or 24 and makes an overbid of six notrump.

West opens the 10 of spades and South isn't at all happy with the dummy or his overbid. Twenty three points plus 9 equals 32 and isn't enough for a slam, and South can only count to 11 tricks.

However, lady luck smiles on him and the 12th develops because West gets squeezed. South simply cashes all his black cards. West is forced to discard a heart in order to guard his queen-jack of diamonds and South collects a fourth heart plus slam, game and rubber.

If you're ready for an automatic 35mm camera, your next camera ought to be the smallest, most compact, most flexible electronic SLR camera available: the amazing Asahi Pentax K2.
The K2 not only is smaller and lighter than any other electronic camera now available, it has a new, exclusive 5-bladed titanium shutter — developed in conjunction with the famous watchmaker, Seiko — that allows lightning-fast response in shutter speeds and flash synchronization in 1/125 second.
In its automatic mode, the new Pentax K2 electronically selects shutter speed, from an infinite range between 1/1000 and 8 sec. Or if you wish to use it manually, you simply choose your speed, than match the needle and shoot. The Pentax K2: It's everything a camera is supposed to be. And maybe a little bit more.

NT response to two clubs in this play

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The two notrump response to an artificial two club opening shows at least eight high-card points and a notrump-type hand. It also should deny any worthless doubleton and if possible there should be an honor in each suit.

The idea is that if the opener has a notrump hand of his own there will be no harm in letting that opening hand become dummy.

With three queens and a king and 4-3-3-3 distribution, South responds two notrump. North has opened two clubs with a 23-point hand so he simply raises to three notrump. This tells South just what his hand is. South adds 9 to 23 or 24 and makes an overbid of six notrump.

West opens the 10 of spades and South isn't at all happy with the dummy or his overbid. Twenty three points plus 9 equals 32 and isn't enough for a slam, and South can only count to 11 tricks.

However, lady luck smiles on him and the 12th develops because West gets squeezed. South simply cashes all his black cards. West is forced to discard a heart in order to guard his queen-jack of diamonds and South collects a fourth heart plus slam, game and rubber.

SUBURBAN HOME buyers are encountering lower mortgage loan interest rates at some savings institutions, say real estate experts. Average home values range from $49,000 to $54,000. Home buyers are urged to shop and compare financing costs.

Mortgage 'deals' possible as interest rates decline

by LEA TONKIN

Northwest suburban home buyers should shop and compare financing costs. Lower interest rates recently posted by some area lenders bring the cost of housing down a notch.

"Our rates came down a little, in closing costs," said Lynn Schaller, assistant vice president and mortgage loan officer at Palatine Savings & Loan Assn., Palatine. The lender charges 9 per cent interest plus two points for a 29-year mortgage loan, when a customer shells out a 20 per cent down payment. A point is one per cent of the mortgage loan amount. Schaller said the S&L had charged 3 points for similar loans.

"People are saving more right now," Schaller said. The increased savings received by area lenders means added funds for home loans. Although the money market is easing, Schaller said, the association does not offer 90 per cent financing (10 per cent down payment).

HOME BUYERS can expect a good supply of mortgage money through 1976, predicts Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the U.S. League of Savings Associations. In a statement issued this week at the league's annual convention in Miami Beach, Fla., Strunk forecast net savings of $35 to $40 billion for the year.

"Things are turning around somewhat in the mortgage market, said a spokesman for the Illinois Savings and Loan League, Springfield. Although September figures showed Illinois lenders experienced a decline in savings inflows, the recent savings picture is brighter, he said.

Lower interest rates passed along to home buyers reflect an improved savings trend, said Anthony Lagod, vice president and assistant secretary of Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn., Arlington Heights. The association dropped recently its rates to 9 per cent, plus a 1½ points for 30-year, 80-per-cent loans. The previous interest rate was 9¼ per cent plus 1½ points.

The institution had a net gain of $2 million in savings during October, "and November is starting off very well," Lagod said. New savings outflows were recorded during August and September.

DEMAND FOR home loans is greatest in the 80 per cent category, Lagod said. Home buyers who cannot afford the 20 per cent down payment pay higher rates. Arlington Federal charges 9.3 per cent interest and 2½ points service charge for a 90 per cent loan and 9.4 per cent plus 2½ per cent service charge for a 95 per cent mortgage. The loan term is 30 years.

"It appears there are plenty of funds from local lenders and some by downtown lenders," said Dan Caporusso, sales manager of the Quinlan & Tyson Inc., Realtors sales office in Arlington Heights. "There are some places, if people shop around where you can get 8¾ per cent interest, with 1½ points." Caporusso said the terms applied to a 29-year, 80 per cent loan.

"Rates have been moving down in the past 10 days," the Caporusso said. The improved savings outlook accounts for favorable loan terms on an increased number of lenders making 90 per cent loans, he said.

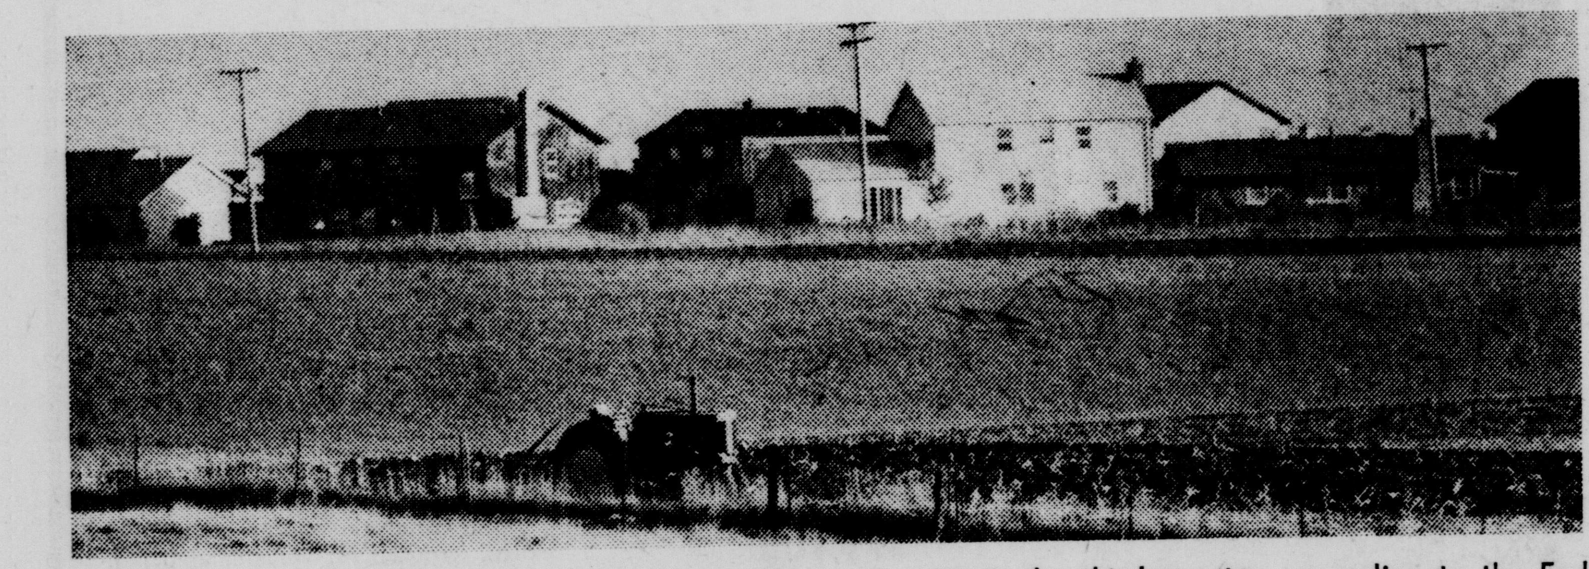
Young couples and first home buyers who have low down payments can come back in the market as the money market loosens, Caporusso said. "Even though the median price range is $54,000, there are still homes in the lower 40s and high 30s. "The best advice we can give to a borrower is to shop around for the best interest rates and service charges," he said.

"MORTGAGE MONEY is freer than it was," Jack Fraser, vice president of Fraser Inc., Realtors of Palatine, said. "We're able to get some 8¾ per cent money but the going rate is 9 per cent."

Area home sales reflect the increased availability of mortgage loan funds, said Jack Garber, a sales associate at the Lieberman Inc., Realtors office in Buffalo Grove. Garber said the firm recorded "close to a million dollars" in sales during October, and November sales are brisk.

Increased home buyer activity is reported by Kole Real Estate Ltd., Mount Prospect. The firm's October sales of $1.16 million compared to October 1974 sales of approximately $900,000.

The MAP Multiple Listing Service, a Northwest suburban realty organization, reports home sales during September increased approximately 30 per cent above sales a year ago, to 558 transactions. The average sale price is more than $49,000.



SUBURBAN developments and farms share the landscape. Farmland values in Illinois increased 9 per cent in the third quarter, according to the Federal Reserve Bank, Chicago.

Land values just keep on rising

The relentless push of new development in the Northwest suburbs and surrounding areas accounts for steady increase in land values, said Jack Olecutt of Olecutt and Co., Glenview.

Top land values in area suburbs vary according to the location, planned use and other features, Olecutt said. He estimates vacant land in Wheeling sells for $20,000 to $25,000 an acre, if it is sold as an apartment development site. The size of the parcel also affects selling price, Olecutt said.

The exodus of families and businesses from Chicago to the suburbs pressures farmers and other land owners as prices increased, said Tom Vick of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission. "There is an extensive amount of prime agricultural land in northeast Illinois," Vicks said.

"There still are some people who believe the primary land value is conversion to commercial development," Vick said. He said developers and the public should understand that farming is an intensive land use.

"WE NEED TO reconsider this ethic of commercial development," he said. "It's (agriculture) an economic facet of the state economic base."

Development of a state land-use plan is one means of designating farmland for preservation as open space, Vick said.

Farmland values in Illinois and surrounding states "showed impressive strength during the third quarter of 1975," said a recent report by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Bankers in Illinois reported an average nine per cent increase in land values.

The surge in land values marks an abrupt turnaround from the three per cent average increase during the past three quarters. The year-to-year increase in area farmland values is 17 per cent.

Pinkerton's offers basic tips

Home checklist a must for winter fire safety

by DOROTHEA BROOKS

Each season brings its special chores for the homeowner.

As fall turns to winter, the home handyman in most sections of the country busies himself with outdoor cleanup and indoor preparations to insure a snug, warm house.

Leaves are cleaned from gutters, the roof checked for leaks, for conditions that might result in a buildup of ice or snow. Storm windows and doors are installed, weatherstripping checked. The heating system is serviced. The tools of winter — snowblowers, shovels — are readied.

THERE'S something that should be added to most lists: a safety check.

Pinkerton's, a leading security firm, warns that winter brings special fire hazards and as many as 5,000 deaths as a result of ignorance or disregard of basic fire prevention measures.

Fire safety, of course, begins with a carefully thought-out plan for escape in the event of fire and regular drills to assure that each family member knows exactly what to do and how to leave the house safely.

Pinkerton's fire prevention training program for its guard force offers a number of useful tips for the homeowner.

Special precautions are necessary when using fireplaces or portable heaters, the firm notes.

Fireplaces:

- Be sure to use a screen and fireplace tools.
- Make certain the fireplace has been well banked with ashes, and screened, to contain dying embers before you go to bed or leave the house.
- Have the chimney checked to be sure it is clean and unclogged before the first fire of the season.
- Follow instructions if using synthetic logs. Use well-seasoned wood if possible, and learn how to lay a fire properly. Do not burn trash in a fireplace.
- If you must use starter fluid, use it sparingly and carefully and keep it far from the fire when not in use.
- Do not leave young children or animals unsupervised in a room with a fire.

Portable heaters:

- Turn heater off when not in use.
- Keep heater away from curtains and furniture.
- Be sure heater is in good working order and equipped with automatic shutoff mechanism in case it tips over.
- Check for overloaded circuits, which may cause noticeable dimming of nearby lights or excessive heat in cord.
- Electric cord should be in good condition and placed out of the way of traffic to prevent accidents.

Ventilation:

- Never close windows all the way when sleeping with a gas heater on.
- Avoid drafts that might trigger or spread a fire.
- Keep window open when working with flammable liquids, so fumes can escape.

HOW shows great growth

The Home Owners Warranty Corporation (HOW) showed a pattern of remarkable growth during the program's first year of operation as outlined in its annual report to the Board of Directors of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) at their fall meeting in Hawaii. Even in this disastrous climate for the housing industry, the HOW Program is experiencing increased acceptance by both builders and buyers.

HOW is a 10-year home buyer protection plan which combines a builder warranty, insurance coverage through the American Bankers Insurance Company and a unique conciliation and arbitration procedure for settling builder/buyer disputes. Based on a similar program operating in Britain, HOW is the first of its kind in this country.

Local and state HOW Councils have been formed in 35 different states and include the jurisdictions of 248 NAHB-affiliated builders' associations, covering more than 40 per cent of the country. And in the year since the first home was enrolled in the program in Miami, well over 30,000 new homes have been included under HOW's protection.

Under this program, the builder provides a warranty for one full year on workmanship and materials based on HOW's national standards. During the second year, the owner is protected against major structural defects and certain failures in the wiring, piping and duct work in the systems of the house. The last eight years of the program provide coverage by a national insurance plan.

The reason for HOW's tremendous growth pattern seems to be that the program benefits both the buyer and the builder. Consumers recognize the added protection that this insured plan provides on their purchases of new homes. And, builders are able to use the HOW Program as a marketing tool and as a means of easing customer relations problems. The local builders associations, who must take the initiative by forming a HOW Council, are reaping benefits of increased membership and increased visibility in their communities.

One of the key aspects of the program is the complaint-handling process which uses important elements of dispute resolution proven successful over the years in business and labor relations. The system, which uses both conciliation and arbitration, first calls for the builder and buyer to try resolving differences themselves.

At the first step of this procedure, the local or state HOW Council attempts to establish or re-establish communications between the builder and the buyer. If that doesn't result in an agreement, the buyer can pay a $25 deposit and request conciliation. The fee, of course, is an attempt to discourage frivolous complaints.

Once conciliation has been requested, the Council appoints a neutral person to look into the problem and attempt to clarify the issues so the parties themselves can reach a mutually-acceptable agreement. If HOW's conciliation process does not end in this mutually-satisfactory way, either the builder or the buyer can request arbitration through the American Arbitration Association.

However, HOW's early experience with the complaint-handling system shows that the builder and buyer are almost always able to work out any disagreements which may arise over what is or is not covered under the warranty. According to Ray Parker, a member of the Colorado HOW Council's conciliation panel, "Just having this formal system seems to cut down on the number of complaints that a builder and a buyer can't resolve."

For example, in Colorado, where HOW has been in operation for a year, more than 8,000 homes have been enrolled in the program. Only five builder/buyer disagreements have reached the conciliation step of the complaint-handling process; none have gone to arbitration.

Consumer response to HOW has always been positive. But with increased exposure to the HOW Program, the consumer is beginning to ask his builder for the HOW protection.

The Chicago Daily News recently reported that a survey they conducted of Chicago builders revealed that home buyers are now asking if builders offer HOW's 10-year protection on their houses. The article quotes NAHB Vice President and Treasurer Robert Arquilla as saying, "Everybody is pleased that we are offering tte program." In the article Arquilla also said that the feeling was strongest among condominium buyers who have been exposed to bad publicity about condominiums in the media.

Another area where HOW may make the difference for the consumer is in choosing between a new or resale home. According to a study sponsored by the Home Builders Association of St. Louis to determine the needs of residents in Metropolitan St. Louis, 10-year coverage on new homes such as that offered by HOW would make a difference to 67 per cent of those interviewed in selecting a new home to buy. The study's authors speculate that with greater consumer awareness of HOW, the program could create special interest among buyers in new homes as opposed to resale homes, since the majority of buyers planning to purchase a resale home explained their decision in terms of getting a better-built home in the resale market.

All-time sales record set

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, has smashed another all-time sales record.

After only nine months of 1975, the firm surpassed its annual sales record by rolling up gross residential sales of $143 million.

That mark toppled the previous 12-month sales record of $133 million, set in 1973.

A strong showing in September enabled the leading North Shore and northwest suburban area real estate firm to set the new mark, according to William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

Helping to set a pace that is 30 per cent ahead of 1974 is the firm's Winnetka area office, which has recorded total residential sales of $21.3 million after nine months.

Other gross sales leaders include the Evanston area office, $16.6 million; Deerfield area office, $15.1 million; and Glenview-Northbrook area office, $14.8 million.

Meanwhile, Quinlan & Tyson's Lake Forest area office has the lead in average sales per sales desk for the firm, with more than $1 million. Close behind is the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office with an $871,000 average per sales desk.

Martin said Quinlan and Tyson's Highland Park area office has recorded huge gains, with sales totaling 57 per cent more than the same nine month period of 1974. Comparing the same nine months, the Lake Forest area office is up 51 per cent and the Libertyville-Mundelein area office is up 50 per cent.

Quinlan and Tyson's strong September showing resulted in gross residential sales of $14.3 million for the month, a 56 per cent jump over September, 1974.

Impressive September efforts were recorded by the Glenview-Northbrook area office, $1.9 million; the Deerfield and Winnetka area offices, each with $1.8 million; and the Evanston area office, $1.5 million.

The Glenview-Northbrook office's September volume was a 141 per cent increase over September of 1974.

Record-breaking pace continues

Baird & Warner, Inc., chalked up 403 sales participations in September to continue its momentum toward a new record-breaking year.

Except for the 399 reported in August, the diversified real estate company has not been below 400 sales since February.

The September surge in both sales production and dollar volume produced a sharp jump over the same month last year and kept the 120-year-old real estate company substantially ahead for nine months.

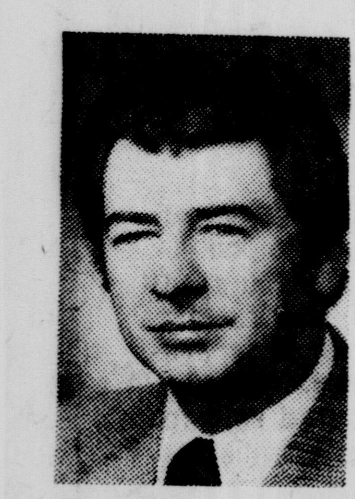
The 403 participations compared to 243 a year ago and produced a dollar volume of $25,153,207, almost doubling the $12,629,764 for September, 1974.

Gains were shared by both residential and commercial/industrial sales division.

Residential sales in September were well distributed throughout the metropolitan area but the northwest suburban area was particularly active, reported Walters.

Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect offices combined to produce $4,222,983, an all-time monthly record for the sister offices. Barrington chipped in with $1,606,085 for the month while three other offices also posted more than $1 million in sales, They include: Glen Ellyn, $1,158,542; Winnetka, $1,036,500; and Lake Shore, $1,012,943.

Laureto named sales leader



Larry Laureto

Dale B. Hadaway, vice president and sales manager of the T. A. Bolger Realtors Elk Grove office, announced that Larry J. Laureto has been named "Sales Leader of the Month" for September.

Laureto has been with the Bolger organization 10 months. Prior to joining Bolger, Laureto had been based in Michigan involved in inter-state land sales and general real estate for the past seven years.

Laureto, his wife Mary and their daughter Ramona are residing in Elk Grove Vilage.

Even in this disastrous climate for the housing industry, the HOW Program is experiencing increased acceptance by both builders and buyers.

HOW is a 10-year home buyer protection plan which combines a builder warranty, insurance coverage through the American Bankers Insurance Company and a unique conciliation and arbitration procedure for settling builder/buyer disputes. Based on a similar program operating in Britain, HOW is the first of its kind in this country.

Local and state HOW Councils have been formed in 35 different states and include the jurisdictions of 248 NAHB-affiliated builders' associations, covering more than 40 per cent of the country. However, HOW's early experience with the complaint-handling system shows that the builder and buyer are almost always able to work out any disagreements which may arise over what is or is not covered under the warranty. After only nine months of 1975, the firm surpassed its annual sales record by rolling up gross residential sales of $143 million.

That mark toppled the previous 12-month sales record of $133 million, set in 1973.

A strong showing in September enabled the leading North Shore and northwest suburban area real estate firm to set the new mark, according to William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

Helping to set a pace that is 30 per cent ahead of 1974 is the firm's Winnetka area office, which has recorded total residential sales of $21.3 million after nine months.

Meanwhile, Quinlan & Tyson's Lake Forest area office has the lead in average sales per sales desk for the firm, with more than $1 million. Close behind is the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office with an $871,000 average per sales desk.

Check neighborhood before buying

Checking out a neighborhood is just as important as checking out a house you're interested in buying, according to Baird & Warner, Inc.

"The neighborhood has a lot to do with the present and future value of the house," says Robert G. Walters, senior vice president and general sales manager of the company's residential sales division. "Two identical houses may have entirely different values because of the different neighborhoods they are located in.

"At the same time, remember that the particular attractions of a neighborhood may appeal differently to different people," he said. "A young family may consider nearby schools to be important, while an older couple has no concern about this."

To aid prospective home-seekers, Baird & Warner suggests the following points be evaluated in checking out a neighborhood:

Is it well kept and attractive?

Are the people who live there the kind you'll be comfortable with?

What are the yearly property taxes?

Any signs of special assessments in the offing, to pay for such things as street and sidewalk repairs, sewers or street lighting?

What about the zoning? Any chance that an objectionable building will be put up nearby? Or that a neighbor can operate a repair shop in his garage?

Are there any nearby sources of annoying noises or odors, such as factories and major streets?

Is the neighborhood in an incorporated or unincorporated area? In either case, are police and fire protection adequate?

How far away is the nearest public elementary and high school? Is bus service provided? Where's the nearest parochial school if this is important to you?

Is a church or synagogue of your choice nearby?

What kind of public transportation is available? Where's the nearest stop? If you plan to commute, how much will it cost?

Will you need a second car? Is there adequate street parking? Any restrictions on all-night parking?

How far away is the mearest convenience shopping? How far away is the nearest shopping center?

What about controls on pets running loose?

Are you close to cultural facilities, such as theaters, movies, libraries and art centers?

Any parks and playgrounds nearby? Are they well maintained and equipped?

Is refuse and garbage collection adequate?

What's the source of drinking water? Will you need a water softener?

Is hte sewer system adequate? Or does the neighborhood flood in heavy rains?

Walters suggested that home-seekers bring along a copy of this list when they inspect neighborhoods and rate each point with a plus or minus. The more pluses a neighborhood has, the better it is.

'House stacking': a new concept

"'Hit the decks' may become the new theme of the housing industry as 'stacked housing' overtakes other dwelling concepts in the next two decades."

So says Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry.

Within the next 25 years, Goss observes, the traditional private American home will be transferred from its quarter-acre lot and linked up with "decks" of similar homes.

"The idea of deck housing," Goss comments, "has taken root already in Great Britain and Sweden, countries where such design innovations have resulted in stacked deck homes connected vertically by stairways and horizontally by bridges, pedestrian walkways and bicycle paths."

IMIC studies, he reports, have indicated a growing interest nationwide in these residential housing concepts which seek to make the best use of available land resources.

Some advantages, Goss notes, in deck housing:

- Gardening and other hobby opportunities within the privacy of each unit.
- Attractive and flexible living space for empty-nesters who may want extra rooms for visiting offspring — without the maintenance worries of a large detached residence.

Full-range recreational amenities planned and maintained for development use at a fraction of the cost such facilities would engender on a private or semi-private level.

- Instant neighborhoods with built-in security and social opportunities for every age group.
- Optimal site locations with planned access to major transportation, shopping and employment centers.

Deck housing, particularly in the suburbs, he adds, will be landscaped, customized and designed to meet a variety of family tastes and comfort notions.

"Stacking up," Goss concludes, "may well provide one of the answers to America's future residential needs."

Open house held

Dry Storage Corporation recently introduced the first phase of planned O'Hare-Des Plaines public warehousing facilities with an "Open House" held at 1800 South Wolf Road, Des Plaines.

Mayor Herb Behrel along with local and national business executives had an opportunity to observe the warehouse operation on a first hand basis. Many comments were made about the sparkling cleanliness of the building and the orderliness of the merchandise in store.

The firm, in its fifteenth year, operates over a million square feet of warehousing to provide comprehensive services in distribution of commercial products to a variety of customers across the nation.

Initial customers in the Wolf Road plant are American Can Company (Paper, E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Company (Plastics) and Consolidated-Bathurst, Ltd. (Newsprint).

2 free booklets available

Fire takes 18 lives every day, more than 6,600 people each year; it destroys one residence every minute, a total of more than $874 million in residential property every year.

This death and destruction can often be laid at the doorsteps of carelessness, poor housekeeping, neglect and misinformation. To promote fire safety information and education, and to prevent needless disaster, Fire Prevention Week was observed October 5 through 11.

Because they feel fire prevention should be a year round concern, the Kemper Insurance Companies are making available free, two fire safety prevention booklets.

"Children's Fire Safety Lessons" combines songs, pictures and coloring exercises to improve a child's comprehension and awareness of fire safety. "Protect Your Home From Fire" is a home inspection checklist of the fire hazards to look for and guard against in residential dwellings.

Up to five copies of the booklets are available free by writing the Communications and Public Affairs Department, D-1, Kemper Insurance Companies, Long Grove, Il. 60049.

For teachers, up to 50 copies are available free.

Everything Bolger Touches Turns to "SOLD"

2 free booklets available

Fire takes 18 lives every day, more than 6,600 people each year; it destroys one residence every minute, a total of more than $874 million in residential property every year.

This death and destruction can often be laid at the doorsteps of carelessness, poor housekeeping, neglect and misinformation. To promote fire safety information and education, and to prevent needless disaster, Fire Prevention Week was observed October 5 through 11.

Because they feel fire prevention should be a year round concern, the Kemper Insurance Companies are making available free, two fire safety prevention booklets.

"Children's Fire Safety Lessons" combines songs, pictures and coloring exercises to improve a child's comprehension and awareness of fire safety. "Protect Your Home From Fire" is a home inspection checklist of the fire hazards to look for and guard against in residential dwellings.

Up to five copies of the booklets are available free by writing the Communications and Public Affairs Department, D-1, Kemper Insurance Companies, Long Grove, Il. 60049.

For teachers, up to 50 copies are available free.

MGM sales up

MGM Realty, with offices in Wheeling, Skokie, Chicago and Niles, announced record total sales of almost $6 million for the months of August and September, according to Robert B. Green, president.

Green said the two-month's sales record is approximately a 40 per cent increase over home sales for the same two months of 1974 when the residential market took a strong dip.

Green attributed MGM's increased sales to the addition of a new Wheeling office, to the recent increase in rental units and to prospects of future rent increases.

MGM sales up

MGM Realty, with offices in Wheeling, Skokie, Chicago and Niles, announced record total sales of almost $6 million for the months of August and September, according to Robert B. Green, president.

Green said the two-month's sales record is approximately a 40 per cent increase over home sales for the same two months of 1974 when the residential market took a strong dip.

Green attributed MGM's increased sales to the addition of a new Wheeling office, to the recent increase in rental units and to prospects of future rent increases.

NI-Gas warns consumers against fraudulent practices

Northern Illinois Gas Co. warns its customers that people posing as gas company employes have been reported seeking entrance to homes within the NI-Gas service territory for fraudulent purposes. Most of the schemes involve demands for cash payments for inspections or repairs. NI-Gas' service territory covers 35 counties in the northern third of the state outside the city of Chicago.

NI-Gas officials stress that in normal situations a service call is made only if the customer has requested it or made an appointment, in instances of gas main construction and during normal meter reading every two months. Customers are notified by mail prior to any collection of money by NI-Gas' customer service employes and all charges for services are indicated on the customer's regular bill.

Officials at the utility add that all NI-Gas employes are provided with -Gas employes are provided with identification cards which bear color photogrphas of the employes, the NI-Gas name and signature of the bearer. The I.D. is readily available upon request. Also, all NI-Gas vehicles have a distinctive blue and white color combination; service rucks have identifiable company markings.

Community authorities or the local NI-Gas office should be consulted if a person cannot adequately confirm that a caller is a NI-Gas employe.

Compromise agreement arranged

A major step in the successful reorganization of Gulf South Corporation and one of its principal subsidiaries, Horseshoe Development Corporation, was effected in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Oklahoma Oct. 1 when Dan Hogan III and Gary Gray, trustees of Horseshoe Development Corporation, and Westinghouse Credit Corporation signed a compromise agreement settling $14,063,189.05 of Horseshoe claims.

In the agreement, Westinghouse Credit Corporation has agreed to purchase land sales contracts previously pledged to them as loan collateral for principal settlement of their outstanding claim against Horseshoe Development Corporation. In addition, WCC will purchase from Horseshoe additional contracts up to $3,600,000 by Oct. 15, (and $1,800,000 was obtained by the company through this arrangement on Oct. 7.) The company has used most of these funds to repay its outstanding Trustee Certificates to other creditors.

However, as a protection to land purchasers at Horseshoe Bend Estates, it has been stipulated that 30 per cent of all funds received by Horseshoe in the settlement will be escrowed for completion of capital improvements only.

Furthermore, Warranty Deeds are presently being prepared on all property involved in the contracts purchased by Westinghouse Credit Corporation. These deeds will b escrowed and delivered to lot purchasers upon payment in full of their contracts. Therefore all affected lot purchasers at Horseshoe Bend Estates are assured of clear title to their property upon compliance with the terms of their contracts.

With the concurrence of the creditors, the Court has permitted the issuance of Trustee Certificates to fund the "business as usual" operation of Horseshoe Development Corporation. Nearly $10,000,000 in lot and home sales have been written during this Chapter X period, adding equity to the corporate structure. Over $1,000,000 in capital improvements have been completed during this same period.

College towns show growth

"College towns cross-country show solid economic growth profiles — with construction and commerce burgeoning — despite the present monetary squeeze."

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry.

A report from Investors Mortgage highlights a variety of expansion trends in these communities, including:

College towns nationally have been experiencing a 10.5 percent cumulative rise in new apartment and private home units since 1970.

The single-family home market has grown in college or university communities from 60 percent of the housing mix in 1970 to about 72 per cent in 1975; escalating demand, however, continues high for private dwellings.

Vacancy rates in single-family homes remain low for college towns over the country — averaging well below the national average of 6.1 percent vacancy rates in owner-occupied housing.

"Along with solid housing industry gains in collegiate communities," Goss notes, "such towns have also reflected substantial population growth since 1970 — as much as 19 percent over the last census reading."

He reports that both student population increases — and faculty-staff additions to campuses across the country — are bolstering growth of academic-based communities.

"Growth trends in college towns," Goss concludes, "have proven recession-proof thus far into 1975 — and the housing industry will continue to meet the expanding needs of their residents."

Compromise agreement arranged

A major step in the successful reorganization of Gulf South Corporation and one of its principal subsidiaries, Horseshoe Development Corporation, was effected in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Oklahoma Oct. 1 when Dan Hogan III and Gary Gray, trustees of Horseshoe Development Corporation, and Westinghouse Credit Corporation signed a compromise agreement settling $14,063,189.05 of Horseshoe claims.

In the agreement, Westinghouse Credit Corporation has agreed to purchase land sales contracts previously pledged to them as loan collateral for principal settlement of their outstanding claim against Horseshoe Development Corporation. In addition, WCC will purchase from Horseshoe additional contracts up to $3,600,000 by Oct. 15, (and $1,800,000 was obtained by the company through this arrangement on Oct. 7.) The company has used most of these funds to repay its outstanding Trustee Certificates to other creditors.

However, as a protection to land purchasers at Horseshoe Bend Estates, it has been stipulated that 30 per cent of all funds received by Horseshoe in the settlement will be escrowed for completion of capital improvements only.

Furthermore, Warranty Deeds are presently being prepared on all property involved in the contracts purchased by Westinghouse Credit Corporation. These deeds will b escrowed and delivered to lot purchasers upon payment in full of their contracts. Therefore all affected lot purchasers at Horseshoe Bend Estates are assured of clear title to their property upon compliance with the terms of their contracts.

With the concurrence of the creditors, the Court has permitted the issuance of Trustee Certificates to fund the "business as usual" operation of Horseshoe Development Corporation. Nearly $10,000,000 in lot and home sales have been written during this Chapter X period, adding equity to the corporate structure. Over $1,000,000 in capital improvements have been completed during this same period.

The automatic transmission Rabbit achieved 35 miles per gallon in the highway and 24 miles per gallon in the city test. The same fuel economy figures apply to the VW Scirocco, the company stated.

Take advantage of tax breaks

Time is running out on home buyers seeking to take advantage of the Tax Reduction Act of 1975, warns Sheldon Lazar, director of sales and marketing of Miller Builders, Inc., of Skokie.

Tax credits of 5 per cent or up to $2,000 on the purchase price of a qualified home, are allowable only on contracts consummated by December 31, 1975.

With home prices on the increase this year, relatively few new homes still are available which meet the law's requirement that the sale price must not exceed that of Feb. 28, 1975.

Miller Builders, however, has held the price line on a number of homes in four of its six active suburban housing developments, according to Lazar, who pointed out that:

"Having held the price level throughout the year, we will quickly clear out our inventory of new homes since sales now are purchasing at prices which date back to an earlier stage of inflation, and because they can reduce their tax burden right away," he added.

The tax credit, Lazar explained, is a full tax reduction in contrast to the deduction from taxable income of such "deductibles" as interest payments on a mortgage loan.

Miller Developments with homes which qualify for tax credits include:

Plymouth Farms in Vernon Hills, featuring quadrominium plans with two and three bedrooms priced from $25,990.

Nantucket Cove in Schaumburg, also a quadrominium community with two-bedroom units from $29,250.

Old Salem, a townhome development in Hanover Park with two and three-bedroom homes priced from $32,750, and

The Province of Yorktown, a 60-unit midrise condominium in Lombard next to Yorktown Shopping Center, where prices start at $39,750. Floor plans include two, two-bedroom models and two, three-bedroom models, each with two baths.

Home improvement increases

In 1974 Americans spent more than $21 billion scraping, painting, adding rooms or otherwise modernizing their homes, reports the U.S. Census Bureau. The expenditures were 14 per cent above the remodeling outlays of the year before.

Home improvement has become a growth industry for a variety of reasons. Many homeowners are reluctant to move their families from a comfortable and established neighborhood to one that may be an unknown quantity. The high cost of moving is another. And, more and more people are getting into do-it-yourself, not only as a way to spend their leisure time, but as a way of coping with the high cost of living.

While reroofing has become one of the most popular home improvement projects, it's not the kind of job an average handyman should undertake. Since no roof is better than the quality of the application, the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association suggests it be handled by a qualified roofer who can do a professional job.

A growing number of homeowners are beginning to replace their roofs for aesthetic reasons these days instead of waiting until they "wear out." With asphalt shingles, homeowners are able to use color and texture as design elements in a departure from routine, look-alike roofing.

Heavy-textured asphalt shingles add interest to a roof by providing rustic, deep, shadow lines that add dimension. Available in popular earthtone shades of olive, slate and brown, these shingles can be used to blend or contrast with the siding.

FJW Industries acquires assets

FJW Industries, Mount Prospect, Ill., has acquired assets of the Acousto-Optic division of the Optical Systems Group, Zenith Radio Corporation, Melrose Park. Assets include equipment, inventory, patents and good-will of the Acousto-Optic line of light modulators, laser deflectors and accessories. The line will be manufactured and marketed by FJW Industries at their Mount Prospect plant.

The acquisition will enable FJW to advance their present position in the rapidly expanding laser technology field.

FJW Industries, with plants in Mount Prospect, and Huntington, West, Va., is a leading manufacturer of lenses, electro-optical products and infrared viewing devices for commercial, medical and scientific industries. The company is a prime contractor to the U.S. Government and is currently supplying the Army with M19 and M24 periscopes for night vision by military vehicles.

Melrose Savings promotes Doerr

George Doerr

Norman W. Zech, president of Melrose Savings announces the appointment of George A. Doerr as manager of its Palatine office.

Constitution reform pushed by two groups

A volunteer group and several state senators have started a move to have three constitutional amendments, which would reaffirm the Illinois General Assembly, placed on the ballot next year.

The Senate group, headed by State Sen. James Philip, R-Elmhurst, and the Coalition for Political Honesty both have launched efforts to amend the state constitution.

The citizens group, headed by David Ellsworth, is hopeful of getting 375,000 signatures on petitions throughout the state before May.

Philip said both the houses in the General Assembly must approve a bill, which has 22 cosponsors, before the amendments can be placed on the ballot.

THE AMENDMENTS are aimed at ending "double dipping, prohibiting state officials from voting on measures which they have a financial or personal conflict in, and blocking lawmakers from collecting their full salary for two years in advance.

Patrick Quinn, a spokesman for the citizens' group, cited the case involving State Sen. Donald Swinarski, D-Chicago, who was convicted on a zoning kickback scheme last year but collected his salary in advance and will not give it back.

Philip said he has 22 Republican cosponsors for his bill. He cited that case involving Chicago Ald. Esther Saperstein who left the state senate after being reelected. She collected her salary before leaving office and has filed suit seeking a ruling on whether she must return the money.

Constitution reform pushed by two groups

A volunteer group and several state senators have started a move to have three constitutional amendments, which would reaffirm the Illinois General Assembly, placed on the ballot next year.

The Senate group, headed by State Sen. James Philip, R-Elmhurst, and the Coalition for Political Honesty both have launched efforts to amend the state constitution.

The citizens group, headed by David Ellsworth, is hopeful of getting 375,000 signatures on petitions throughout the state before May.

Philip said both the houses in the General Assembly must approve a bill, which has 22 cosponsors, before the amendments can be placed on the ballot.

THE AMENDMENTS are aimed at ending "double dipping, prohibiting state officials from voting on measures which they have a financial or personal conflict in, and blocking lawmakers from collecting their full salary for two years in advance.

Patrick Quinn, a spokesman for the citizens' group, cited the case involving State Sen. Donald Swinarski, D-Chicago, who was convicted on a zoning kickback scheme last year but collected his salary in advance and will not give it back.

Philip said he has 22 Republican cosponsors for his bill. He cited that case involving Chicago Ald. Esther Saperstein who left the state senate after being reelected. She collected her salary before leaving office and has filed suit seeking a ruling on whether she must return the money.

Catalogs: a vital part of a life style

by JILL LESLIE SENFT

Instructors have used catalogs to teach English and to compute mathematical problems. Childbirth classes have employed the heavier catalog editions to place on stomachs to practice utilizing tummy muscles. People have even made their living by renting out their volumes. And during earlier fights against Communism, the catalog was used successfully as propaganda to show what was available in capitalistic countries.

Perhaps the use of the catalog is not as innovative or romantic as it once was but its use is more widespread than ever before.

There are in excess of 4,500 catalogs covering a multitude of merchandise including 1,500 that specialize in clothing and accessories. Even retail stores are selling by catalog.

THE MOST FAMOUS and comprehensive catalogs come from Sears Roebuck and Co., J. C. Penney Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co. All have retail outlets and use the catalogs to expand and stimulate mail, phone and in-store orders.

Not too long ago there was a slump in their popularity. The customer was changing and to compensate for the decline, changes had to be implemented. The companies examined, analyzed, reevaluated and changed. Now the demand for the catalog is tremendous with the Big Three earning $21 billion a year.

The new "class" catalogs, an outgrowth of the first catalogs, have in turn influenced and upgraded the originals and have attracted a different type of customer.

THOMAS PRYTHERCH, catalog group market manager of Sears, made this recent appraisal: "The catalog customer is not a different customer from a retail customer. She is very much the same — suburban — and lives close to our stores. Many shop both by catalog and in the stores."

Cindy Coureas, the fashion coordinator of misses dresses of Sears, added, "We are, of course, trying to merchandise to Mrs. America, but along with the increased emphasis on fashion, we are very aware that her needs have changed. We will keep some basic items for our older customers. There's that up-front part of the book that deals strictly with the fashion customer."

All three catalogs focus their attention on Mrs. America (between 25-44), her husband and family. They no longer concentrate on the farm worker in the rural areas although they do take his needs into consideration. Rather, the emphasis is directed to suburban and metropolitan people and an effort is made to serve middle and upper income families.

J. C. PENNEY'S catalog fashion coordinator, Virginia Sorem, believes that fashion is "not just style, fad, taste or trend, but very simply how we live."

She said, "It is the business of our business to translate social patterns into merchandise and services. To monitor, anticipate, develop or obtain merchandise that satisfies the needs and wants of people. This work is greatly complicated by the fact that there are so many kinds of people . . . We must serve the multiple segments of society in over 2,000 locations."

BULKY KNIT sweater with tie belt shown in Sears and Roebuck catalog, fits catalog fashion theory of providing styles for "how we live."

In addition to adapting to the needs of the new customers there are many explanations for the upsurge in popularity.

Virginia Sorem explained, "It is the convenience of thinking at home, in comfort, and making the decisions with the entire family."

PRYTHERCH AGREED, "Catalog buying is a convenience. There are a lot of references made about the energy crisis, the cost of gas and the cost of transportation."

He continued, "Today a lot of retail stores are under heavy inventory pressure because of interest rates, and in many cases the stocks of merchandise are not complete. This is a perpetual problem of the retail industry — being out of stock in many of the best-selling sizes and colors. With catalogs, the customer has the advantage of placing the order and being notified if it is available without endless trips back to the store."

Fulfillment of orders is an important indication of a catalog's success. It applies to all the catalogs, but it was Rita Perna, national fashion coordinator of Montgomery Ward, who revealed, "The buyer is judged on his ability to fulfill orders." And based on his calculations, the company expects to earn one-quarter million dollars on each page and frequently realizes a million.

IN ADDITION, getting to the store takes more effort — traffic is exhausting. Many stores are over-boutiqued and overwhelming and merchandise is scattered all over the store so that you must dress and undress too many times. Clothes in the catalogs conform to standardized sizes determined by specific divisions, whereas in department stores and boutiques, each department and each manufacturer has its own size.

Even though more men are making purchases, the women still are the significant force. Today, 46 per cent of women over 16 work. Since it is no longer fashionable to be idle, shopping as a pastime has all but vanished.

And, their success is bolstered by the commitment to have the merchandise available in stock for the period of time that is clearly stated in each book — and at the specified price.

Catalogs with their unlimited possibilities and their emphasis on integrity, value and worth have captured many loyal followers. All indications are that this buying trend will continue, and the catalog's popularity will increase even more.

Remember me, Jackie?

A little sympathy for a working girl

Dear Jackie,

Several Christmas seasons ago I wrote you with suggestions for your holiday shopping. I don't know if you used my gift ideas about the live zoo for the children or the tank car of after shave lotion for the men in your life, but it doesn't matter. I have some more ideas — money saving ideas.

You see, I've read of your financial difficulties and I want you to know you're not alone. Things are tough all over. But your new job at Viking Press at $200 per week will help.

By the way, I also work for the press (my salary is more than yours — now isn't that a laugh?) and as one busy newspaper gal to another, I can empathize. Now that you have joined the ranks of the working gal, you won't have as much time to shop, and with less income, you have a problem. Maybe I can help.

IF YOU DON'T make your own gifts for family and friends, very helpful are these scores of little shopper catalogs that are now arriving daily in the mails.

Neiman-Marcus has dropped me from its mailing list — probably because the only thing I ever ordered was a cheap ($12) gold plate broken fingernail protector. They'll likely drop you, too, after reading that your income is down to $341,000 annually and that you will be operating 40 "thou" in the red next year.

But there's another little catalog, also from a Dallas outfit, that is not quite, but almost, as exclusive. I realize that a fine French porcelain breakfast set for two at $275 is not the type of costly gift you are used to giving, but I'm only trying to help. That price includes the sugar and creamer, of course. Might be nice for Ted and Joan.

SOMEONE IN the family would love the handcrafted strawberry planter in brass, bronze and silver. Very life-like with one of the berries eaten by an insect, yet! It's only $500.

Truman Capote would look great in the navy cashmere blazer with gilt fox head buttons. A real bargain at under $300. For the flights "Sarge" will be taking during his campaign there's a good looking cowhide bag for $275 that slips neatly under an airplane seat.

Perhaps the chain necklace with 18 karat gold frogs with ruby eyes for Eunice, $1000 if you care to go that high. Let's don't even consider the matching bracelet of semi-precious stones for $3,150 or the matching necklace for $10,000.

A REALLY different gift would be the bamboo hassock for $250. One of the nieces might enjoy the doll amoire for $125.

For John-John there are unhemmed Halston Ultrasuede jeans for only $135. For Caroline, a hand mirror with magnifying glass, $350. Or a tiny jewel box of malachite over onyx for $500 as a stocking stuffer.

And what about Christina? Do you think a blouse, a little pure silk number for $150, would be adequate? Personally I have very good luck buying blouses (for much less than $150) at The Crawford Store. It's in Rolling Meadows, which is a little city in a place called Illinois just outside Chicago, U.S.A.

WE ALSO HAVE a number of discount stores with prices so low you wouldn't believe! But they don't furnish gift boxes.

I do hope you like your job and I do hope you get a raise soon. Meanwhile, keep your chin up. Things could be worse.

Happy holiday shopping
Marianne Scott

You can order almost anything from those Christmas wish books

by KAREN THOMPSON

Mention catalogs and the familiar Sears', Ward's, Penney's and Spiegel's come to mind. But they're only the beginning!

Today you can order anything from a 3-foot sausage or a tennis ball press to a vacation on a deserted island or his and hers yellow Rolls Royces from a catalog.

"Wish books" is what my dad used to call them. There were always a few collecting dust around the house. My friends and I would make a game of seeing who could point first to the item on a page we would like most.

At Christmastime we would leave tiny, subtle markers or fold over page corners by the toys we hoped mom would notice. This really wasn't much help to her, however, as our choices changed daily.

WHO COULD resist? The entire first section of holiday catalogs was jammed with every toy a child dreams of . . . and more. At the time I just wished Santa would bring a plain old baby doll. Today girls hope for dolls that grow up right before your eyes.

Taking a look at Christmas 1975 wish books is like taking a trip through an amusement park — it's hard to know where to look first.

From the famous Neiman-Marcus, Gucci, Tiffany and Co. and Bloomingdale's to the affectionately labeled "junk magazines" like Sunset, Miles Kimball and Foster, catalogs offer such variety in price and style it's easy to find gifts even for that "person who has everything."

Neiman-Marcus, long renowned for its catalog of costly and imaginative gifts, comes through this year with yet another series of goodies.

A $29,995 safari for one into Utah where you're guaranteed to find a few prehistoric bones, with a suitably inscribed donor plaque to be placed in an accredited museum or similar institution of your choice. Sorry, no dogs allowed on the dig. Or, the Neiman-Marcus Gravy Train — sterling silver cars on a polished walnut base — made to fit on the dining room table and deliver the condiments to your guests for that elegant holiday dinner. This treasure, each car with its own velvet-lined case, sells for a mere $8,000.

Specialty books have become big business. Cheese and sausage books make for taste-tingling shopping, serving up everything from, literally, soup to nuts. Plant catalogs cash in on the present green thumb craze with out-of-the-ordinary houseplants: bonsai, Hawaiian orchids and real roses preserved forever in a crystal ball.

For those on limited budget, the gadgets and playthings that pepper the pages of junk books are a smorgasbord of ideas. They're fun to look at and you can always find something you never knew you needed . . . some that work, many that don't.

WE'VE ALL experienced bouts with the pop can inserts in six different sizes that don't fit any can on the market. Or inflatable feet that allow you to "walk on water." A more appropriate tag would be "a guaranteed dunk."

But I can't help admiring the creative thought that goes into these inventions. It must keep the patent office astir.

Among the more outlandish items the '75 catalogs promise:

- A 500-piece jigsaw puzzle — "a piece of collage bewilderment by famous Chicago artist Sybil."
- A record. "Enjoy the sounds of birds on a 33 1/3-lp featuring the songs of over 800 birds."
- Soap. "There's a girl in the soap. And what a girl. As you take off the dirt, she takes off her skirt." At a let's make a deal price of $1.29.
- For the kids. "Let your kids be the envy of the neighborhood with a yoyo that lights up."
- The practical. A pocketed, indexed grocery coupon organizer.

Have fun, folks!

IN ADDITION, getting to the store takes more effort — traffic is exhausting. Many stores are over-boutiqued and overwhelming and merchandise is scattered all over the store so that you must dress and undress too many times. Clothes in the catalogs conform to standardized sizes determined by specific divisions, whereas in department stores and boutiques, each department and each manufacturer has its own size.

Even though more men are making purchases, the women still are the significant force. Today, 46 per cent of women over 16 work. Since it is no longer fashionable to be idle, shopping as a pastime has all but vanished.

And, their success is bolstered by the commitment to have the merchandise available in stock for the period of time that is clearly stated in each book — and at the specified price.

Catalogs with their unlimited possibilities and their emphasis on integrity, value and worth have captured many loyal followers. All indications are that this buying trend will continue, and the catalog's popularity will increase even more.

Remember me, Jackie?

Dear Jackie,

Several Christmas seasons ago I wrote you with suggestions for your holiday shopping. I don't know if you used my gift ideas about the live zoo for the children or the tank car of after shave lotion for the men in your life, but it doesn't matter. I have some more ideas — money saving ideas.

You see, I've read of your financial difficulties and I want you to know you're not alone. Things are tough all over. But your new job at Viking Press at $200 per week will help.

By the way, I also work for the press (my salary is more than yours — now isn't that a laugh?) and as one busy newspaper gal to another, I can empathize. Now that you have joined the ranks of the working gal, you won't have as much time to shop, and with less income, you have a problem. Maybe I can help.

IF YOU DON'T make your own gifts for family and friends, very helpful are these scores of little shopper catalogs that are now arriving daily in the mails.

Neiman-Marcus has dropped me from its mailing list — probably because the only thing I ever ordered was a cheap ($12) gold plate broken fingernail protector. They'll likely drop you, too, after reading that your income is down to $341,000 annually and that you will be operating 40 "thou" in the red next year.

But there's another little catalog, also from a Dallas outfit, that is not quite, but almost, as exclusive. I realize that a fine French porcelain breakfast set for two at $275 is not the type of costly gift you are used to giving, but I'm only trying to help. That price includes the sugar and creamer, of course. Might be nice for Ted and Joan.

SOMEONE IN the family would love the handcrafted strawberry planter in brass, bronze and silver. Very life-like with one of the berries eaten by an insect, yet! It's only $500.

Truman Capote would look great in the navy cashmere blazer with gilt fox head buttons. A real bargain at under $300. For the flights "Sarge" will be taking during his campaign there's a good looking cowhide bag for $275 that slips neatly under an airplane seat.

Perhaps the chain necklace with 18 karat gold frogs with ruby eyes for Eunice, $1000 if you care to go that high. Let's don't even consider the matching bracelet of semi-precious stones for $3,150 or the matching necklace for $10,000.

A REALLY different gift would be the bamboo hassock for $250. One of the nieces might enjoy the doll amoire for $125.

For John-John there are unhemmed Halston Ultrasuede jeans for only $135. For Caroline, a hand mirror with magnifying glass, $350. Or a tiny jewel box of malachite over onyx for $500 as a stocking stuffer.

And what about Christina? Do you think a blouse, a little pure silk number for $150, would be adequate? Personally I have very good luck buying blouses (for much less than $150) at The Crawford Store. It's in Rolling Meadows, which is a little city in a place called Illinois just outside Chicago, U.S.A.

WE ALSO HAVE a number of discount stores with prices so low you wouldn't believe! But they don't furnish gift boxes.

I do hope you like your job and I do hope you get a raise soon. Meanwhile, keep your chin up. Things could be worse.

Happy holiday shopping
Marianne Scott

You can order almost anything from those Christmas wish books

by KAREN THOMPSON

Mention catalogs and the familiar Sears', Ward's, Penney's and Spiegel's come to mind. But they're only the beginning!

Today you can order anything from a 3-foot sausage or a tennis ball press to a vacation on a deserted island or his and hers yellow Rolls Royces from a catalog.

"Wish books" is what my dad used to call them. There were always a few collecting dust around the house. My friends and I would make a game of seeing who could point first to the item on a page we would like most.

At Christmastime we would leave tiny, subtle markers or fold over page corners by the toys we hoped mom would notice. This really wasn't much help to her, however, as our choices changed daily.

WHO COULD resist? The entire first section of holiday catalogs was jammed with every toy a child dreams of . . . and more. At the time I just wished Santa would bring a plain old baby doll. Today girls hope for dolls that grow up right before your eyes.

Taking a look at Christmas 1975 wish books is like taking a trip through an amusement park — it's hard to know where to look first.

From the famous Neiman-Marcus, Gucci, Tiffany and Co. and Bloomingdale's to the affectionately labeled "junk magazines" like Sunset, Miles Kimball and Foster, catalogs offer such variety in price and style it's easy to find gifts even for that "person who has everything."

Neiman-Marcus, long renowned for its catalog of costly and imaginative gifts, comes through this year with yet another series of goodies.

A $29,995 safari for one into Utah where you're guaranteed to find a few prehistoric bones, with a suitably inscribed donor plaque to be placed in an accredited museum or similar institution of your choice. Sorry, no dogs allowed on the dig. Or, the Neiman-Marcus Gravy Train — sterling silver cars on a polished walnut base — made to fit on the dining room table and deliver the condiments to your guests for that elegant holiday dinner. This treasure, each car with its own velvet-lined case, sells for a mere $8,000.

Specialty books have become big business. Cheese and sausage books make for taste-tingling shopping, serving up everything from, literally, soup to nuts. Plant catalogs cash in on the present green thumb craze with out-of-the-ordinary houseplants: bonsai, Hawaiian orchids and real roses preserved forever in a crystal ball.

For those on limited budget, the gadgets and playthings that pepper the pages of junk books are a smorgasbord of ideas. They're fun to look at and you can always find something you never knew you needed . . . some that work, many that don't.

WE'VE ALL experienced bouts with the pop can inserts in six different sizes that don't fit any can on the market. Or inflatable feet that allow you to "walk on water." A more appropriate tag would be "a guaranteed dunk."

But I can't help admiring the creative thought that goes into these inventions. It must keep the patent office astir.

Among the more outlandish items the '75 catalogs promise:

- A 500-piece jigsaw puzzle — "a piece of collage bewilderment by famous Chicago artist Sybil."
- A record. "Enjoy the sounds of birds on a 33 1/3-lp featuring the songs of over 800 birds."
- Soap. "There's a girl in the soap. And what a girl. As you take off the dirt, she takes off her skirt." At a let's make a deal price of $1.29.
- For the kids. "Let your kids be the envy of the neighborhood with a yoyo that lights up."
- The practical. A pocketed, indexed grocery coupon organizer.

Have fun, folks!

Diabetes and blood pressure

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

About a year and a half ago my doctor said I had high blood pressure and put me on medicine. In a short time my tests showed I was low on potassium, and he put me on potassium medicine and gradually increased it because my level was so low.

Then he did a glucose test and said I'm a borderline diabetic. If I understand what I read, sometimes when there is no diabetes in the family and it shows up, it can be caused by high blood pressure medicine. Is this so?

If my blood pressure is causing the problem why can't they just give me other medicines? I know there are other medicines they can use.

Also, I'm 52 and going through the menopause. I'm somewhat overweight and trying to lose, as I need surgery for a bladder repair. I have a fibroid tumor, so the doctor won't give me hormones for my hot flashes. He says it will cause me to bleed badly. Is it true that fibroid tumors sometimes dry up after the change in life? I have been to two doctors, and one says surgery now, the other to wait until I get my weight down.

I see you are really having a time. First, please make every effort to lose weight as it may help relieve your blood pressure and high blood sugar problems. Why don't you try my weight losing diet? It has helped a lot of people to lose weight. Send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019.

You are right, some high blood pressure medicines will cause the blood sugar to be high. It is often stated, though, that they merely unmask an underlying diabetic, but you are beginning to get on theoretical ground there. The same types of medicine can and will cause the loss of potassium. And I would tend to agree that there are other medicines that could be used. The medicine used to eliminate salt and water that causes these problems, though, is very useful in combination with other medicines. The combination usually makes it possible to handle a patient's problem without so much risk of complications from the medicines.

Another problem with glucose tolerance tests is that they will give a result similar to that in diabetic if the person has not been eating any carbohydrates recently. Unless the patient is properly prepared for the test, it is of limited usefulness.

Estrogen hormones do enable fibroids to grow. If they are just under the lining of the uterus, hormones may cause you to bleed. And, some fibroids do shrink after the menopause. In general people do better during and after surgery if they have no weight problems. Nevertheless when it needs to be done surgery can be done in really quite heavy people. I suspect your surgeon thinks he will get a better result if he is able to operate after you have lost weight.

Meanwhile I would suggest making every effort you can to lose weight to try to get out of this combined mess you are confronted with.

Hoist pair in Russian tradition

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne M. Nemetz

First the groom, then the bride, each on chairs, was hoisted into the air at the reception following the wedding of Laura Lee Behrens and Wayne Martin Nemetz. The hoisting is a Russian tradition that signifies health, wealth and happiness.

Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Behrens, Arlington Heights, and Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nemetz, Berwyn, were married Oct. 18 in First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights. The dinner reception for 160 guests was held in the Arlington Heights American Legion Hall where Russian wedding cakes, baked by the groom's mother and grandmother, were served along with the traditional wedding cake.

A GRADUATE OF Prospect High, Laura will graduate in May from Northern Illinois University where she is a fashion merchandising major. Wayne studied at junior colleges and also at Northern and is now employed by Montgomery Ward's in St. Charles. The pair met when both were members in the wedding party of friends from the university.

For the 4:30 p.m. double ring service Laura chose a hooded Qiana gown trimmed in pearls with cathedral train. She carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath. In rainbow shades of blue, peach, lavender and yellow were her attendants: Nancy Marier, Arlington Heights, as maid of honor; and Dorothy Allen, Toulon, Ill., Nancy Fleming, Mount Prospect, and Kathy Prokop, Batavia, as bridesmaids. Each carried carnations and roses tinted to match their escorts' shirts.

LAURIE HUTCH, 5-year-old niece of the groom from LaGrange Park, was flower girl and the bride's 6-year-old cousin, John T. Beckius, Libertyville, was ring bearer. Laurie was in blue and carried a basket of rainbow-hued flowers.

Richard D. Zulpo, DeKalb, was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Kent, and Joseph Boncher, St. Charles, and Michael Klotz, Joliet.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Daytona Beach, Fla., and are now residing in Aurora.

Marry in Maryville chapel

Since both Debra Sales and Thomas Beise do volunteer work, Debra in tutoring and Tom in the sports program at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines, they decided to be married in the Maryville chapel with many of their students witnessing the double ring vows.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beise

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sales, Rolling Meadows, Deb and Tom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beise, LaGrange Park, were married Oct. 4, with a reception for 150 guests in the Arlington Park Hilton following the 1 p.m. service.

The pair met while students at Northern Illinois University. After graduation Deb went to work for Allstate Insurance in Northbrook and Tom, an active Naval Reservist, with Motorola in Schaumburg, as a design engineer.

DEB, ALSO A graduate of Sacred Heart High, chose Kathy Falardeau of Arlington Heights as her maid of honor and her sister-in-law, Linda Beise of Phoenix, Ariz., Sharon Kolin, Rolling Meadows, and Terre Tazzolino, Chicago, as bridesmaids. Best man was the groom's brother, Ted, and ushers were the bride's brothers, Rick and Keith, and Neil Tarpy of Arlington Heights.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Hawaii and are now making their home in Arlington Heights.

An offer guaranteed to make you feel warm all over.

Tree lights target of safety check

The consumer

by Monica Wilch Perin

As merchants begin stocking their shelves with Christmas decorations, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is gearing up to head off safety problems with Christmas tree lights.

In testing which the Commission has been conducting since summer, more than 100 cases of miniature lights imported from Taiwan, South Korea and Italy have been found to be defective. The hazards include electrical failures, shorts, bare wires, etc., which can cause fires and shocks.

The Commission is using volunteer "deputies" to spot potentially hazardous lights in stores and is relying on voluntary cooperation by retailers and wholesalers in removing the problem merchandise.

A GENERAL ELECTRIC spokesman said consumers' best safeguard is to look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratories) label on any Christmas lights they buy.

A Commission official noted that some sets in which hazards were discovered had the UL label, but that the majority of defenctive lighs did not.

Locally, consumers who want miniature lights may have difficulty avoiding Taiwan imports and finding the UL label. In one department store here there were six choices of miniature lights — five of them from Taiwan. The sixth, from Italy, was the only kind with UL certification.

If price is any indication of quality, the UL-approved lights sold at $4.99 for 35 lights, while the others sold as cheaply as $1.99 for 50.

A SENATE COMMITTEE has opened a year-long investigation of the federal regulatory agencies with the ultimate goal of reforming them.

Chaired by the consumer-oriented Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., the Government Operations Committee plans to examine such problems as:

- Undue delays in the regulatory process;
- Inconsistency and overlap of functions among the various agencies;
- Vulnerability of the regulatory agencies to both industry and political pressures;
- Lack of public participation;
- Poor quality appointments as top regulators;
- Questions of Congressional oversight and amount of regulation.

The first witness in the hearings was Ralph Nader, who said White House intervention and industry pressure were responsible for the failure of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to mandate the use of safety air bags in cars and instead to sanction the ill-fated ignition interlock system.

THIS IS THE LAST winter studded tires will be permitted on Illinois highways. State law, which has restricted studs to the period of Nov. 15-March 31, has been amended to ban this kind of snow tire after next March 31.

The action, which has already been taken in some other states, results from the damage studded tires inflict on roads.

According to National Safety Council tests, studded tires perform significantly better on both ice and snow than regular snow tires, but tire chains are still better than studs.

Tree lights target of safety check

The consumer

by Monica Wilch Perin

As merchants begin stocking their shelves with Christmas decorations, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is gearing up to head off safety problems with Christmas tree lights.

In testing which the Commission has been conducting since summer, more than 100 cases of miniature lights imported from Taiwan, South Korea and Italy have been found to be defective. The hazards include electrical failures, shorts, bare wires, etc., which can cause fires and shocks.

The Commission is using volunteer "deputies" to spot potentially hazardous lights in stores and is relying on voluntary cooperation by retailers and wholesalers in removing the problem merchandise.

A GENERAL ELECTRIC spokesman said consumers' best safeguard is to look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratories) label on any Christmas lights they buy.

Plastic container keeps lettuce fresh

The home line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Have you any remedy for keeping lettuce from turning brown? With only one person in my family eating lettuce, it takes quite a while for a head of lettuce to be used up, and I hate throwing it away. — Mrs. M. Sullivan

What you need is something I mentioned a few months ago — a plastic lettuce container. There are some expensive ones peddled at hostess parties, but these are not a bit more efficient than those sold at notions counters for about a dollar. They are great and a head of lettuce will stay in first-quality condition for two weeks and more. Another thing you ought to do is always use a sharp stainless steel knife on lettuce. The sharp cuts are less bruising and there is little, if any, browning of the cut portion.

Dear Dorothy: A quilted cushion and back on a favorite rocker turned dingy. Found a remnant big enough to cover both. To keep the slipcover stationary, I made a loop of yarn at each of the ties in the original quilting. Not only does the finished job look fine, but there was an added saving in that I got to keep the kapok filling in the cushion and back. — Constance Zeltner

Dear Dorothy: For a change of pace, I've been making eggs and toast a diffeent way. I use a small glass to cut out the center of a piece of bread, butter the bread on both sides, put it in a skillet, and break an egg in the center. If you're careful you can turn the egg and toast over once to get it brown on both sides. —Lillian Mosly

Dear Dorothy: When cookies brown too quickly on the bottoms, I put aside the cookie sheet and use the top of a baking pan turned upside down. Nice tip for everybody. — Peggy Pettey

Plant cliptomania on increase

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

"Cliptomania" has become a national gardening pastime.

As more and more people become addicted to growing houseplants and having success doing so, the desire to acquire more and unusual plants becomes stronger.

It's only a small step from pruning a willing neighbor's prize pothos to starting slips from whatever sources are available — like garden center gems and florists' favorites.

One lady I know caught the cliptomania virus because a plant after which she lusted was marked "Stock Plant, Not for Sale," so she helped herself to a slip and slipped it into her purse. Her defense or rationale was, she said, "If a greenhouse doesn't want to sell a plant, they shouldn't display it where it can be a temptation to people."

IT'S VERY DIFFICULT for owners of plant shops to weed out plant thieves unless the thieves are suspect or are wearing capes, carrying shopping bags, large purses, flight bags or carrying other parcels. Who is to know who is a plant thief and who isn't? Lots of women carry large handbags.

The day may come when greenhouses begin inspecting carry-out parcels.

One plant grabber at an Arlington Heights nursery even had the nerve to ask a salesclerk for a baggie prior to making her rounds in the greenhouse benches! Fortunately the clerk didn't have one.

Most slip-clippers don't intentionally go out for the express purpose of pinching off plant parts, otherwise they would come prepared with their own Baggies, knives or vermiculite. Rather, I'd guess it's a matter of impulse pruning something they can't or won't afford.

HANGING PLANTS and trailers are the most vulnerable because these plants are easily started from their runners. Plants propagated from leaf cuttings are in danger too, and one visitor to last spring's Chicago World Flower Show said she saw a display featuring some African violets that looked as if they had been ravaged by Attila the Hun. "There were more leaves pinced off the plants than there were left on," she said. "I would have pinched a leaf myself," she confessed, "but just too many people had got there first!"

A local professional orchid grower told me he wasn't concerned with the penny-ante three-inch slips people take from his common trailing plants which he sells in addition to orchids, but when browsers make off with a whole plant, a $20 orchid, for instance, it's a serious problem.

As a sometime-employe of a florist with a string of shops and one who has talked to other florists, I can tell you that they are well aware that a good deal of plant-napping is going on because they inventory their stock. They also find pots stacked up — one empty pot placed over another — here and there in the benches, in an attempt by the plant-napper to camouflage missing plants.

THE COSTS, OF course, are felt by the consumer who has to pay a higher price for plants.

To make matters worse by "assisting" plant-snippers in their petty thievery, there is a book out, "Pirating Plants — the gardener's guide to getting something for nothing." It details all the skills of propagation such as division, cuttings, seed starting as well as the technique of transplanting.

According to an ad for the book in the November issue of a popular plant magazine, " 'Palnt Pirating' is an invaluable guide to saving money, growing hard-to find plants and filling your home and garden with greenery."

"The spirit of pirating," the ad says, "is a matter of swashbuckling good humor and the sense of playful thievery, mystery and amusement that can overcome a plant nut."

Cringing professional growers may well consider buying up all copies of this book and burning them before too many copies get into the hands of house plant buffs and prospective cliptomaniacs.

As if the problem weren't bad enough, "Pirating Plants" could spawn a whole new crop of plant pests!

(Copies of "Mary B. Good's Organic House Plant Doctoring Goodies" are available for 35 cents each and a stamped-self addressed envelope sent to Mary B. Good in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. But don't expect any tips on plant pirating.)

Plant cliptomania on increase

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

"Cliptomania" has become a national gardening pastime.

As more and more people become addicted to growing houseplants and having success doing so, the desire to acquire more and unusual plants becomes stronger.

It's only a small step from pruning a willing neighbor's prize pothos to starting slips from whatever sources are available — like garden center gems and florists' favorites.

One lady I know caught the cliptomania virus because a plant after which she lusted was marked "Stock Plant, Not for Sale," so she helped herself to a slip and slipped it into her purse. Her defense or rationale was, she said, "If a greenhouse doesn't want to sell a plant, they shouldn't display it where it can be a temptation to people."

IT'S VERY DIFFICULT for owners of plant shops to weed out plant thieves unless the thieves are suspect or are wearing capes, carrying shopping bags, large purses, flight bags or carrying other parcels. Who is to know who is a plant thief and who isn't? Lots of women carry large handbags.

The day may come when greenhouses begin inspecting carry-out parcels.

One plant grabber at an Arlington Heights nursery even had the nerve to ask a salesclerk for a baggie prior to making her rounds in the greenhouse benches! Fortunately the clerk didn't have one.

Most slip-clippers don't intentionally go out for the express purpose of pinching off plant parts, otherwise they would come prepared with their own Baggies, knives or vermiculite. Rather, I'd guess it's a matter of impulse pruning something they can't or won't afford.

HANGING PLANTS and trailers are the most vulnerable because these plants are easily started from their runners. Plants propagated from leaf cuttings are in danger too, and one visitor to last spring's Chicago World Flower Show said she saw a display featuring some African violets that looked as if they had been ravaged by Attila the Hun. "There were more leaves pinced off the plants than there were left on," she said. "I would have pinched a leaf myself," she confessed, "but just too many people had got there first!"

A local professional orchid grower told me he wasn't concerned with the penny-ante three-inch slips people take from his common trailing plants which he sells in addition to orchids, but when browsers make off with a whole plant, a $20 orchid, for instance, it's a serious problem.

As a sometime-employe of a florist with a string of shops and one who has talked to other florists, I can tell you that they are well aware that a good deal of plant-napping is going on because they inventory their stock. They also find pots stacked up — one empty pot placed over another — here and there in the benches, in an attempt by the plant-napper to camouflage missing plants.

THE COSTS, OF course, are felt by the consumer who has to pay a higher price for plants.

To make matters worse by "assisting" plant-snippers in their petty thievery, there is a book out, "Pirating Plants — the gardener's guide to getting something for nothing." It details all the skills of propagation such as division, cuttings, seed starting as well as the technique of transplanting.

According to an ad for the book in the November issue of a popular plant magazine, " 'Palnt Pirating' is an invaluable guide to saving money, growing hard-to find plants and filling your home and garden with greenery."

"The spirit of pirating," the ad says, "is a matter of swashbuckling good humor and the sense of playful thievery, mystery and amusement that can overcome a plant nut."

Cringing professional growers may well consider buying up all copies of this book and burning them before too many copies get into the hands of house plant buffs and prospective cliptomaniacs.

As if the problem weren't bad enough, "Pirating Plants" could spawn a whole new crop of plant pests!

(Copies of "Mary B. Good's Organic House Plant Doctoring Goodies" are available for 35 cents each and a stamped-self addressed envelope sent to Mary B. Good in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. But don't expect any tips on plant pirating.)

OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER OF COOK COUNTY AND EX-OFFICIO COUNTY COLLECTOR OF COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Advertisement and Notice of Collector of Cook County of Application for Judgment against Delinquent Lands and Lots for General Taxes for the year 1974, for delinquent back tax items, for Order of Sales Thereof, and Notice of Sale Thereof, and application for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest, as provided by law.

November 13, 1975

NOTICE IS hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County will apply to the County Division of Circuit Court of Cook County on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1975, for judgment against lands and lots hereinafter described as being delinquent upon which taxes remain due and unpaid, or personal property taxes charged thereon, as noted in this advertisement, remain due and unpaid, for said taxes, interest and costs and for an order to sell said lands and lots for the satisfaction thereof according to law (excepting from said judgment and order of sales the cases which are included in this advertisement for sale only under former unexecuted judgments and orders for sale as may be noted in this advertisement.)

Notice is also given that an application will be made for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest.

Notice is further herein and hereby given that on the second Monday next succeeding the 24th day of Nov. A.D. 1975, to-wit, the 8th day of Dec., A.D. 1975, at the hour of 8 o'clock A.M. all said lands and lots hereinafter described for sale of which an order shall be made, or has been made and not executed as noted, will be exposed to public sale at the County Building of Cook County where the seat of County government is located in said County, for the amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon respectively.

The following is a list of delinquent lands and lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the name of the owners, where known, the total amount due thereon (excluding delinquent special assessments separately advertised) and the year or years for which the same is due.

(The total amount due in this application on each tract or parcel of land or lots is the sum of the amounts appearing due in this advertisement.)

EXPLANATORY NOTE—In this list in all places where no other notation is made the figures in the column headed "$" (meaning dollars) and the "cts" (meaning cents) represent the taxes due and unpaid for the year A.D. 1974. Where the letter "F" is placed to the left of the figures in this column it is intended for an abbreviation of the word "forfeiture," and denotes that the amounts due and unpaid on said lands and lots have been previously forfeited to the State. When back taxes are extended they are indicated by the last segment of the property index number identified by the unit. This unit will be identified by a number 7000 or greater.

Payment of taxes made after printer's copies are sent to publishers for listing, and appearing as delinquent in this advertisement, will be satisfied in judgment records before sale.

In lieu of legal description used heretofore each parcel of land or lot is designated by a permanent real estate index number.

In the permanent real estate index number system, appearing in the column headed "A," the subarea by the number in the column headed "SA," the block by the number appearing in the column headed "Blk," and the particular parcel by the number in the column headed "Pcl."

Comparison of the permanent real estate index number with the legal description of any parcel may be made by referring to the cross indices maintained in County offices.

Published by order of County Collector of Cook County, Illinois.

The following is a list of Delinquent properties, on which certificate of errors or Homestead Exemptions have been granted. However, the law provides they must be published, but not offered for sale.

Cook County Preamble

OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER OF COOK COUNTY AND EX-OFFICIO COUNTY COLLECTOR OF COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Advertisement and Notice of Collector of Cook County of Application for Judgment against Delinquent Lands and Lots for General Taxes for the year 1974, for delinquent back tax items, for Order of Sales Thereof, and Notice of Sale Thereof, and application for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest, as provided by law.

November 13, 1975

NOTICE IS hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County will apply to the County Division of Circuit Court of Cook County on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1975, for judgment against lands and lots hereinafter described as being delinquent upon which taxes remain due and unpaid, or personal property taxes charged thereon, as noted in this advertisement, remain due and unpaid, for said taxes, interest and costs and for an order to sell said lands and lots for the satisfaction thereof according to law (excepting from said judgment and order of sales the cases which are included in this advertisement for sale only under former unexecuted judgments and orders for sale as may be noted in this advertisement.)

Notice is also given that an application will be made for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest.

Notice is further herein and hereby given that on the second Monday next succeeding the 24th day of Nov. A.D. 1975, to-wit, the 8th day of Dec., A.D. 1975, at the hour of 8 o'clock A.M. all said lands and lots hereinafter described for sale of which an order shall be made, or has been made and not executed as noted, will be exposed to public sale at the County Building of Cook County where the seat of County government is located in said County, for the amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon respectively.

The following is a list of delinquent lands and lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the name of the owners, where known, the total amount due thereon (excluding delinquent special assessments separately advertised) and the year or years for which the same is due.

(The total amount due in this application on each tract or parcel of land or lots is the sum of the amounts appearing due in this advertisement.)

EXPLANATORY NOTE—In this list in all places where no other notation is made the figures in the column headed "$" (meaning dollars) and the "cts" (meaning cents) represent the taxes due and unpaid for the year A.D. 1974. Where the letter "F" is placed to the left of the figures in this column it is intended for an abbreviation of the word "forfeiture," and denotes that the amounts due and unpaid on said lands and lots have been previously forfeited to the State. When back taxes are extended they are indicated by the last segment of the property index number identified by the unit. This unit will be identified by a number 7000 or greater.

Payment of taxes made after printer's copies are sent to publishers for listing, and appearing as delinquent in this advertisement, will be satisfied in judgment records before sale.

In lieu of legal description used heretofore each parcel of land or lot is designated by a permanent real estate index number.

In the permanent real estate index number system, appearing in the column headed "A," the subarea by the number in the column headed "SA," the block by the number appearing in the column headed "Blk," and the particular parcel by the number in the column headed "Pcl."

Comparison of the permanent real estate index number with the legal description of any parcel may be made by referring to the cross indices maintained in County offices.

Cook County DELINQUENT TAX LIST

OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER OF COOK COUNTY AND EX-OFFICIO COUNTY COLLECTOR OF COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Advertisement and Notice of Collector of Cook County of Application for Judgment against Delinquent Lands and Lots for General Taxes for the year 1974, for delinquent back tax items, for Order of Sales Thereof, and Notice of Sale Thereof, and application for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest, as provided by law.

November 13, 1975

NOTICE IS hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County will apply to the County Division of Circuit Court of Cook County on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1975, for judgment against lands and lots hereinafter described and for an order for the sale of said lands and lots at public sale at the County Building of Cook County where the seat of County government is located in said County, for the amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon respectively.

The following is a list of delinquent lands and lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the name of the owners, where known, the total amount due thereon (excluding delinquent special assessments separately advertised) and the year or years for which the same is due.

(The total amount due in this application on each tract or parcel of land or lots is the sum of the amounts appearing due in this advertisement.)

EXPLANATORY NOTE—In this list in all places where no other notation is made the figures in the column headed "$" (meaning dollars) and the "cts" (meaning cents) represent the taxes due and unpaid for the year A.D. 1974. Where the letter "F" is placed to the left of the figures in this column it is intended for an abbreviation of the word "forfeiture," and denotes that the amounts due and unpaid on said lands and lots have been previously forfeited to the State. When back taxes are extended they are indicated by the last segment of the property index number identified by the unit. This unit will be identified by a number 7000 or greater.

Payment of taxes made after printer's copies are sent to publishers for listing, and appearing as delinquent in this advertisement, will be satisfied in judgment records before sale.

In lieu of legal description used heretofore each parcel of land or lot is designated by a permanent real estate index number.

In the permanent real estate index number system, appearing in the column headed "A," the subarea by the number in the column headed "SA,"

Cook County Preamble

OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER OF COOK COUNTY AND EX-OFFICIO COUNTY COLLECTOR OF COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Advertisement and Notice of Collector of Cook County of Application for Judgment against Delinquent Lands and Lots for General Taxes for the year 1974, for delinquent back tax items, for Order of Sales Thereof, and Notice of Sale Thereof, and application for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest, as provided by law.

November 13, 1975

NOTICE IS hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County will apply to the County Division of Circuit Court of Cook County on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1975, for judgment against lands and lots hereinafter delic sale at the County Building of Cook County where the seat of County government is located in said County, for the amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon respectively.

The following is a list of delinquent lands and lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the name of the owners, where known, the total amount due thereon (excluding delinquent special assessments separately advertised) and the year or years for which the same is due.

(The total amount due in this application on each tract or parcel of land or lots is the sum of the amounts appearing due in this advertisement.)

EXPLANATORY NOTE—In this list in all places where no other notation is made the figures in the column headed "$" (meaning dollars) and the "cts" (meaning cents) represent the taxes due and unpaid for the year A.D. 1974. Where the letter "F" is placed to the left of the figures in this column it is intended for an abbreviation of the word "forfeiture," and denotes that the amounts due and unpaid on said lands and lots have been previously forfeited to the State. When back taxes are extended they are indicated by the last segment of the property index number identified by the unit. This unit will be identified by a number 7000 or greater.

Payment of taxes made after printer's copies are sent to publishers for listing, and appearing as delinquent in this advertisement, will be satisfied in judgment records before sale.

In lieu of legal description used heretofore each parcel of land or lot is designated by a permanent real estate index number.

In the permanent real estate index number system, appearing in the column headed "A," the subarea by the number in the column headed "SA,"

scribed as being delinquent upon which taxes remain due and unpaid, or personal property taxes charged thereon, as noted in this advertisement, remain due and unpaid, for said taxes, interest and costs and for an order to sell said lands and lots for the satisfaction thereof according to law (excepting from said judgment and order of sales the cases which are included in this advertisement for sale only under former unexecuted judgments and orders for sale as may be noted in this advertisement.)

Notice is also given that an application will be made for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest.

Notice is further herein and hereby given that on the second Monday next succeeding the 24th day of Nov. A.D. 1975, to-wit, the 8th day of Dec., A.D. 1975, at the hour of 8 o'clock A.M. all said lands and lots hereinafter described for sale of which an order shall be made, or has been made and not executed as noted, will be exposed to pub the block by the number appearing in the column headed "Blk," and the particular parcel by the number in the column headed "Pcl."

Comparison of the permanent real estate index number with the legal description of any parcel may be made by referring to the cross indices maintained in County offices.

Published by order of County Collector of Cook County, Illinois.

The following is a list of Delinquent properties, on which certificate of errors or Homestead Exemptions have been granted. However, the law provides they must be published, but not offered for sale.

November 13, 1975

NOTICE IS hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County will apply to the County Division of Circuit Court of Cook County on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1975, for judgment against lands and lots hereinafter described as being delinquent upon which taxes remain due and unpaid, or personal property taxes charged thereon, as noted in this advertisement, remain due and unpaid, for said taxes, interest and costs and for an order to sell said lands and lots for the satisfaction thereof according to law (excepting from said judgment and order of sales the cases which are included in this advertisement for sale only under former unexecuted judgments and orders for sale as may be noted in this advertisement.)

Notice is also given that an application will be made for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest.

Notice is further herein and hereby given that on the second Monday next lands and lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the name of the owners, where known, the total amount due thereon (excluding delinquent special assessments separately advertised) and the year or years for which the same is due.

(The total amount due in this application on each tract or parcel of land or lots is the sum of the amounts appearing due in this advertisement.)

EXPLANATORY NOTE In this list in all places where no other notation is made the figures in the column headed "$" (meaning dollars) and the "cts" (meaning cents) represent the taxes due and unpaid for the year A.D. 1974. Where the letter "F" is placed to the left of the figures in this column it is intended for an abbreviation of the word "forfeiture," and denotes that the amounts due and unpaid on said lands and lots have been previously forfeited to the State. When back taxes are extended they are indicated by the last segment of the property index number identified by the unit. This unit will be identified by a number 7000 or greater.

Payment of taxes made after printer's copies are sent to publishers for listing, and appearing as delinquent in this advertisement, will be satisfied in judgment records before sale.

In lieu of legal description used heretofore each parcel of land or lot is designated by a permanent real estate index number.

In the permanent real estate index number system, appearing in the column headed "A," the subarea by the number in the column headed "SA," the block by the number appearing in the column headed "Blk," and the particular parcel by the number in the column headed "Pcl."

Comparison of the permanent real estate index number with the legal description of any parcel may be made by referring to the cross indices maintained in County offices.

November 13, 1975

NOTICE IS hereby given that the said Collector of Cook County will apply to the County Division of Circuit Court of Cook County on the 24th day of November, A.D. 1975, for judgment against lands and lots hereinafter described as being delinquent upon which taxes remain due and unpaid, or personal property taxes charged thereon, as noted in this advertisement, remain due and unpaid, for said taxes, interest and costs and for an order to sell said lands and lots for the satisfaction thereof according to law (excepting from said judgment and order of sales the cases which are included in this advertisement for sale only under former unexecuted judgments and orders for sale as may be noted in this advertisement.)

Notice is also given that an application will be made for judgment fixing the correct amount of any tax paid under protest.

Notice is further herein and hereby given that on the second Monday next lands and lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the name of the owners, where known, the total amount due thereon (excluding delinquent special assessments separately advertised) and the year or years for which the same is due.

(The total amount due in this application on each tract or parcel of land or lots is the sum of the amounts appearing due in this advertisement.)

EXPLANATORY NOTE In this list in all places where no other notation is made the figures in the column headed "$" (meaning dollars) and the "cts" (meaning cents) represent the taxes due and unpaid for the year A.D. 1974. Where the letter "F" is placed to the left of the figures in this column it is intended for an abbreviation of the word "forfeiture," and denotes that the amounts due and unpaid on said lands and lots have been previously forfeited to the State. When back taxes are extended they are indicated by the last segment of the property index number identified by the unit. This unit will be identified by a number 7000 or greater.

Payment of taxes made after printer's copies are sent to publishers for listing, and appearing as delinquent in this advertisement, will be satisfied in judgment records before sale.

In lieu of legal description used heretofore each parcel of land or lot is designated by a permanent real estate index number.

In the permanent real estate index number system, appearing in the column headed "A," the subarea by the number in the column headed "SA," the block by the number appearing in the column headed "Blk," and the particular parcel by the number in the column headed "Pcl."

Comparison of the permanent real estate index number with the legal description of any parcel may be made by referring to the cross indices maintained in County offices.

Alfred A. Eppel & Associates was established for the purpose of assisting both businesses and individuals in identifying financial goals and the attendant problems in achieving these goals.

Paramount to this end has been the creation of a professional staff of Account Executives trained to be analytical in their approach to these problems.

With this professional concept of financial planning, Alfred A. Eppel & Associates has emerged as a forerunner in Comprehensive Estate Planning.

We believe that . . .
. . . everyone has a right to financial independence.
. . . everyone wants to be financially independent.
. . . few people can achieve this independence without careful planning and professional advice.
. . . our primary function is to provide the personal individualized service to achieve those ends.

Be your own keeper.

It would be great if we could protect you and your family from accidents, but all we can do is remind you to take time to be safe. If you want to be your brother's keeper, start with yourself.

National Safety Council

If you don't like thinking about safety, think where you'd be without it.

A reminder from the National Safety Council. A non-profit, non-governmental public service organization. Our only goal is a safer America.

THE CHARM OF CHEESE

Americans can buy about 200 varieties of domestic cheese. Some are called simply, "American," by which most people mean a process cheese made from Cheddar in combination with other ingredients. Cheddar, named after an English town, is the most popular selling cheese in America, accounting for a large per cent of the market. Others have foreign sounding names like Gorgonzola, Camembert, Port du Salut or Brie, but these and many others are American made.

One of the best qualities about cheese is that it's an instant, no-waste food — an important consideration in these economy conscious times. It can be eaten right after purchasing by cutting or slicing without the loss of a crumb.

As a matter of fact, some cheeses are dessert cheeses. They're meant to be eaten as is. Notable examples are Camembert or Brie, Port du Salut or Limburger.

The biggest use for cheese comes in sandwiches. From the popular toasted cheese to the various combinations of Swiss and ham or corned beef, Muenster or Brick with salami or sausage, cheese offers satisfaction and satiety value.

Cheeses can add charm and substance to salads whether it's in strips or cubes for main dish, Julienne or fruit salad. Blue cheese (or the Italian variety, Gorgonzola,) are famous for crumbly quality in green salads.

A whole new dimension has been added to the world of cheese in cooked Italian foods. Mozzarella, Scamorze, Provolone, Parmesan and Romano add their inimitable flavor and texture to pizza, spaghetti, eggplant and a host of other ethnic favorites, fast becoming American hits.

Not to be forgotten is the Swiss cheese that made fondue famous. And, now, of course, fondue uses many other cheeses like Cheddar, Provolone, Brick or Monterey Jack.

Convenience foods: behind the picture

by MONICA WILCH PERIN
and BARBARA LADD

When is a picture not worth a thousand words? When it's on the package of a food product that bears little resemblance to the picture.

In that case, you go to the written word — specifically the ingredient disclosure panel. It can be very revealing, especially if you keep in mind that ingredients are listed in order of predominance.

Using package information, measurement of quantity, observation of appearance and taste by comparison of price, the Herald surveyed frozen pot pies and dinners to determine what consumers are getting for their money when they buy these convenience items, whether the canned, dried or homemade equivalents are better buys.

IN POT PIES, we tested Morton and Stouffer chicken and Swanson and Banquet turkey. (The chicken and turkey pies of any given brand are interchangeable in terms of ingredients and price.)

A comparison of the price and contents of the pies is detailed in the accompanying chart.

The most significant finding was the discrepancy between picture and reality in the Morton pie. While the package displays a succulent-looking pie with three peas showing in one small section, two Morton pies actually contained only one-half and one pea respectively. Fair labeling and packaging regulations of the Food and Drug Administration forbid picturing something that is not in the product.

THE MAIN ingredient in all four pies is water, with Morton, Swanson and Banquet listing broth as the first ingredient and Stouffer's listing water first.

Meat was second or third in all cases.

Stouffer's was the only pie containing milk products.

Morton and Banquet pies list their crust ingredients separately, indicating — if they are following labeling regulations properly — they use a prepared crust mix. Stouffer's and Swanson, however, list such crust ingredients as flour and shortening in order of predominance, indicating they make their own crusts.

Of these pot pies, only Stouffer's appears to make significant nutritional contribution to people's diets.

IDEALLY, one meal should contain approximately one-third of the Department of Agriculture's Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) for all nutrients — including protein and calories.

For protein, probably the most expensive and necessary dietary item, the contents found in Morton, Swanson and Banquet pot pies provided only enough for a small 8 to 10-year-old child, two tablespoons of meat or 13-15 grams, based on the RDA. The Stouffer's protein content was good enough for a medium-sized man, 20 grams.

Because of the small amount of vegetables in the pies, it is dubious that one-third of the required vitamins and minerals could be met for even a young child.

Regarding energy, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, in its handbook "The Nutritive Value of Foods," estimated there are between 400 and 500 calories in any 8-ounce brand of pot pie.

THIS IS A fairly low level considering the RDA suggests a growing child should have 800 calories per meal three times a day, and most adults, unless they are eating an energy-restricted diet, need between 700 and 900 calories every meal three times a day although relatively few people spread their calories that evenly through a day.

The low amount of calories, then, indicates that even with a glass of milk, one pot pie would not be very filling and that some other foods, possibly non-nutritious snacks, likely would be consumed.

At the time of purchase a few weeks ago, the prices for the three 8-ounce pies were as follows: Morton, 25 cents; Swanson, 37 cents; and Banquet, 23 cents. The 10-ounce Stouffer's pot pie cost is 79 cents.

If 8-ounce pot pies were to be made at home, it would cost approximately 42 cents. The Herald's recipe called for one-quarter cup of meat — the same amount as in the Stouffer's pie — and one-quarter cup of peas-and-carrots, 100 per cent more than the best of the brands sampled.

TURKEY PIE

WHAT'S IN A pot pie? You can't always tell by the picture. Morton shows three peas in one small section — but the whole pie contained only half a pea. Pot pies fall far short of TV dinners in nutrition as well as heartiness, though both convenience foods are more expensive than homemade.

It also used one-quarter cup of potatoes, various spices and half the gravy of the frozen pot pies.

TO GET THE necessary one-quarter cup of meat (about 20 grams of protein or one third the RDA) it would take two Morton pot pies (50 cents); one and a third Swanson pies (also 50 cents); two Banquet pies (46 cents) and one Stouffer's or Herald pie.

The cost for protein in all the pies is quite high compared with other sources. Plain turkey, for example, costs only about 19 cents and peanut butter only 13 cents for the same amount of protein. But for many people the convenience may be worth it.

In frozen dinners, Banquet, Morton and Swanson turkey were sampled. All contained four tablespooons of white meat and one tablespoon dark, (except for Morton, which measured only about a teaspoon of dark meat).

Gravy in all the dinners was dark; all listed artificial caramel coloring. The gravy was especially thin but well-seasoned in the Morton dinner.

THE VEGETABLES in all cases were peas and carrots which displayed good appearance and taste. The mashed potatoes were the dehydrated potato-bud variety, and all had reasonable texture. The dressings did not measure in flavor or texture to homemade by any means, but were adequate, except for Banquet's which was mushy.

Swanson, which at 73 cents outprices the other two by about 23 cents, adds only a dab of cranberry sauce to its dinner. Otherwise, it is comparable to the other two — with one exception:

The first Swanson dinner we bought was a mess: frost-covered, shriveled and discolored vegetables, pasty potatoes, freezer burned meat, uncongealed and discolored gravy and mushy dressing. Our second Swanson dinner was nothing like the first one. We concluded the manufacturer was not responsible for the condition of the first dinner.

OTHER LABELING observations: Morton was the only one containing egg and the only one without milk; Swanson did not contain the spices and preservatives which the other two did.

Nutritionally, all the tested turkey dinners were adequate.

If frozen turkey dinners were to be made at home it would cost between 40 and 55 cents, depending upon how many convenience foods were used.

For example, stuffing mix costs a few pennies more than homemade stuffing. Turkey rolls are more expensive than plain turkey, and self-basting turkeys are more expensive than regular turkeys.

In three frozen lasagna entrees there was quite a price variation, although nutritionally all were about equal.

Weight Watchers (13 ounces) cost $1.29; Stouffer's (21 ounces) $1.75; and Holloway House (21 ounces) $1.69. The differences are due, in part to the numbers and kinds of ingredients.

COMPARED TO canned, box mix and homemade versions, the frozen lasagna cost a lot.

Per 10-ounce serving the figures break down as follows: Weight Watcher, $1; Stouffer's, 88 cents; Holloway House, 85 cents; Chef Boy Ar Dee canned, 32 cents; Chef Boy Ar Dee box mix, 32 cents; homemade about 44 cents (depending upon the recipe used homemade could be a bit more or less).

Moreover, prices of the frozen entrees jumped as much as 40 cents during a two-week period, while prices of canned and boxed items remained more stable.

Consumers obviously pay a premium for the convenience of frozen pot pies, dinners and entrees, but they also, in some cases, are sacrificing a significant degrees of nutritional quality by choosing that option.

Holiday cranberries

Cranberry pie is an authentic for Thanksgiving as the more usual pumpkin pie. The Pilgrims are said to have made dough cases for their first harvest festival with dried wild cranberries provided by the Indians.

Hints on eggs

Save leftover scrambled eggs to chop and use in fried rice or as a soup garnish.

Column ends with salads

Mostly for men

by Charles Flynn

This article is the last of the Mostly for Men columns to appear in the Herald.

Colorful gelatin and fruit salads add eye-appeal to holiday meals. Crisp and cool, tjey seem to be perfect companions for roast turkey and dressing or escalloped oysters.

Because they can be made well in advance, these salads also allow the cook a little more leisure and space for preparation of the main dishes. Here's a particularly tasty salad to go with turkey or other fowl.

Dissolve a 3-ounce package of orange gelatin in 1 cup boiling water. Add ½ cup orange juice and chill until slightly thickened. Cut a large orange into quarters, remove seed and put the orange pieces, including rind, through a food chopper.

Add the ground orange, a 16-ounce can of whole cranberry sauce, ½ cup chopped celery, and ¼ cup chopped walnut or pecan meats to the gelatin mixture. Stir well. Turn into a one-quart mold and chill until firm. Dish onto lettuce leaves and top with mayonnaise. Makes 8 servings.

FOR A DIFFERENT and more tangy flavor try this lemon salad mold. Dissolve 3 packages (3 ounces each) lemon gelatin in 3 cups boiling water. Add contents of partially thawed 6-ounce can of frozen lemonade, undiluted, and stir until lemonade is completely melted. Chill until mixture is slightly thickened.

Gradually add the gelatin mixture to 1 cup mayonnaise and mix well. Again chill until slightly thickened. Whip 1 cup heavy cream until stiff, then fold into gelatin. Now chill until firm. Each of 12 servings can be made elegant by topping with a whole fresh strawberry or a chunk of fresh pineapple and fresh mint leaves.

Unusually attractive is Frothy Pear-Lime Ring. Dissolve 2 packages (3-ounce) lime gelatin according to package directions and refrigerate until almost set. Meanwhile, drain a 29-ounce can of pear halves and cut each in half lengthwise. Arrange pears in bottom of a 3-quart ring mold.

In a large mixing bowl, whip partially set gelatin with electric mixer at high speed until thick and foamy. Fold in ½ cup chopped toasted almonds. Pour mixture into the mold, place on a cookie sheet and refrigerate until firmly set. Unmold just before serving. Enough for 12 salads.

Weight Watchers (13 ounces) cost $1.29; Stouffer's (21 ounces) $1.75; and Holloway House (21 ounces) $1.69. The differences are due, in part to the numbers and kinds of ingredients.

COMPARED TO canned, box mix and homemade versions, the frozen lasagna cost a lot.

Per 10-ounce serving the figures break down as follows: Weight Watcher, $1; Stouffer's, 88 cents; Holloway House, 85 cents; Chef Boy Ar Dee canned, 32 cents; Chef Boy Ar Dee box mix, 32 cents; homemade about 44 cents (depending upon the recipe used homemade could be a bit more or less).

Moreover, prices of the frozen entrees jumped as much as 40 cents during a two-week period, while prices of canned and boxed items remained more stable.

Consumers obviously pay a premium for the convenience of frozen pot pies, dinners and entrees, but they also, in some cases, are sacrificing a significant degrees of nutritional quality by choosing that option.

Hints on eggs

Protect slightly crakced eggs with a piece of transparent tape, and use them as soon as possible.

Save leftover scrambled eggs to chop and use in fried rice or as a soup garnish.

Microwave oven cooking is not recommended for boiled, poached or fried eggs because the build-up of pressure in yolks can burst them.

Serve it safely

Three free flyers on safe holiday meals are availble upon request from the Cooperative Extension Service, 11033 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill 60628. They are entitled "Thanksgiving Dinner," "Christmas Dinner" and "New Year's Eve Buffet."

Holiday cranberries

Cranberry pie is an authentic for Thanksgiving as the more usual pumpkin pie. The Pilgrims are said to have made dough cases for their first harvest festival with dried wild cranberries provided by the Indians.

Column ends with salads

by Charles Flynn

This article is the last of the Mostly for Men columns to appear in the Herald.

Colorful gelatin and fruit salads add eye-appeal to holiday meals. Crisp and cool, tjey seem to be perfect companions for roast turkey and dressing or escalloped oysters.

Because they can be made well in advance, these salads also allow the cook a little more leisure and space for preparation of the main dishes. Here's a particularly tasty salad to go with turkey or other fowl.

Dissolve a 3-ounce package of orange gelatin in 1 cup boiling water. Add ½ cup orange juice and chill until slightly thickened. Cut a large orange into quarters, remove seed and put the orange pieces, including rind, through a food chopper.

Add the ground orange, a 16-ounce can of whole cranberry sauce, ½ cup chopped celery, and ¼ cup chopped walnut or pecan meats to the gelatin mixture. Stir well. Turn into a one-quart mold and chill until firm. Dish onto lettuce leaves and top with mayonnaise. Makes 8 servings.

FOR A DIFFERENT and more tangy flavor try this lemon salad mold. Dissolve 3 packages (3 ounces each) lemon gelatin in 3 cups boiling water. Add contents of partially thawed 6-ounce can of frozen lemonade, undiluted, and stir until lemonade is com-slightly thickened.

Gradually add the gelatin mixture to 1 cup mayonnaise and mix well. Again chill until slightly thickened. Whip 1 cup heavy cream until stiff, then fold into gelatin. Now chill until firm. Each of 12 servings can be made elegant by topping with a whole fresh strawberry or a chunk of fresh pineapple and fresh mint leaves.

Unusually attractive is Frothy Pear-Lime Ring. Dissolve 2 packages (3-ounce) lime gelatin according to package directions and refrigerate until almost set. Meanwhile, drain a 29-ounce can of pear halves and cut each in half lengthwise. Arrange pears in bottom of a 3-quart ring mold.

In a large mixing bowl, whip partially set gelatin with electric mixer at high speed until thick and foamy. Fold in ½ cup chopped toasted almonds. Pour mixture into the mold, place on a cookie sheet and refrigerate until firmly set. Unmold just be-

by LOIS SEILER

Without becoming a health food fanatic, Margery Frisbie of Arlington Heights has managed to feed her family nourishing meals with more than satisfactory results. The abundant good health of her eight children and the family's nominal medical and pharmaceutical bills are proof of the importance of a sensible diet, she said.

Incorporating some health food ideas that fit into her family's life style, Margery long ago began to plan nutritional meals. She and her husband Richard, a writer and president of the board of Arlington Heights Memorial Library, agreed they would not force their children to eat everything or to clean their plates. Instead, Margery concentrated on making desserts as nourishing as possible.

SHE ELIMINATED animal fats from her menus, and emphasized good quality in the foods she uses most — milk, eggs, fresh fruit, vegetables, natural cheese, lean meat, fish and chicken.

Through trial and error (admitting that she sometimes had disastrous results), Margery developed some desserts that became family favorites. In both her chocolate chip cookies and spice cake, she uses 100 per cent stone ground wheat flour and wheat germ. Safflower or corn oil, low in saturated fats, is used in place of an animal or vegetable shortening. Thrifty with the chocolate chips, Margery chuckled, "I guarantee one chocolate chip in each cookie."

While she prefers brown sugar, Margery mentioned that granulated sugar can be substituted in the cookies for a crispier texture. She cautions against overbaking, since the wheat flavor gets stronger when overcooked.

Because she is a free lance writer as well as mother of a big family, Margery makes use of every moment and often whips up the cookies while on the telephone.

"I MUST HAVE made millions of cookies this way," she said.

Cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and raisins add zest to Margery's spice cake, which is moist and solid in texture. Here, again, she is conservative with the sweet ingredients, either sprinkling the cake lightly with powdered sugar or spreading on a thin lemon glaze.

Margery doesn't use exotic health foods, and because most granola recipes required ingredients that were difficult and expensive to buy, she devised her own, utilizing ingredients she always has on hand. Crispy and crunchy, it is used as a snack or for a quick lunch with sliced bananas and milk. She also sends it to her children in college and it will keep well in a covered tin.

Realizing that her children occasionally eat "junk" food as most youngsters do, she isn't concerned because they have established good eating habits at home and enjoy nutritional food, which is the mainstay of their diet.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup safflower oil
  or corn oil
3 eggs
2 cups 100% whole wheat stone ground flour
2 cups wheat germ
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 or 3 tablespoons hot water
½ of a small package
  chocolate chips

Cream sugar and oil together. Add eggs and beat well. Gradually beat in remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Do not overbake; cookies should be light golden in color and brown around edges. (They will come out soft and crisp up.)

CRUNCHY and nutritious is the recipe for granola developed by Margery Frisbie, Arlington Heights. She includes whole wheat flour, powdered milk and vegetable oil with the more usual items like rolled oats and honey to make a unique snack for family and friends.

SPICE CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup safflower oil
  or corn oil
3 eggs
2-1/3 cups 100% stone
  ground whole wheat flour
1 cup wheat germ
1 cup nonfat dry milk
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
¾ teaspoon cloves
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup raisins (optional)

Cream sugar and oil together. Add eggs and beat well. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Turn into a greased, 8 by 16-inch pan or two 8 by 8-inch pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or prepare the following lemon glaze.

1 tablespoon butter
  Juice from ½ lemon
¾ cup confectioner's sugar

Beat ingredients together and drizzle over cake. Spread with a spatula.

GRANOLA

5 cups old fashioned
  rolled oats
2 cups 100% stone ground
  whole wheat flour
2 cups powdered milk
2 cups wheat germ
1 cup chopped walnuts
1¼ cups safflower or corn oil
1¼ cups honey

Using two forks, mix together the oats, flour, powdered milk, wheat germ and walnuts. Add oil and toss with forks. Add honey and toss with forks.

Spread in two jelly roll pans and bake 30 minutes at 300 degrees. Stir every 10 minutes to brown evenly. Overall crispness makes granola more desirable. When cool, store in covered tin.

NEW STORE EMPHASIZES TOP NUTRITION

Making every mouthful of food count in providing the nutrients necessary for optimum health and vitality is the emphasis at Sutton's new health food store in the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Both the original store in downtown Des Plaines and Sutton's # 2 in the Plaza carry a full line of vitamin and mineral supplements and a variety of food items such as cereals, whole grains, refrigerated flours, cold-pressed oils, honey, wheat germ, and bran. To help their customers learn more about using these products to boost the nutritive value of the foods they serve, the stores are offering free recipes which are prepared with some of the "health" food items.

In the coffee cake recipe currently available, soy flour is substituted for some of the white flour in the recipe, thereby increasing the protein value; honey is substituted for the granulated sugar; wheat germ and bran used in the topping. The idea is to show how the food value of favorite recipes can be increased by simple substitutions or additions.

Both stores also carry many "snack" items which please children and "brown-baggers."

The new Mount Prospect store, at Rand and Central, will be managed by Donna Petzing, a member of The National Health Federation.

American tradition

Apple pie honors autumn

While it may sound fancy, Apple Custard Pie is simple and quick to make. And with the plentiful supply of apples this year it makes a perfect seasonal dessert.

APPLE CUSTARD PIE

1 cup flour
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1/3 cup soft butter
1/3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups peeled sliced tart apples
1 egg yolk
½ cup whipping cream
½ cup chopped nuts

Combine flour, brown sugar, salt and baking powder. Cut in butter. Press into bottom and up sides of 8 or 9-inch pie pan. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Place half of apples in pan. Sprinkle with half of cinnamon-sugar mixture. Repeat layers. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Blend egg yolk and cream. Sprinkle nuts over apples. Carefully pour cream over apples. Bake an additional 20 to 25 minutes or until custard is set and apples are tender. Cool to room temperature to serve. Serve with Cheddar cheese, whipped cream or ice cream, if desired. Refrigerate leftovers. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

½ of a small package
chocolate chips

Cream sugar and oil together. Add eggs and beat well. Gradually beat in remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Do not overbake; cookies should be light golden in color and brown around edges. (They will come out soft and crisp up.)

SPICE CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup safflower oil
or corn oil
3 eggs
2-1/3 cups 100% stone
ground whole wheat flour
1 cup wheat germ
1 cup nonfat dry milk
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
¾ teaspoon cloves
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup raisins (optional)

CRUNCHY and nutritious is the recipe for granola developed by Margery Frisbie, Arlington Heights. She includes whole wheat flour, powdered milk and vegetable oil with the more usual items like rolled oats and honey to make a unique snack for family and friends.

Cream sugar and oil together. Add eggs and beat well. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Turn into a greased, 8 by 16-inch pan or two 8 by 8-inch pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or prepare the following lemon glaze.

1 tablespoon butter
Juice from ½ lemon
¾ cup confectioner's sugar

Beat ingredients together and drizzle over cake. Spread with a spatula.

GRANOLA

5 cups old fashioned rolled oats
2 cups 100% stone ground
whole wheat flour
2 cups powdered milk
2 cups wheat germ
1 cup chopped walnuts
1¼ cups safflower or corn oil
1¼ cups honey

Using two forks, mix together the oats, flour, powdered milk, wheat germ and walnuts. Add oil and toss with forks. Add honey and toss with forks.

Spread in two jelly roll pans and bake 30 minutes at 300 degrees. Stir every 10 minutes to brown evenly. Overall crispness makes granola more desirable. When cool, store in covered tin.

American tradition

Apple pie honors autumn

While it may sound fancy, Apple Custard Pie is simple and quick to make. And with the plentiful supply of apples this year it makes a perfect seasonal dessert.

APPLE CUSTARD PIE

1 cup flour
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1/3 cup soft butter
1/3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups peeled sliced tart apples
1 egg yolk
½ cup whipping cream
½ cup chopped nuts

Combine flour, brown sugar, salt and baking powder. Cut in butter. Press into bottom and up sides of 8 or 9-inch pie pan. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Place half of apples in pan. Sprinkle with half of cinnamon-sugar mixture. Repeat layers. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Blend egg yolk and cream. Sprinkle nuts over apples. Carefully pour cream over apples. Bake an additional 20 to 25 minutes or until custard is set and apples are tender. Cool to room temperature to serve. Serve with Cheddar cheese, whipped cream or ice cream, if desired. Refrigerate leftovers. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

NEW STORE EMPHASIZES TOP NUTRITION

Making every mouthful of food count in providing the nutrients necessary for optimum health and vitality is the emphasis at Sutton's new health food store in the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Both the original store in downtown Des Plaines and Sutton's # 2 in the Plaza carry a full line of vitamin and mineral supplements and a variety of food items such as cereals, whole grains, refrigerated flours, cold-pressed oils, honey, wheat germ, and bran. To help their customers learn more about using these products to boost the nutritive value of the foods they serve, the stores are offering free recipes which are prepared with some of the "health" food items.

In the coffee cake recipe currently available, soy flour is substituted for some of the white flour in the recipe, thereby increasing the protein value; honey is substituted for the granulated sugar; wheat germ and bran used in the topping. The idea is to show how the food value of favorite recipes can be increased by simple substitutions or additions.

Both stores also carry many "snack" items which please children and "brown-baggers."

Sutton's at 1425 Ellinwood has been in downtown Des Plaines for nineteen years and is the oldest health food store in the Northwest suburbs.

The new Mount Prospect store, at Rand and Central, will be managed by Donna Petzing, a member of The National Health Federation.

A new secret cookbook

Chicago's Chef Louis talks about his career

by BARBARA LADD

The Chicago area's well known Chef Louis Szathmary recently had his newest cookbook published. Called "The Chef's New Secret Cookbook" (Henry Regnery Company, $9.95), it contains 284 pages of his recipes supplemented by "Chef's Secrets."

"All a person has to know is under the 'Chef's Secrets,' said Chef Louis, owner of The Bakery restaurant in Chicago. "You need the general rules to know how to cook, but you want them while you're cooking — not in some other section of the book."

His secrets range from what to serve for dinner to what to do when the cupboard is empty of half the ingredients called for in the recipe. And over all, his secrets, as well as his recipes, are good.

In an interview at Arlington Heights while autographing copies of his book for culinary admirers, he talked of his unique background as a cook, marriage counselor and journalist.

"MY HEART was with food," said the rotund Hungarian-born chef. "But I got a degree in journalism and in psychology." The army made him use his degrees instead of his love of cooking, he explained.

The journalism training is evident in the clarity of the cookbook, but how do marriage counseling and cooking relate?

"Both are about things important that no one knows anything about," he chuckled.

But Chef Louis must know a little about cooking to formulate a cookbook. "Many of the recipes are absolutely my own," he said.

He explained the complicated process of deciding which recipes he uses in his books.

FIRST, HE makes the dish in his test kitchen while a home economist he employes writes down the ingredients and process.

Then she makes the recipe by herself, changing it somewhat if necessary.

An employe in The Bakery is next to try cooking the dish, and, if success seems imminent for the recipe, it undergoes one last test. A guest from the Bakery is chosen to prepare the dish. And the person is selected only because he or she seldom (if ever) cooks.

"After all that I'm very secure I'm not giving out a nuisance cookbook," said the Chef.

THE BOOK is aimed at low and middle income people, younger in age, who "of course" like to cook, he explained. But he appears to have missed the economic aspect almost totally, including mostly expensive varieties of meats, poultry, cheese, vegetables and wines in his recipes.

However, his section on vegetables has quite a few pleasers for vegetarians and imagination in all the book's sections is evident.

Pears sink into salad

A colorful, two-layered combination fruit salad is always in vogue. One made with fresh seedless grapes and pears offers a refreshing tart-sweet dish that goes well with heavier dishes normally served during the wintry months, no matter the climate.

SINK AND SWIM SALAD

2 packages (3 ounces each) lime-flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1½ cups cold water
1/3 cup Creme de Menthe or mint-flavored liquer
3 small ripe pears, halved, peeled and cored
2½ cups California seedless grapes

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and Creme de Menthe. Chill until slightly thickened. Arrange pear havles in deep 9-inch round or square pan. Pour gelatin over pears and pat grapes firmly over surface. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with mayonnaise or sour cream, if desired. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

American heritage

Book reveals first wine lover

by RICK DU BROW

Discovery of an obscure French book has resulted in a bicentennial tribute to Thomas Jefferson as the foremost wine connoisseur of early America.

The tribute is an exhibit at the San Francisco Wine Museum, whose director accidentally came across the slim volume about Jefferson's expertise on vineyards.

The book, "La Viticulture," offers a collection of Jefferson's extraordinarily detailed journals about wine country he visited while American minister to Paris in 1787 and 1788.

Astounded by the knowledge he revealed, museum director Ernest Mittelberger and exhibit designer Robert Johnson embarked on a detective-like study of the subject through books and travel.

"JEFFERSON liked wine when he went to Paris," Mittelberger said in an interview. "But when he came back, he was the leading American authority on wine.

"What is equally amazing is that in later letters trying to describe to wine suppliers in Europe what he wanted, he helped create a vocabulary of wine terms still in use today."

Mittelberger said his detective work disclosed that Jefferson not only took copious notes about the European vineyards, "but even about how much people got paid and their working conditions.

"And when he became President, he had a magnificant wine cellar which he dug under the presidential residence.

"He had the rare gift of combining culture with practicality."

This rare man — lawyer, architect, philosopher, scientist, musician — set out from Paris for the French vineyards in 1787 en route to a spa to help speed the healing of a broken wrist.

THE MINERAL waters at the spa did nothing for his wrist, so he moved on through France, and even northern Italy, studying wines and taking notes for three months. In 1788, following a diplomatic conference in Amsterdam, he took a circuitous route back to Paris, through Holland, Germany and the Campagne district of France.

On his return from Paris, Jefferson was sought out by many of America's founding fathers for his expertise on the purchase and producing of wine.

These included President George Washington, whom he served as Secretary of State, and, later, President James Monroe.

Though he was an expert on European wines, Jefferson's diaries and correspondence show his importance in promoting efforts to produce excellent American brands as well.

"We could, in the United States, make as great a variety of wines as are made in Europe, not exactly of the same kinds, but doubtless as good," he wrote in 1808.

AND, IN AN 1822 letter to one John Adlum of Georgetown on the Potomac, he said. "I presume you know that a wine of remarkable merit is made in considerable quantities in a district of N. Carolina on Scuppernon creek. This wine, when it can be obtained unbrandied would be drunk at the first tables of Europe in competition with their best wines."

Jefferson had a vineyard at his home, Monticello.

"Good wine is a necessity of life for me," he wrote.

Jefferson advocated moderate drinking of wine throughout his lifetime. At age 72, he wrote: "I have lived temperately . . . I double, however, the Doctor's glass and a half of wine, and even treble it with a friend; but halve its effects by drinking the weak wines only."

Prudent penny pinching encompasses meat pie

Very English Shepherd's Pie

The English always have been known for their frugality. And, a shepherd's pie with its mixture of leftover beef or lamb, surrounded or topped with mashed potatoes and baked a golden brown certainly is a way to stretch pennies. This is a complete meal when served with a lettuce or fruit salad.

VERY ENGLISH SHEPHERD'S PIE

2 tablespoons beef drippings or salad oil
½ cup chopped onion
1½ pounds ground lean beef
1 can (8 ounce) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon original Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons water
1 envelope instant mashed potatoes or 3 cups mashed potatoes

In a large skillet heat drippings. Add onion; saute for 1 minute. Add ground beef. Cook and stir until browned, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce, Worcestershire sauce, parsley and salt. Bring to boiling point. Blend flour with water. Blend into beef mixture. Cook and stir until mixture thickens slightly, about one minute. Pour into 1 to 1½-quart casserule; set aside.

Prepare mashed potatoes as label directs. Spread over beef mixture. Score top of potatoes with tines of fork. Bake in a preheated 400 degree oven until potatoes are lightly browned, about 10 minutes. Makes 6 portions.

Women gather to learn tradition and tricks of Arab bread making

CUSTOMS AND tradition are two of the main ingredients in making Arab (Syrian) bread. Hanan Hammad, left, from Palatine instructs Geraldine Tadros, Roselle, in a bread-making demonstration for the area Arab-American Women's Club.

The result was a loaf of bread eight inches in diameter, one-half inch thick at the edge. But making it was a long process for members of the area Arab-American Women's Club.

Last month the club held a nearly day-long bread-making demonstration in the home of Hanan Hammad, Palatine. She taught the women how to make Arab (or Syrian as it is called in this country) bread.

"You knead, knead and knead and work the dough until you're tired," said Merilyn Shaw, Arlington Heights, a member of the club. "But I think I learned how to bake it."

ABOUT 11 PEOPLE attended the demonstration. "Most of us had not made it and wanted to learn how," she said.

The hardest part of the bread-making for many of the women was shaping the loaf, into the circle, said Mrs. Shaw. "Rolling it out was almost impossible at first," she said.

The ingredients for Syrian bread are not much different from other breads, but tradition and habit have developed a custom to bread-making. And it's a custom learned by several women who never had the opportunity to experience it before.

American heritage

by RICK DU BROW

Discovery of an obscure French book has resulted in a bicentennial tribute to Thomas Jefferson as the foremost wine connoisseur of early America.

The tribute is an exhibit at the San Francisco Wine Museum, whose director accidentally came across the slim volume about Jefferson's expertise on vineyards.

The book, "La Viticulture," offers a collection of Jefferson's extraordinarily detailed journals about wine country he visited while American minister to Paris in 1787 and 1788.

Astounded by the knowledge he revealed, museum director Ernest Mittelberger and exhibit designer Robert Johnson embarked on a detective-like study of the subject through books and travel.

"JEFFERSON liked wine when he went to Paris," Mittelberger said in an interview. "But when he came back, he was the leading American authority on wine.

"What is equally amazing is that in later letters trying to describe to wine suppliers in Europe what he wanted, he helped create a vocabulary of wine terms still in use today."

Mittelberger said his detective work disclosed that Jefferson not only took copious notes about the European vineyards, "but even about how much people got paid and their working conditions.

"And when he became President, he had a magnificant wine cellar which he dug under the presidential residence.

"He had the rare gift of combining culture with practicality."

This rare man — lawyer, architect, philosopher, scientist, musician — set out from Paris for the French vineyards in 1787 en route to a spa to help speed the healing of a broken wrist.

THE MINERAL waters at the spa did nothing for his wrist, so he moved on through France, and even northern Italy, studying wines and taking notes for three months. In 1788, following a diplomatic conference in Amsterdam, he took a circuitous route back to Paris, through Holland, Germany and the Campagne district of France.

On his return from Paris, Jefferson was sought out by many of America's founding fathers for his expertise on the purchase and producing of wine.

These included President George Washington, whom he served as Secretary of State, and, later, President James Monroe.

Though he was an expert on European wines, Jefferson's diaries and correspondence show his importance in promoting efforts to produce excellent American brands as well.

"We could, in the United States, make as great a variety of wines as are made in Europe, not exactly of the same kinds, but doubtless as good," he wrote in 1808.

AND, IN AN 1822 letter to one John Adlum of Georgetown on the Potomac, he said. "I presume you know that a wine of remarkable merit is made in considerable quantities in a district of N. Carolina on Scuppernon creek. This wine, when it can be obtained unbrandied would be drunk at the first tables of Europe in competition with their best wines."

Jefferson had a vineyard at his home, Monticello.

"Good wine is a necessity of life for me," he wrote.

Jefferson advocated moderate drinking of wine throughout his lifetime. At age 72, he wrote: "I have lived temperately . . . I double, however, the Doctor's glass and a half of wine, and even treble it with a friend; but halve its effects by drinking the weak wines only."

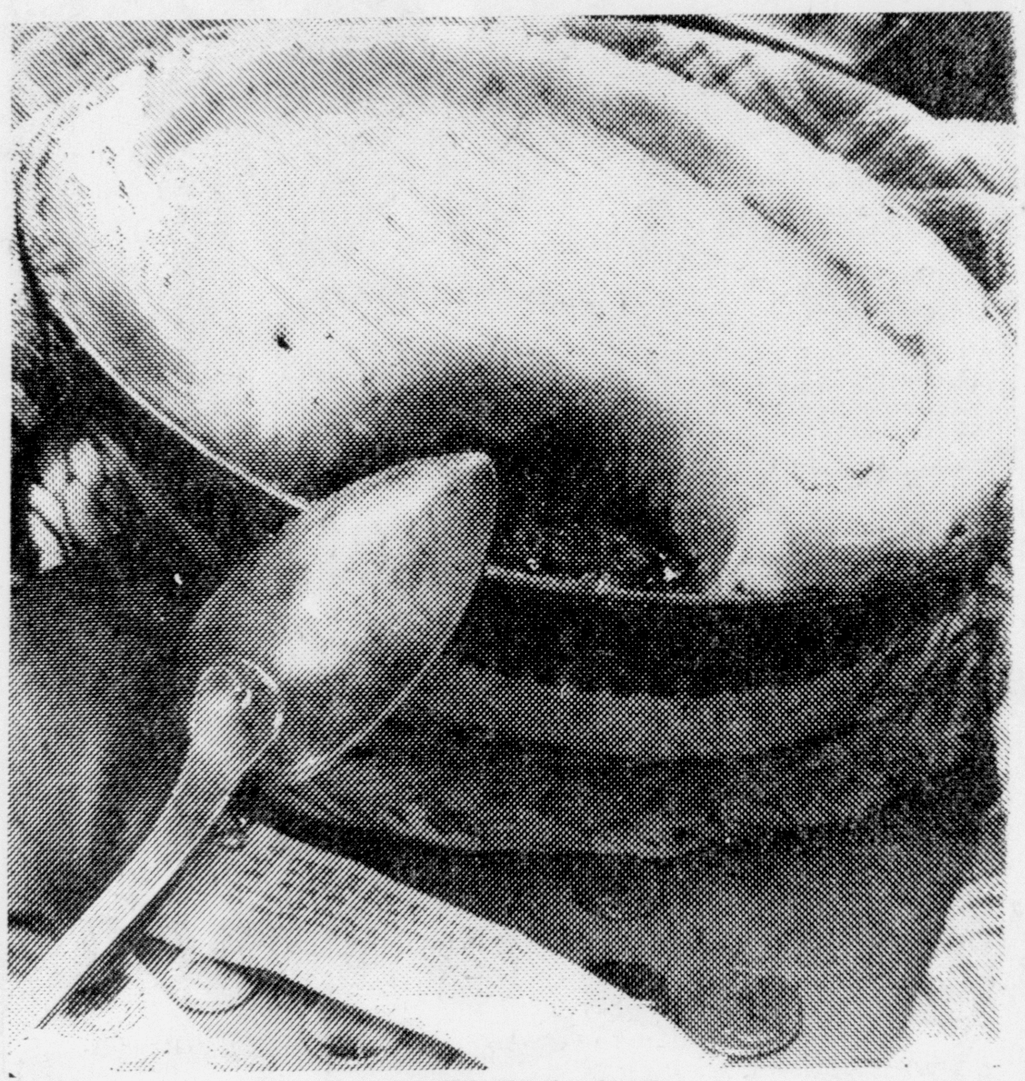
Prudent penny pinching encompasses meat pie



Very English Shepherd's Pie

The English always have been known for their frugality. And, a shepherd's pie with its mixture of leftover beef or lamb, surrounded or topped with mashed potatoes and baked a golden brown certainly is a way to stretch pennies. This is a complete meal when served with a lettuce or fruit salad.

VERY ENGLISH SHEPHERD'S PIE

2 tablespoons beef drippings or salad oil
½ cup chopped onion
1½ pounds ground lean beef
1 can (8 ounce) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon original Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons water
1 envelope instant mashed potatoes or 3 cups mashed potatoes

In a large skillet heat drippings. Add onion; saute for 1 minute. Add ground beef. Cook and stir until browned, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce, Worcestershire sauce, parsley and salt. Bring to boiling point. Blend flour with water. Blend into beef mixture. Cook and stir until mixture thickens slightly, about one minute. Pour into 1 to 1½-quart casserule; set aside.

Prepare mashed potatoes as label directs. Spread over beef mixture. Score top of potatoes with tines of fork. Bake in a preheated 400 degree oven until potatoes are lightly browned, about 10 minutes. Makes 6 portions.

For older people

Money wasted on vitamins

BY THE EDITORS OF CONSUMER REPORTS
(Second in a series)

If you eat a varied, well-balanced diet that includes fresh foods, there should be no need to be concerned about deficiencies in your diet or to spend money on vitamin supplements.

The varied diet discussed in "Eating Right for Less" can provide you with all the essential nutrients vital to good health. Consumers Union's medical consultants believe that you should take vitamin and mineral supplements only if a physician advises you to do so.

Geritol, which has been widely touted on television and radio, is an example of a vitamin supplement that, in the opinion of a Consumers Union's medical consultants, is of no special value to older people. Geritol contains many vitamins plus iron, all of which you can obtain in sufficient quantities if you eat a variety of foods.

ALSO UNNECESSARY as a dietary supplement is vitamin E, often promoted as capable of restoring, among other things, youth and lost vigor. The truth is that when taken as a supplement, vitamin E is superfluous. Consumers Union's medical consultants know of no convincing evidence to show that even large doses of vitamin E affect sexuality, stamina or baldness; improve heart functioning; or stop aging. And the small amounts you do need can easily be found in a balanced diet of ordinary foods.

If your doctor should prescribe vitamin or mineral supplements, you need not pay extra for so-called natural products. Vitamins and minerals supposedly derived from natural sources — such as alfalfa, rose hips, kelp and garlic — are no better for the body and are, in fact, no different from vitamins and minerals prepared in a pharmaceutical laboratory.

THERE HAVE been a lot of questions raised about "health," "organic" or "natural" foods — foods supposedly grown without use of chemical fertilizers or made without preservatives or additives. Consumers Union's medical consultants know of no proved health benefits provided by such foods. Nutritious food is available in ordinary grocery stores and can be purchased by careful shoppers who know what to look for. Consumers Union's suggestions about diet ensure that your nutritional requirements will be met without recourse to "health" foods, which are often high-priced.
